

EVIDENCE IN MARTIN TRIAL

Several Important Witnesses Examined Yesterday.

MR. MCGAHREN'S ADDRESS

Scathing Arraignment of Some of the Deputies.

Facts Which the Prosecution Claims to be Able to Prove--The First Witness Called Proves the Death of Mike Czakal--He Tells in Detail of the March from Harwood to Latimer--Saw the Sheriff Draw His Revolver and Heard the Volleys That Followed--A Lively Tilt Between Witness and Attorney.

Wilkes-Barre, Feb. 2.—The hearing of evidence for the commonwealth was begun in the Martin trial today. After the court had overruled a motion by the district attorney that the jury be taken to view the scene of the shooting at Latimer, Attorney McGahren made the opening address to the jury. He told them they would have to decide upon the rights of men to march peaceably upon the public highway, as well as upon the duties of the sheriff. He explained the different degrees of homicide, and said if it was proved that any of the deputies had threatened to kill the strikers they should be convicted of murder in the first degree. The lawyer reviewed the movements of the strikers on and before the night of the affray, and said it would be proved that when the deputies set out to intercept the marching one of them remarked: "I'll bet I'll drop six of the strikers."

Another said: "I hope we get a chance to take a pop at some of them." and a third, Edward Tumbach, said: "What does the sheriff mean by marching us around in this way all day without giving us a chance to shoot?" After dwelling on the fact that the marching miners were unarmed, the attorney came down to the meeting between the two bodies of men. He said the sheriff stopped the strikers, and "without any words of explanation, drew his revolver and placed it at the breast of the flag-bearer, who threw up his hands and jumped back. The sheriff snapped his revolver. It finally exploded, and the man dropped. Then the shooting commenced and continued for some four or five minutes, some of the deputies emptying their guns. I will not say that all did. Some of the men were killed at a distance of five hundred feet from the road, and nearly all were shot in the back. "We will prove to you that 19 men were killed and 38 wounded. Joseph Costello, who went to aid the wounded, met a deputy named Hess, and when Costello, coming upon the dying man, said: "It is a shame; it is an outrage," Hess exclaimed: "If you say another word I'll treat you in the same manner."

"When we have proved these facts to you we shall say, and we shall expect his honor to say that these men had a right to organize, a right to march, and a right to use the public highway. We will then expect you to do your duty and to vindicate these men, and find the defendants guilty."

THE FIRST WITNESS. Andrew Sivar was the first witness called. He is a Hungarian, but speaks excellent English. He testified to the death of Mike Czakal, saying that he saw him lying dead on the road at Latimer with a bullet in his head. He told in detail of the march from Harwood to Latimer, how the sheriff had met them at West Hazleton and told them to disperse, and how the chief of police had said to them that they could march through the side streets. The deputies then got on the car and when the strikers reached Latimer the deputies were lined up along the side of the road. Witness saw the sheriff draw his revolver and heard it snap, and then the shooting commenced, and the witness dropped to the ground to avoid being shot. Witness said there was first one shot, then two, and then a volley.

John Sivar was severely cross-examined in the afternoon by Attorney Lenahan, but he made an excellent witness, kept cool, replied slowly, deliberately and strengthened his story in chief by the numerous details which the defense elicited. He remarked that one period of the examination that he could not understand high-toned English, meaning that he did not know the meaning of some of the big words used by Attorney Lenahan. This gave the defense an opportunity to air its humorous views and the commonwealth objected very decidedly, saying to the court that the case was of such importance that it should be conducted with dignity and there was no occasion for buffoonery. The court reprimanded the defendants' attorneys. The defense attempted to show that the witness had been engaged in terrorizing those who did not want to strike to such an extent that they were forced to join the strikers through fear of injury, but the court would not allow it, saying it was not cross-examination. Later the defense asked the witness if he had not been engaged in or known of sundry cases of violence at the strikers as the aggressors on the day of the strike. This the witness denied. Each case was stated with the name of the man assaulted, the place and the circumstances, but the witness had not heard of any of them.

The second witness was John Mahala, a rather important personage, who was at the time of the strike the president of the Harwood local union of the United Mine Workers of America. On the night before the shooting he called a meeting at Harwood, he said, and told those present that the men working at Latimer had asked if the Harwood men would march over the next day and if they did so, the Latimer men would join them. The meeting agreed to march over, whereupon Mahala read to them the instructions of the United Mine Workers' union to men on strike, cautioning them to attempt no violence, to destroy no property, make no threats, to carry no weapons and to behave themselves like peaceable, law-abiding citizens. The next morning, with Mahala at their head, some two hundred men in company marched out of Harwood for Latimer. They carried no weapons and were well behaved. At Cranberry they were joined by other strikers and reached West Hazleton some four hundred feet from the school house. The sheriff and his deputies, and Mahala, continued his story by saying: "The sheriff told us to disperse and go home. I said we had a right to march, that we were unarmed and peaceful and we wanted to see our friends at Latimer. Then one of the deputies grabbed the American flag I carried and tore it in half. The sheriff pointed his revolver at us and threatened to shoot. The deputies pushed us around with the point of their guns and avers that he and one struck John Eustis twice with his gun, cutting his head and breaking his arm in two places."

