PATRIOTISM WAS THE THEME TREATED

Interesting Lecture by Rev. James Moffitt, of St. John's Church.

LAST OF THE COLLEGE SERIES

Various Types of Patriots Described and the True Patriot Distinguished by Contrast with Men Who Were Not Moved by a Patriotic Spirit.

At St. Thomas' College hall, last night, the last of the series of five lectures arranged by Rev. D. J. MacGulbrick, was given before what could be termed a good sized audience.

His treatment of this oft repeated subject was original and interesting and he delivered it in a manner that held the close attention of the audience from the beginning to the end.

After going at length into the philosophy of the subject and arguing on the necessity of studying patriotism generally for the example it teaches, the lecturer proceeded to depict by some very true comparisons some of the most exemplary types of patriotism.

Washington was pointed out as a model of the true patriot and then with some of his deeds, such as his magnanimous treatment of the vanquished Cornwallis, his refusal to accept a third term as president was compared with the claims of Cromwell in Ireland and the vaulting selfish ambition of Napoleon.

The battlefield, he contended, was not the only opportunity for displaying patriotism. Nothing more sublimely patriotic could be imagined than the clause in the constitution of the United States granting to all people the right to worship God as they pleased—a clause suggested by Charles Carroll and insisted upon by Catholic Maryland.

Touching upon the know-nothingism of today the reverend speaker remarked that the valor, the patriotism and the devotedness of the Catholic soldier in the war for independence had never been questioned by the commanders of the American armies and he hoped and trusted it would not soon be forgotten by the American people.

WHY WE LOST THE CLUB.

John H. Brooks made a statement at Buffalo Meeting.

The following in relation to the Scranton and Wilkes-Barre franchises and the sale of the former to Rochester at Monday's meeting in Buffalo, is from yesterday's Buffalo Express:

The first thing considered was the reported sale of the Scranton franchise to Rochester. John H. Brooks, a brother of T. B. Brooks, the secretary and treasurer of the Scranton club, made a statement explaining why he and his associates felt compelled to give up the franchise.

We went into the business not expecting to make a single penny out of the venture and would have been perfectly satisfied if we had come out even. By the time we had made a profit of $10,000 a year, while neither myself nor my associates are millionaires or have money to throw at the birds, all of us have other businesses out of which we make our living and are not dependent on the game for our income.

HE HAD NO SCAR.

Colored Murder Suspect at Police Headquarters Was Released.

The colored man who was suspected at police headquarters of being the original of the photograph of a murderer was released yesterday. As mentioned in The Tribune, the man was given lodging Monday night. Detective John W. Moir saw him and the striking resemblance of the fellow's face to a photograph of Charles Woodley, who murdered a man in Chicago, caused the investigation.

MRS. PARFREY'S SON.

Board of Charities Decides to Have Him Returned to the Custody of His Mother.

Last August a boy, eight years old, was taken from his mother, Mrs. E. P. Parfrey, because, it was alleged, she was not bringing him up in the right way, and she herself, it was charged, was guilty of setting an example wholly unfit for the young idea.

The board decided quickly. It is not the mission of the representative body of Scranton charity to persecute Mrs. Parfrey had been punished sufficiently, so the board, struck by the evident earnestness of the mother, resolved to give back the boy.

As soon as the board's attorney and Mrs. Duggan, the agent, can secure the necessary papers, little Johnnie Parfrey will find himself not at the Home for the Friendless, but in the home of his mother.

The story of Mrs. Parfrey's arrest on the charge of being an unfit person to care for her child was told in the morning's Tribune following the hearing before Alderman Millar.

END OF THE SUIT AGAINST GRANT

The Proceeding Brought to Recover Ten Thousand Dollars For a Kiss.

DECLARATION WAS NOT FILED

Mrs. Emma May Radish Failed to Follow Up the Suit She Commenced Against Sanford Grant and on That Ground Judgment for the Defendant Was Demanded and Granted.

The suit of Emma May Radish against Sanford Grant was yesterday non-prossed by court on motion of Willard, Warren & Knapp, attorneys for the defendant.

This is the ten-thousand-dollars-for-a-kiss suit which caused somewhat of a sensation about this time last year.

While her husband was away one day in the early part of January, 1937, Grant, she alleged, met her accidentally in an upstairs corridor of the hotel and after exchanging a few common place remarks, seized her forcibly and kissed her against her will.

On the return of her husband she instituted suit for $10,000 damages. Grant claimed that it was a black-maling scheme and engaging attorneys prepared to do battle.

The last heard of the case until yesterday when the defendant took advantage of the plaintiff's failure to file a declaration within the specified time and secured judgment by default.

TOWNSHIP IN BAD STRAITS.

Supervisors of Lackawanna Sued Because They Could Not Cash Orders.

Attorney Ralph L. Levy acting for the Economy Furniture company, yesterday petitioned court to grant a writ of alternative mandamus to compel P. J. Quinn and Frank Poole, supervisors of Lackawanna township to cash orders amounting to $55.25, which have been assigned to the company and which it has been unable to cash.

The township has thousands of dollars of these uncashed orders outstanding and they can be readily bought for fifty cents on the dollar.

to be an adjournment than a verdict. County Detective Layton has been aggressively at work on the case. He was in Olyphant last night, but secured no evidence warranting the arrest of any person on suspicion of committing the foul play.

Coroner Longstreet, in his testimony to the jury, will say that the autopsy revealed certain signs of violence. Cafferty was buried yesterday morning in St. Patrick's cemetery, Olyphant.

AND A WIDOWER AT THAT.

Young White Girl and Forty Year-Old Colored Man Get a License.

George Washington Wheeler, a colored man of very decided color, and Carrie Viola Saxe, a white girl of the blonde type of beauty, were granted a marriage license yesterday morning by Clerk of the Courts Daniels.

They are both residents of Glen Tannery, Luzerne county. The groom has been a widower since August, 1932, and gave his age at forty years. The girl says she is a native of Scranton and that she is twenty-nine years of age.

JUDGE PURDY IS HERE.

Presided Over the Trial of a Case in Common Pleas Court Yesterday—The Ehrgood Case.

Judge George S. Purdy came over from Honesdale yesterday and opened a common pleas session in the superior court room. He was given the only case open for trial, that of the Onandaga Dynamo company against the National Elevator works.

The former company is located in Syracuse; the latter in Honesdale, being composed chiefly of Scranton men, Judge Hand being president; J. S. McNulty, secretary, and W.W. Woods, general manager.

The elevator company gave the dynamo company an order for a ten-horse-power dynamo in February, 1935. It was shipped after being treated but upon being put in place failed to do the work required, so the defendant company claims. The plaintiff company resists payment on the ground that the machine is not what is called for in the contract. The testimony was all in at adjourning time and the case will go to the jury this morning.

S. Diehl represents the plaintiff and C. H. Welles the defendant.

The case of E. J. Ehrgood against the Mescow Water company occupied all of yesterday before Judge Archbald in court room No. 2, and will likely take up another day or two. The line of defense is that the water company's reservoir does not diminish the natural flow of the stream to any appreciable extent, but simply stores water collected in time of freshets. It is also being shown that the mill of the plaintiff had to shut down frequently because of lack of water in the stream, even before the dam was built.
