Factory Girls Quit Because They Did Not Like Forewoman.

SAID SHE WAS CRUEL TO THEM

Declared They Would Not Humble Themselves to Regain Their Positions--August Grander, of Prospect Avenue, Injured by a Fall of Roof in Connell's Mine--Funeral of Little Anna Dolphie, Who Was Fatally Burned.

They were factory girls, six in number and very positive. The six had just left Superintendent Davis' office at the Sauquoit silk mill and were very indignant. "No, we will never humble ourselves to her," they told a Tribune reporter, and their emphatic manner and the rising inflection of their voices lent a color of truth to the assertion.

"Are you on strike," queried the reporter. "Not exactly, we have nothing against our foreman, Fred Gable, or the superintendent but that forewoman," each one began talking just here and one could gather that a mutual dislike for the forelady existed in their minds. The young women did not abuse Miss Bridget Nealon, the forewoman, but simply said they could not stand her any longer. They quit, though not all at once. Two of the six having left Wednesday and the first one Friday last week.

They said Miss Nealon made it uncomfortable for them in many petty ways. "The noise is so great, you had a mistake made by another girl would be overlooked, either of the six were sure to be reported. They had always had permission to talk whenever their "ends" were up and it was very little they did talk for, said Miss Alice, who seemed to be spokeswoman. "The noise is so great, you had to almost scream, so we didn't talk much."

They called upon Superintendent Davis Tuesday and were requested to come again yesterday afternoon. They went, and the ultimatum given them was "See Miss Nealon and arrange with her." That was a virtual stand-off and they will stay out before they will do the "humble" act to that forewoman. The girls are all old hands, having worked in the mill for over seven years. They were engaged in the "organ" department on the second floor under Miss Nealon for some time. Mr. Davis asked why they had not made their grievances known before and they told him that they had been patient in order to see if a change would not come. Their patience ebbed away and they would stand it no longer.

MINE WORKER INJURED. August Grander, of Prospect avenue, who is employed as a laborer in Connell's mine is confined to his home as a result of severe injuries received while at work Thursday morning. The injured man's father and he work in the same "chamber" and he was loading a car when a fall of roof occurred. The fall missed his father but caught him and crushed him to the floor. Fortunately he was standing near a car and a large part of the force and weight was broken by the car. He was extricated and removed to his home where an examination by Dr. J. J. Walsh, indicated that no bones were broken but he had two scalp wounds and had contusions on his right arm and leg. The shock is also severe.

DAY'S DOINGS IN DUNMORE BOROUGH

Large and Enthusiastic Rally in Boyle's Hall Last Night.

SEVERAL LIVELY SPEECHES

Assistant District Attorney W. Gaylord Thomas and Attorney H. C. Reynolds Were Among the Speakers--Samuel Willis Badly Injured by His Wife--Bouquet Social Held in Odd Fellows Hall--Personals and Brief Items of News.

That there is more interest in affairs political to the square inch in this borough than in any other locality of like size in this corner of the state, at least, was again demonstrated by the Republican rally last night in Boyle's hall. The place was too small to seat the crowd of voters who wanted to hear the issues of the campaign intelligently discussed and to meet and shake the hands of the seven candidates present. They are:

For Treasurer--Louis Engle, Auditor--H. P. Marshall. Street commissioner--George H. Jackson. School Directors--Henry Webber, Harry M. Spencer. For Council--Henry Smith, W. S. Jones. There was enthusiasm galore. The American band, augmented by several good Italian players from other organizations, gave spirited selections during the evening. The speakers were eloquent; Cuba had said and the president was applauded, each of the local candidates were given complimentary receptions--and, in brief, a general, rousing, heated time was had. The ball was started shortly after 8 o'clock, when Chairman E. W. Bishop, upon the platform, played several selections, introduced W. Gaylord Thomas, assistant district attorney of the county, who, with Attorney H. C. Reynolds, of Scranton, were the principal speakers. Mr. Thomas directed his remarks solely to local topics.

WILLIS BADLY WOUNDED. Patrolman Bulger says that Samuel Willis lost about two quarts of blood Thursday night from a wound on his head inflicted by a cooking utensil in the hands of his wife. Despite this drain on his system, Willis was about last night, assuring that he was going to swear out a warrant for his wife's arrest. He didn't do last night, as far as could be learned, but today Mrs. Willis may have to face one of the "squires."

STOLE HER PURSE AND AWAY. Little Agnes Brown was going from her home on Ward street Thursday to purchase some goods. In her hand she held the money given her by her mother, Mrs. Thomas Brown, to pay for the purchases. While on the way Agnes stopped to speak with several of her cronies comparing Willis' wife as speaking a little Italian boy came up from behind and grabbed the purse from her hand. He then ran away and, although followed by a crowd of people who had seen the act, the boy disappeared in an alley and has not since been located.

ENTHUSIASTICALLY RECEIVED. The mention of the names of the candidates were enthusiastically received. Attorney Reynolds followed with one of the best political speeches ever made in Dunmore. Leaving the discussion of purely local topics Mr. Reynolds led his audience to thoughts of more general significance. His tribute to Cuba was eloquent. It elicited ringing and sincere applause from the many sympathizers present. Spain was denounced as a "misguided, bluffing, low down, boasting and bluffing" impotency and the hypocrisy of de Lome was given its proper treatment.