BURGESS JONES REMONSTRATED. "Then Burgess Jones, of West Hazleton, remonstrated with the sheriff, saying that he could keep the peace without using any weapons, that he had confidence in us and would let us march through the streets of his borough as long as we behaved ourselves like men. The deputies then boarded the cars and marched on toward Latimer."

The witness said that after leaving West Hazleton he went to the rear and was in the rear of the crowd when the shooting commenced. He did not see any of it but he soon as he heard the shots he ran up to try and stop it. By the time he reached the front the shooting had ended. He saw ten dead men and a number of wounded lying in the road. The witness was cross-examined by Attorney Lenahan, who charged his story especially about the men being unarmed, orderly and peaceably inclined.

Rev. Father Richard Aust, pastor of St. Stanislaus Polish Catholic church at Hazleton, who is chairman of the prosecuting committee, was called to prove that many of the strikers were shot in the back. He said he had examined a number of the dead, but could not tell in detail what their wounds were. He had buried thirteen of the dead and looked after a number of the wounded. Rev. Carl Hauser, pastor of the Lutheran church at Freehold, and who numbered among his congregation several of the dead and wounded, said that he had examined several and found all of them were shot in the back or the side. He gave an interesting bit of testimony. "I boarded a car," he said, "which brought ten of the dead and a lot of the wounded from the scene of the shooting. There was a pile of rifles in a corner. I said to one of the deputies, Frank Clark, 'I am afraid of some of them falling and exploding.' 'You need not be afraid,' he replied, 'they are all empty now.'"

AN AMATEUR PHOTOGRAPHER. Harry Dryfoos, an amateur photographer, who had taken several pictures of the scene of the shooting, testified to so doing and the photographs were given to the jury for their examination. When some one of the most important witnesses for the commonwealth, Charles Gascott, who is principal building about six hundred yards from the scene of the shooting and in full view of all that took place on the side of the road and formed there. Gascott said he had been teaching school when he heard an unusual noise and going to the window he found that a number of men, some eighty were alighting from an electric car. They were the deputies. Miss Coyle, his assistant, saw them and while their attention was thus riveted the pupils rushed for the door and got outside. He saw the deputies line up across the road and then not satisfied with the position they moved over to the side of the road and formed there with their rifles ready. The strikers were by this time coming over the brow of a hill some two or three hundred yards away. They were marching some five and six abreast and were quiet and orderly. "Witness could not see that they were firing, as they were so far off and slowly and as they drew near they advanced to meet them. As he advanced he saw a deputy step forward and the first man a dozen or so formed a sort of half circle around him. He did not hear the sheriff say anything nor did he see him read any cards. A minute after the line first stepped those behind pushed ahead to see what was going on and got ahead of the sheriff. At that moment one of the deputies stepped out of the line and advanced some ten or twelve paces as if he was going to leave the other deputies, whereupon one shouted: "If you do not come back we will shoot you too." The fellow jumped back to the line and almost immediately after the witness heard a shot. It came from the line of the deputies. A moment later two more shots were fired and then came the volley, sounding like a pack of big fire crackers exploding.

STRIKERS RAN. The witness said that as soon as the volley was fired the strikers ran in all directions and a great many of them ran toward the school house and that between the road and the school house fifteen men fell, struck down by shots fired after the volley. Witness saw a number of killed and wounded men lying on the road but could not say how many. He saw one man shot and killed while running at full speed at a distance of one hundred yards from the road. The shooting continued for some two or three minutes. The witness did not see any of the deputies leave the line and run after the strikers to shoot them. His attention was wholly taken with the wounded men, some of whom he carried into the school house and attended there. He knew a number of

A CERTAIN CURE FOR CONSTIPATION. Regulations as to Diet, Exercise, etc., as Prescribed by One of the most Eminent Physicians.

Constipation affects mostly those who are dyspeptic or who sit too much or too long. It can not be cured by medicines alone. The following is the prescription of a leading physician: 1st. Take on rising a teaspoonful of Carlsbad Sprudel Salt in a glass of water as hot as you can sip it. Then take a brisk walk out of doors, if you can; if not, keep on your feet and move about indoors. If the trouble is chronic and serious, take another dose in from thirty to sixty minutes. Wait at least half an hour before eating your breakfast.

2d. Never sit down to read or work after breakfast until Nature has found relief. "But I haven't time." You will have time if you rise one hour earlier than before, and a cure is worth that.

