OLYPHANT COUNCIL.

The Members Held a Lively Session Last Evening.

The Olyphant council is famous for its activity, but the scenes at the council rooms last night capped the climax. After the old council adjourned sine die, the organization of a new body was in order. Secretary Schubmehl occupied the chair pro tem. The certificates of the new members were then read. The first read was that of Ed-ward J. Howard, of the First ward, who was declared elected for a two-year term. At this point Councilman Gannon raised a legal point claiming that as the official ballot did not state that Mr. Howard was to fill the unexpired term of Patrick Fadden, who recently esigned, he was not legally entitled to seat. Mr. Gannon then moved that William Gibbons, his opponent, be scated as he was legally entitled to it. A vote was taken and Mr. Schubmehl declared Mr. Gibbons a member. This started an uproar among the hundreds of spectators who fairly packed the building. Chairs were overturned, windows smashed and the crowd pushed their way over the railing surrounding the council chamber. At this juncture the secretary, seeing himself in a perilous position, sought the protection of Officer McLarin and his sergeants who were nearby. The secretary, thinking that things were getting too warm for him, quickly made his departure, but not before the crowd had deliberately snatched the books from his hands. He was followed by five councilmen, Messrs, Gallagher, Lewis, Patten, Rogan and Gannon. The remaining seven had things their own way then A motion prevailed and carried that Mr. O'Brien be appointed president pro-tem. and J. A. Dolphin, secretary pro-The permanent officers elected were as follows: President, James W. O'Brien; secretary, Joseph A. Dolphin; treasurer, M. J. Lavin; street supervisor, Lawrence Howard. Burgess McNulty's message was read. It was a manly document and contained many good recommendations.

Previous to the adjournment of the old council, Secretary Schubmehl made the following report of the expenses of the borough for the past year: Street department, $3,737.88; electric light department, $3.146.47; police department, $289.75; surveying, $135.25; fire departpied the pulpit of the Primitive Methodist church Sunday morning and 42; total, $18,839.97.
