ANNUAL REPORT OF THE LIBRARY

ast Years Record Exceeded That of Any in History of the Institution.

NUMBER OF BOOKS NOW ON HAND

The Report for the Trustees Was Made by William T. Smith, Vice-President .- The Library Is Becoming a Most Important Part of Our Educational System -- The Amount Asked for Current Expenses Is Absolutely Necessary to Keep Up

The seventh annual report of the Albright Memorial library for the year 1997 has been issued in pamphlet form. It contains a thorough resume of the year's work in the several departments. In point of circulation-a matter of particular interest, especially to patrons of the library-the last year's record exceeded that of any previous year. The registrations of 1897 were as follows: New, 2,182; registered, 2,119; total, 4,301, of which 4,195 were city residents, 26 non-resident, and 80 of teachers' or other special cards. Divided as to sex, 1,921 were males and 2,380 females; as to ages, 3,746 were persons of 16 years and over, and 555 under that

In addition to the 4.459 cards canceled under their two-year limit, 112 others were surrendered or canceled sooner, making a total of 4,571; leaving 8,096 ards in force at the close of the year 1897. There are also 232 extra, or student's cards, now valld (issued to regular card holders, but not included in the registration figures above), upon which may be drawn additional books other than prose fiction or juveriles.

At the close of the last report the ibrary had 27,943 volumes. Accessories of 1897 numbered 3,191 volumes, of which 324 were by gift and exchanges, 2.723 by purchase and 144 of United States documents deposited. Deducting the number worn out and lost during the year there is a total of 30,581 volumes on hand.

The list of gifts and exchanges received in 1897 includes 350 volumes, 1,740 pamphlets and current numbers. The report says of the South Side

SOUTH SIDE BRANCH.

"December 2 a combined branch reading room and delivery station was opened on the South Side at 1418 Pittston avenue. Funds sufficient for its maintenance during the next few months, have been provided by private generosity. The undertaking is in the nature of an experiment in placing the benefits of this institution easily at the service of certain parts of the city more distant from the central library. It could also be equally well followed in other sections than this present one if means for the purpose were at command. Also included in the general report is the report made for the board of trus-tees by Vice President William T. Smith. This report includes the estimates of expenditures for carrying on the present year's work. In full the report is as follows:

To the Honorable, the Select and Common Councils of the City of Scranton:
The enforced absence of our honored president, Hen. Aifred Hand, in search of health and strength, devolves upon me the duty of calling your attention to the progress and needs of the Scranton Public library.

That this institution has become a most mportant part of our educational system, s well known to you all; and the record of an average distribution of 530 books daily, a total of 161,666 volumes for the past year, is evidence of now much it is needed and how worthy it is of your generous support. The existence of a li-brary where all who choose, no matter what their condition, may have access to the free use of a collection of books that the wealthiest individual could scarcely make and control, is certainly something for the masses in the right direction.

DETAILS OF THE WORK.

The annexed reports of the treasurer, the secretary and the librarian, will give you full details of the work of the past year, and show you how wisely and well your appropriations have been used; and I am sure your deep interest in the gen-eral good of the community, and your pride in this noble institution, will lead you to approve of the following esti-mates for the year 1898, placed with the city controller:

For salaries and labor ($450) per For books ($250 per month) ...... 3,000 co

Total current expense ..........$11,760 00 For improvements recommended, viz.:

Stone, or asphalt, sidewalks on Washington avenue and Vine

street ..... $800 @

The amount asked for current expense s absolutely needed to keep up the ef-iciency of the institution. The need for improvements may not appear so imperative, yet it does not seem like ask-ing too much of a city that has received so beautiful and so munificent a gift, to furnish it with an appropriate sidewaik. By the aid of private generosity, the experiment of establishing a branch of the library has been made on the South Side of the city. It was opened December 2, and will probably be continued for a year; if found successful, and desir-able, it will be incorporated into the general library system.

The trustees have nothing but the highest commendation for the librarian, Mr. Carr, and his assistants. The efficiency, courtesy and systematic business meth-ods of the librarian have been a most important factor in the success of the in-

And now, gentlemen, acknowledging with gratitude your appreciation of our needs in the past, and believing that you recognize the good influence the library exerts in this community, we confidently sk your continued and generous support,

In behalf of the board of trustees, William T. Smith, Vice President.

TREASURER'S REPORT. Treasurer Henry J. Belin's report shows a balance on hand to the beginning of 1898 the total of $2,078.80, itemized as follows: From Citizens' subscription fund, $60.15; from city appropriations, $1,184.81; from petit cash, $833,84. The rest of the report is taken up with tabulated statements of the contents and growth of the library. Circulation and other statistics of work and the gifts to the library, mentioned in total in the secretary's re-port. The report has been filed with city clerk and will be read at the next meeting of councils.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

ONE MINISTER'S VIEWS.

