Angus Campbell Seriously Injured in the Marvin Mine.

THE FUNERAL OF JAMES GYNN

Requiem Mass was Celebrated in Holy Rosary Church--Three Men Arrested on the Charge of Conducting Spunk-Easies--Fender Probably Saved a Boy's Life--Programme That Will be Observed in a Number of Churches Tomorrow.

Angus Campbell, a miner, was seriously injured in the Marvin mine yesterday morning. He had made ready a charge and ignited a fuse, and as it customary went to a place of safety. Not hearing the blast he decided that the fuse had died out, and went back to the face of the chamber. He had scarcely reached the place when the charge went off with terrific force. Flying pieces of coal struck him in the face and chest severely injuring him. He was taken to his home on Marion street. Dr. Bessey was called but could not definitely determine whether his injuries will be fatal.

FUNERAL OF JAMES GYNN.

The funeral of James Gynn, who met such a tragic death Monday night, was held yesterday morning from his late home on Burnett street. The remains were taken to the Holy Rosary church where a solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. J. J. O'Toole, assisted by Rev. N. J. McManus, as deacon, and the Rev. P. J. Linnitt, as sub-deacon. The pallbearers were: Patrick Cavanaugh, Jeremiah Fitzsimmons, William J. Gallagher, P. McCabe, Peter Neame and Stephen O'Connor. The funeral procession was one of the largest seen in this place for some time. Interment was made in Hyde Park Catholic cemetery.

FENDER WAS USEFUL.

The Scranton Traction fender proved a life savor yesterday morning. While an inbound Peckville car in charge of Morfman Foy, was nearing the square a youth stood directly in its path seemingly unmindful of the car's approach. The motorman failed to notice the boy until the fender struck him and threw him safely into the scroop. The car was quickly brought to a standstill and the boy was removed little the worse for his experience save for a rash on the forehead. He refused to give his name.

ALLEGED SPEAK-EASIES.

John Neary, Thomas Hoban and Michael Durkin, alleged proprietors of speak-easies in the First ward, were arraigned before Alderman Fidler last evening. The arrests were made by Constable Seth Smith, on complaint of T. H. C. Maloney. The defendants retained as their counsel Michael Walsh, and in answer to the charge pleaded not guilty. They were held in $500 bail each for their appearance at court.

Albert Royal Seriously Injured While Coasting on Garfield Avenue.

MANY TRIBUTES OF RESPECT

Funeral of John Williams Was Very Largely Attended -- Pickwickians Held a Very Interesting Meeting at the Home of William T. Burall. Christian Endeavor Social at the Residence of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Roberts--Personal and Otherwise.

Albert, the 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Royal, of North Garfield avenue, lies at the home of his parents suffering from a nearly complete fracture of the skull. The accident occurred shortly after 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon while the injured lad was coasting on the Garfield avenue hill. He, with others, was enjoying themselves immensely by coasting down Garfield avenue toward Jackson street, starting at a point above Price street. The grade is quite steep and one goes down with a dash. Albert went, and had almost reached Jackson street when a heavy coal wagon drove across the intersection of the two streets, striking the boy on the head. He lay there unconscious for some time, his companions thinking he was "only foinin'". A passerby tried to rouse him, and discovered his condition. The boy was taken home and a physician at once had work brought him back to consciousness. He will recover.

FUNERAL OF JOHN WILLIAMS.

The funeral of the late John Williams was held yesterday afternoon from the residence, 108 Tenth street, and the remains were laid at rest in the Washburn street cemetery, with respect and with which the deceased was regarded was evidenced by the large concourse of people who viewed the remains yesterday morning, and the number who attended the services and accompanied the remains to the cemetery. The remains lay in a handsome broad-chest coffin in the parlor of the residence, and strewn upon and about it were the numerous and exquisite floral tributes from ladies, friends and relatives. Rev. David Jones, of the First Methodist church, presided, officiated, and preached the funeral sermon. He was assisted by Rev. J. B. Sweet, pastor of the Simpson Methodist church. The selections were rendered by a quartet. The Hyde Park lodge, No. 329, Free and Accepted Masons, was present in a body. At the conclusion of the services, the remains were borne to the cemetery, where the Masonic burial service was carried out, at which Rev. J. B. Sweet officiated. The pallbearers were selected from the lodge and were: William H. Williams, William C. Williams, Richard Nichols, B. G. Morgans, Clem Marsh, sr., and Evan J. Davis. AMERICAN LITERATURE.

The bi-weekly meeting of the Pickwickians was held last evening at the home of William T. Burall, 1504 Price street, and despite the storm a majority of the members were in attendance. President C. H. Hall acted as chairman, and the main topic of interest was the "Early American Literature." The first paper was read by W. T. Burall, and was an intelligent outline of the "Influence of English Literature Upon American Literature During the Revolutionary Period in America." Miss Mary Daniels, a largely prepared paper on "The Hartford Wits, Who They Were and the Style of Their Productions." "The Christian," Hall Calne's novel, came in for a clever review by Miss Mabel Yost, who fully appreciated how well Mrs. Calne's character in her carefully prepared paper upon "The Hartford Wits, Who They Were and the Style of Their Productions." "The Christian," Hall Calne's novel, came in for a clever review by Miss Mabel Yost, who fully appreciated how well Mrs. Calne's character in her carefully prepared paper upon "The Hartford Wits, Who They Were and the Style of Their Productions." The twelve questions bearing upon the evening's programme as asked by Miss Ethel Peck, brought out several original answers. The exercises were wound up with a general discussion of the "American Literature." The next meeting will be held at the home of Miss Anna Broadbent, of Lafayette street, Friday evening, Feb. 10.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR SOCIAL.

