Washington, Feb. 16 .- Senators and representatives were inclined to reticence pending positive knowledge of the of the ship was blown off, it is apparcause. Chairman Hitt, of the foreign affairs committee, and Chairman Dingley, of the ways and means committee, would say nothing. Senator Platt, of Connecticut, believes it was an accident, and so does Senator Hale, chairman of the naval committee. Many other members of congress were con-tent to simply say that opinion should be suspended until after the investigation. Ex-Senator Butler thinks a bold man could have gone aboard the Maine and placed a grenade with a slow match where it would explode the magazine. The Maine incident formed the prin cipal topic of consideration by the senate committee on foreign relations at its meeting today, although not offictally before the committee. The opinion is generally expressed by members to the effect that the occurrence is one drophobia without being bitten by of very serious import and that it may result in grave complications unless Spain can make it very plain that no made yesterday under the direction of Spaniard was in any way responsible liams revealed the fact that her death

"It is too serious to talk about at resent," said Senator Lodge, while present." Senator Callon said: "I am too mad to talk about it. I can't see how the exclusion could have been the result of nn neeldeat and I think the time is rapidly approaching when this country must do comething." Senator Clark would only say: "It is singular that such accidents happen at such apportune times.

EOILER THEORY ACCEPTED. The theory advanced by the Spanisi authorities, that the disaster might have been caused by the explosion of the buildr is accepted at the navy department as within the bounds of credibility

The Maine's boller was separated from the powder magazines at the nearest point by a space of about four feet, usually filled with coal. At least one boller undoubtedly was kept unner almost full steam in order to run the dynamos and move the ship in case of need. The explosion of such a boiler might easily drive through the bulkhead and fire the magazine.

Inasmuch as suspicion exists in some a torpedo was used quarters that against the Maine, it may be said that the majority of naval officers believe that the character of the explosion was hardly such as could be attributed to a The latter, charged with torpedo. about 100 pounds of gunpowder or gun cotton, it is belleved, would have torn a large hole in the bottom or side of the Maine, but was scarcely likely to five the magazine, which is not near the bottom. It was said at the navy department that there is no lack of precedent for such a disaster as that sustained by to accidental causes.

In order to confirm the diagnosis of hydrophobia the autopsy was held. So far as an examination of this nature could determine, the diagnosis was correct, but parts of the intestines were preserved and will be submitted to miroscopical examination. The history of the girl's case was gone into most carefully, and it was learned that in the house where she was employed there were three large Newfoundland dogs of which she was very fond. One of the dogs died on Nov. 20, a second on Nov. 30, and the third on Jan. 20. The veterinary who attended them found no trace of rables in any of them, and yet to them is traced the fatal malady of the girl,

EXCITEMENT AT HAVANA.

A Spanish official of long residence at Huyana stated that the hour of the accident was the one when excitement at Hayana was at its height. Up to midnight the theaters, cafes and clubs are crowded and strangers find their greatest interest in seeing the city at that time. For this reason, he said, it was the time when naval officers usually secured their shore leave, the leave running from 8 to 12 o'clock. This he thought would account for the absence of some of the officers from the Maine and the consequent small death list among the officers. At the same time the leave to the sailors was usually curtailed for the reason that the hours of excitement were those in which it was desired the seamen should not participate.