Editor of The Tribune-

Sir: I see by your editorial of this morning that you believe that ex-Mayor Fellows justly deserved the calling down e received from Rev. Dr. McLeod. I eg to differ and protest. I was present at the said meeting, and can say that the remarks made by the speaker can be cor-reported by every man that love good eltizenship and that desires a clean national, state or municipal government The remarks made was not expected to be endorsed by any who uphoids the present condition of affairs and who hold high influential position in the community and in whose congregation appears the and in whose congregation appears the millionaires who today sway a tremendous power with their wealth in corrupting the body politict. We all know the perilous drift of politicts today, and the nower money sways in their corruption. We also know that character and principle are no longer considered as a prore-quisite to political honor and that men eek political preferment for personal nds; and that integrity and truth find no longer a place in our political life. And it can be said to the shame of the church that the conscience of men are so hardened that we find them very often stirring the fires of Gods alters with one hand, whilst with the other they give readily of their wealth to purchase for them what honor and integrity would not do. This money is given under the pre-tense of paying compaign expenses; but nlas, every honest and upright citizen know that the money is used by the consent of the giver to the corruption of our body politict. I fail to see why Rev. Dr. McLeod should take the position he did unless the speaker cut to close to himself and his convergation. self and his congregation.

all, etc., Mink landed his prisoner.

More than this did Deputy Constable Mink; he afterward was called upon to take this 14-year-old boy to the county jail in default of $200 bail, asked by Alderman Wright, after a

The boy was Thomas Collins, son of a widow who lives on Ash street, this city. Thomas, despite his small stature, got into a tussle with Joseph Goldschlager, a boy of 18 years. This happened Monday evening on Penn avenue. Who was "licked" is best shown in the fact that Goldschlager pointed out Collins to Patrolman Hart and the little chap was taken to the police station, pending a hearing in the morning.

DISCHARGED BY MAYOR.

You are my prisoner!" Then grasping his quarry firmly the deputy constable began the trip to the alderman's office. Young Collins, af-ter a night spent in the close confinement of a police station cell, naturally rebelled against this sudden eclipse of his freedom. Mink says he tried to run away. However that may be, the deputy constable caught the little fellow's wrist with one hand, and with the other grabbed him by the neck In this position he escorted the boy down Washington avenue.

A large crowd was attracted by the unusual sight and followed after the constable and his midget prisoner. Shouts of "Let him go!" "Shame! Shame!" and the like were directed at the constable. But Mink plodded on.

At the corner of Washington avenue and Spruce street the crowd, consisting of men and boys, kept up a constant shouting of derisive expressions and earnest appeals for the release of the prisoner. "Where's your warrant?" demanded a business man, pushing himself in front of the constable. "Run away boy, get away from him," called out ex-Deputy Sheriff "Billy" Craig from his carriage. The demonstration became so omnious that Mink sent a boy for a policeman.

JOHLER ON THE SCENE. Patrolman John Johler was located and hurried up to the corner, where Mink stood with his prisoner, where alderman's office is not fifty yards dis-

"Why," replied Mink, "these men here say I've no right to take this boy. Look at this warrant," and the constable handed out his authoritative paper. Patrolman Johler read it: "The war-

Mink went on. Finally the alderman's office was reached. The crowd followed in. Young Goldschlager, with his father, was present. He was called upon and gave his story of his fight

"I hold you in $200 bail for court." was Alderman Wright's judgment on the prisoner. The commitment papers were accordingly made out, and Collins was taken to the county jail by the same Deputy Constable Mink.

DESPERATE TASK Alderman Wright.

ENTERED A They Did Not Like the Manner in Have Been Trouble If Patrolman

Deputy Constable Frederick Mink, attached to the Ninth ward aldermanic court, arrested a boy yesterday. True it took from twenty to thirty minutes to make the trip from the City Hall, where the boy was arrested, to Alderman Wright's office, two blocks distance; true, also, Deputy Constable Mink had to drag his prisoner by the use of his two hands, and, true, finally, the boy had been discharged by Mayor Bailey a few minutes before on the same charge for which he was now being arrested-but, nevertneless, with hearing on the charge.

Young Collins spent Monday night in a cell. In police court yesterday morning Mayor Bailey found that there was not sufficient evidence to hold the boy and he was discharged with a reprimand

Meanwhile, however, the Goldschlag er boy's father had appeared before Alderman O. B. Wright, of the Ninth ward, and had sworn out a warrant for Collins' arrest charging assault and battery. The warrant was given over to Deputy Constable Mink. The latter took the warrant and stationed himself in the corridor of the city hall. When Collins was discharged by Mayor Bailey Mink nabbed the boy, saying:

"What do you want, Mink?" asked Patrolman Johler.

with Collins the day before.

Mink, in telling of the affair, said: 'He was trying to run away." "He's a wiry little tarter"-put in "Yes," continued Mink; "he tried to get away. I got him first like this." He caught a firm grasp on the reporter's coat sleeve.

"Then," said Mink, sulting the action to the word, "I grabbed a hold of his wrist and caught him with this hand by the neck. Why, I almost had to carry him!" "Did you bend his arm behind his back, so that he cried out from pain?"

"No, no, I didn't I only bent it this way"-and the constable bent the reporter's arm half way up his back so

"After I took the boy to jail," continued Mink, "I went to look for his mother, on Ash street, but I couldn't find her. I don't believe she lives there. The little scamp said she's lived there three weeks. I think he lied."
Thomas Collins, 14 years old, is still a prisoner in the county jail.