The members of the Christian Endeavor society of the Sumner Avenue Presbyterian church gathered at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Roberts, 325 North Hyde Park avenue, last evening and enjoyed an entertainment and social. Rev. L. R. Foster, M. A., pastor of the church, presided. The exercises were opened with a song by the members. Mrs. L. R. Foster sang, and Miss Francis Budd played a piano duet. The remainder of the evening passed in the pleasures of social intercourse. At a reasonable hour light refreshments were served by Mrs. John H. Roberts. The funds obtained by these monthly socials is placed in the society's treasury.

Quinn; vice-president, Patrick Keegan; recording secretary, Michael Gerry; financial secretary, Dominick Curran; treasurer, James Connolly; board of directors: Messrs. John McLane, M. F. Gerrity, M. HAPPENINGS OF SOUTH SCRANTON

Many of the Suits Against the C. R. R. of N. J. Will be Settled.

THOSE WHO HAVE SO AGREED

South Side Tourist Club Gave an Excellent Entertainment in St. John's Hall--Juniors of the Y. W. C. A. Presented a Good Programme. Street Commissioner Repairing the Culvert on Pittston Avenue Near Willow Street--Minor Notes.

The indications point to an early and amicable settlement of all of the nineteen trespass suits now pending against the Central Railroad of New Jersey. These actions were brought by property owners and tenants residing between South Washington avenue and the river south of the Roaring Brook to recover damages for injury done by the floods of December, 1926. It is held that the railroad company is responsible for the flooding because it obstructed the channel of the river and caused the water to rise until it overflowed the banks and flooded the properties on the low lands adjoining the river. One batch of suits against the company for the flooding was settled about five years ago and for some time past arrangements have been actively in progress for a settlement of the pending suits. As announced in yesterday's Tribune the plaintiffs in the suits held a meeting in Central Park garden. As a result of that meeting it is announced that the following have decided to settle with the company: Thomas P. Malloy, of Second street; Frank Yicus, a resident of Poat; Mrs. Catharine Rempe, of South Washington avenue; Jacob Klein, of South Washington avenue; Mrs. Mary Weirich, of South Washington avenue; Adolph Weirich, of South Washington avenue; Joseph Schultz, of South Wyoming avenue; Charles Kullman, of South Wyoming avenue. The sums for which these plaintiffs compromised will be paid over to them in a few days by ex-judge E. N. Willard, the attorney for the company.

LINE ENTERTAINMENT.

The South Side Tourist club members royally entertained their many friends last evening at St. John's hall. James Riely, president of the club, presided and the early part of the evening was passed in the enjoyment of an excellent literary programme. The exercises opened with an orature by the Forest hand. Declarations were given by Thomas Handley and William Gilroy. James O'Rourke danced and Messrs. Kelly and Phibbin gave a song and dance sketch. The foot-ballo trio gave a turn, which was heartily enjoyed. Recitations were given by the Misses Anna McGuinness and Kate Rafferty. Solos were rendered by the Misses Agnes Coyne and Mammie Cook, and John Kretick. Thomas Walsh rendered a short series of clever optical sketches. Miss Catherine and James Craig played a piano duet. Messrs. Elder and Steinbach gave an exhibition of club swinging, and a selection by the popular Tennis quartette brought the exercises to a close. The remainder of the evening was passed in the pleasure of dancing to music furnished by the Forest band.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

The re-echoing sounds of hilarious mirth which were wafted on the crisp evening air last Monday in the vicinity of South Wyoming avenue, emanated from the residence of Augustus A. Hans, whose numerous friends were assembled in commemoration of the young gentleman's nineteenth birthday. The reception of the Banner Advertising company, which, by the way, is the finest of its kind in the city, was brought into prominence by the indeed was the part it enacted in the entertainment, under the direction of J. B. Harrington, of the aforesaid company. The programme opened by a grand chorus of forty voices, led by J. P. Murray, who rendered the national anthem "America." In accents sweet and clear James F. Whelan sang "On the Banks of the Wash-ash." Following this was an illustrated lec-

HE SUCCEEDED.