3d. Use laxative food—use a gruel of rolled oats and water, no milk; and use HONEY with wheat griddle cakes or with bread. Never touch toast, or milk except in coffee. Don't eat blackberries or cheese, and never drink tea for breakfast. Use coffee at breakfast, if you can; if not, hot water. Chew all food thoroughly and never use a liquid to help masticate it. Never use acids or sour fruits, and fruit when cooked is much easier digested than if uncooked.

4th. Why use Carlsbad Sprudel Salt? Because, first, it is harmless to follow it. You know what that means, if you have taken physics and found yourself worse off than before, the second day afterwards; second, because the Genuine Carlsbad Sprudel Salt is as well as the bowels in their functions.

You can take the Carlsbad Sprudel Salt less and less steadily as you improve; but never be without a bottle handy. Be sure to use only the Genuine Carlsbad Salt, which is obtained from the celebrated Carlsbad Sprudel Water, and has the signature of EISENER & MENDELSON CO., Sole Agents, New York, on every bottle.

the deputies he said, and saw them plainly just before the shooting occurred. He was on the point of naming them when court adjourned. Gascott will go on the stand again in the morning. He has a good deal more evidence to give, most of it very important.

STEWART FOR SUPERIOR COURT. Franklin County Republican Plan for the State Convention.

Chambersburg, Pa., Feb. 3.—The announcement was made today that Judge Stewart has the strongest assurance of Senator Quay's friends that his candidacy will have the endorsement of the senior senator. In return the county is to send to the legislative two men favorable to the senator's re-election. The candidates will be W. W. Britton and Dr. C. C. Criswell, or William C. Krepas. This programme means that Dr. A. Sively Bonebrake, and other ex-representative William C. Krepas or Dr. Criswell are to be defeated for nomination.

In the event of Judge Stewart's nomination, ex-Senator William U. Brewster is to take his place on the county ticket, assuming that Judge Stewart will be renominated for the local judgeship at the county convention on March 22.

PENNSYLVANIA PENSIONS. Washington, Feb. 3.—These Pennsylvania pensions have been issued: Original—Benjamin H. Prizer, Harrisburg, $5; Arthur G. Tisher, Elmwood, $4; William W. Krazzer, Allentown, $5; John D. Davenport, Carlisle, $12; Restoration and increase—Myron L. Foote, dead, Great Bend, Susquehanna, $4; William G. Pardon Recommended for Moreland. Harrisburg, Feb. 3.—A host of pardons recommended a pardon this afternoon for William C. Moreland, ex-city solicitor of Pittsburg, who is serving three years in the Western penitentiary for embezzling $25,000 at Dover, Pa. Hastings has not yet acted upon the pardon.

Killed by the Cars. Wilkes-Barre, Feb. 2.—Joseph Frauder and Frank Klinez, Potters, were struck by a Lehigh Valley engine while walking on the track near Durvay last night. The bodies were found today and Klinez cannot recover.

Pennsylvania Postmasters. Washington, Feb. 3.—Fourth class postmasters have been appointed as follows: Kintnersville, F. H. Adams.

IRON AND STEEL MARKET. Main Features as Shown in the Weekly Trade Review. Pittsburgh, Feb. 3.—The American Manufacturer in its weekly trade review will say tomorrow: "The iron and steel market this week is the disposition shown in some lines to the present prices rather than holders intended a short time ago. The eastern market remains about as it was at last report, as New York nearly every line is rather dull. Railroad orders are slow in coming in, and competition is quite keen. There is no improvement in finished branches. At Philadelphia there are fears of an accumulation of iron stocks that is hurting the market. The sheet iron is better, as car builders have secured good orders, and the bar mills have better prospects. The sheet iron trade is increasing, while the plate and tank lines show a vigorous demand. It is the general opinion that large building will be greatly increased this year. Chicago reports pig iron sales for delivery extending over the next five months. Although an advance has been made in bar iron prices, the old figures are being paid in many instances. Big orders for sheet iron are pending in the western market. The pig iron trade at Cincinnati is increasing and southern iron is steadier. The low prices bring out more interest in the charcoal iron of the north side. On trade is improving, and there is a better outlook for structural material. Cleveland reports the first indications of an ore-buying movement. Sundry grades of pig iron are active, and bar iron is stronger. Rods, wire and nails show quite an improvement over recent conditions. The Wheeling market shows little change, but sheets and plates are in somewhat better demand."

A record for himself last night as the champion eater of the north side. On a wager of $1 he ate four and a half dozen eggs in twenty minutes. The remarkable feat of gluttony was carried out at a saloon at 240 Chicago avenue. The eggs were eaten raw, and no seasoning was allowed. The bet called for the disposal of four dozen eggs, but when Sham had finished that number he tossed off half a dozen more, just to show that he was a bigger man than even his friends thought. After eating the fifty-four eggs Sham felt slightly indisposed, so he topped them off with a few rounds of drinks. No provisions having been made for the cost of the eggs, Sham was forced, under strong protest, to pay the saloonkeeper 30 cents for them.