Not long after Lincoln's election to the presidency, he was in his office in the old state house in Springfield, when a tall, lank countryman put his head into the door and asked to see Mr. Lincoln. He was from Kansas, he explained, and with his family was going back to Indiana. He had voted for Mr. Lincoln, and wanted to see him. Mr. Lincoln received him unconvictionally with politeness, and presently the man asked: "What kind of a tree is that below there, the yarrow tree?" It was a yarrow tree, and the window was open. Mr. Lincoln looked at the other one nearer the house. You will have to leave farthest out," Mr. Lincoln leaned out, and then straightened up. He said: "There is no other one." "No," said the man. "Well, do you see that woman sitting there, three children over there in that wagon? That is my wife and children. I told them I would show them the president-elect of the United States, and they would know it if they had been in the ground." "No, I don't mean that," said the countryman. "I mean the other one nearer the house. You will have to leave farthest out." Mr. Lincoln leaned out, and then straightened up. He said: "There is no other one." "No," said the man. "Well, do you see that woman sitting there, three children over there in that wagon? That is my wife and children. I told them I would show them the president-elect of the United States, and they would know it if they had been in the ground." And so saying, he stalked down stairs.

Hard on the Boston Police.

The yarn that the downtown streets in Boston were formerly cow paths and that unless one is careful in keeping bearings he is liable to walk in circles, although apparently walking straight ahead, must be true, because it has been verified, says the New York Times. It is to the effect that a policeman, having asked a policeman to direct him to a certain place several blocks distant, followed the directions until he became bewildered. Seeing a policeman he asked again to be directed on his way. Confused again by not finding the place he again appealed to a policeman. "Look here!" the policeman remarked, emphatically, "if you ask me that question again I'll run you in--see." A stranger who inserted that story into a column of his experience in the town recently was confused when a reputable gentleman of 35 years interrupted him by saying that his experience in his own town was similar, except that the person he asked was not a policeman, any yarn that holds good for half a century ought to be believed.

FIBROID TUMOR

Expelled by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Interview With Mrs. B. A. Lombard.

I have reason to think that I would not be here now if it had not been for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It cured me of a fibroid tumor in my womb. Doctors could do nothing for me, and they could not cure me at the hospital. I will tell you about it: I had been in my usual health, but had worked quite hard. When my monthly period came on, I flowed very badly. The doctor gave me medicine, but it did me no good. He said the flow must be stopped if possible, and he must find the cause of my trouble. Upon examination, he found there was a Fibroid Tumor in my womb, and gave me treatment without any benefit whatever. About that time a lady called on me, and recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and she owed her life to it. I said I would try it, and did. Soon after the flow became more natural and regular. I still continued taking the Compound for some time. Then the doctor made an examination again, and found everything all right. The tumor had passed away and that dull ache was gone.--Mrs. B. A. Lombard, Box 71, Westdale, Mass.

JUNIORS AFTERNOON.

The Juniors, a society connected with the South Scranton branch of the Young Women's Christian association, enjoyed a very pleasant afternoon yesterday at the association rooms. It was one of the regular monthly social affairs. Miss Mame Clearwater, assistant secretary, was in charge, and Miss Marie Goddard assisted. The happy children in number about forty, met in the large class room and carried out a short programme. The Misses Minnie Green and Margaret Ely sang a duet. Recitations were given by the Misses Lotie Jones, Mildred Turner, Elizabeth Keiper, Dora Kiefer and Josephine Fadden. The Misses Edith and May Milligan sang a duet and the exercises were concluded by a song by the Juniors. Refreshments were served and refreshments served, which ended the happy affair.

TOLD IN A FEW LINES.

There was a large attendance at the entertainment given last evening at St. Paul's Evangelical church by the Young People's society. The pastor, Rev. F. E. C. Hans, was in charge. An excellent programme consisting of solos, duets, recitations, and instrumental selections was carried out. The feature of the evening was the exhibition by Edison's animatronics, which concluded the evening's entertainment. Richard O'Donnell, of Pittston avenue, is seriously ill at his home. Michael Connelly, of Prospect avenue, is recovering from a serious attack of illness. Mrs. Edna Jenkins and daughter, of Pittston avenue, are the guests of friends in Philadelphia. A class in elocution was opened yesterday afternoon at No. 10 school by Miss Margaret Gibbs, elocutionist. The class begins with a membership of thirty-five, including several of the public school teachers. A committee comprising John Rief, John Heilig, Frank Daumberger and Peter Rosar, are arranging for a social to be held this evening in Phillips' hall, corner of Cedar avenue and Alder street. Thursday evening Mrs. Joseph P. Cramer observed the anniversary of her birthday at her residence, 527 Prospect avenue. A large number of friends were present and the affair was a most enjoyable one. At a seasonal hour refreshments were served. The hostess and guests were serenaded during the evening by Guth's band. The tonsorial parlor of which E. A. Herbst is proprietor at the corner of Pittston avenue and Alder street, is a very attractive place. Mr. Herbst recently fitted up his establishment with some modern appliances. The Loyalty club, composed of young Misses, whose ages range from thirteen to sixteen years, and connected with the South Scranton branch of the Young Women's Christian association, will hold their regular business meeting this evening at the association rooms. The usual Bible lesson will also be held. The members are requested to be present. Miss Kate Lewert, president, will be in charge. Much needed improvements are being made on Cherry street between Pittston and Cedar avenues. Paving is being done and the street brought up to a proper grade. A gang of men under the direction of Street Commissioner Dunning are at work on Pittston avenue, near Willow street, repairing the old culvert
