Redroad Racket ... A Susquehanan Man Sees a Bayonet in the Moon. A New Cure for the Ktundike Fever Invented by a Starracea Man. Local Happenings.

Special to the Scranton Tribune.

Susquehanna, March 8 .-- Bill Needham, a fiddler of considerable local fame, last October gave a solo under remarkable circumstances. He was on his way to play for a dance in Great Bend township, and was walking along a narrow road cut in the mountain side. At one point the road winds around a sharp spur and is very narrow. Bill was sauntering leisurely along and had reached this point, when his attention was attracted by the warning noise of a rattlesnake, and, looking up, he saw a formidable rattler directly in his path. He promptly took to his heels, but had taken a step or two when, from the weeds by the side of the path, an-other rattler rose up. There was not enough room to pass the snake without running the risk of being bitten, and the frightened fiddler backed up against the ledge that hung above him and eyed the reptiles. Escape was impos-sible, and he was pondering over the dire fact when it suddenly occurred to him that he had read of people charming snakes with music. Drawing his violin from its box, he began to play, and almost instantly it had the desired effect. The big snakes gradually uncoiled, and stretching themselves out in the path, glided slowly toward the fiddler. This move was not entirely pleasing, but he kept sawing away. Closer and closer came the snakes and faster and faster flew the bow over the strings. At last the snakes reached a point, within two feet of the terrified fiddler, and, winding themselves up, lifted their heads closely together. At this juncture Bill's nerves gave way, and, with a yell, he grabbed his fiddle by the neck and brought it down with crushing force on the heads of the snakes. The blow stunned them, and, before they could recover, Bill killed them with a rock. The fiddle was smashed beyond repair, but the fiddler had saved his life.

A SIMPLE, HARMLESS REMEDY. pepsia and Indigestion. gins,

Dr. Jennison, who has made a life study of stomach troubles, says: All forms of indigestion really amount to the same thing, that is, failure to completely digest the food eaten; no matter whether the trouble is acid dyspepsia or sour stomach, belching of wind, nerous dyspepsia or loss of flesh or appetite; a person will not have any of them if the stomach can be induced by any natural, harmless way to thoroughly digest what is eaten, and this can be done by a simple remedy which I have tested in hundreds of aggravated cases with complete success. The remedy is a combination of fruit and vegetable essences, pure aseptic pepsin and golden seal put up in the form of pleasant tablets and sold by druggists under the name of Stuart's Dyspensia Tablets. One or two of these tablets should be taken after meals and allowed to dissolve in the mouth and mingling with the food in the stomach, digests it completely before it has time to ferment, decay and sour.

On actual experiment one grain of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest three thousand grains of meat, eggs and similar wholesome foods.

It is safe to say if this wholesome remedy was better known by people generally, it would be a national blessing, as we are a nation of dyspeptics and nine-tenths of all diseases owe their origin to imperfect digestion and autrition

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are not a secret patent medicine, but a fifty cent package will do more real good for a weak stomach that fifty dollars worth of patent medicines and a person has the satisfaction of knowing just what he is putting into hisstomach, which he does not know, when widely advertised patent medicines are used. All druggists sell Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, full sized packages, 50 cts. A little book on cause and cure of stomach troubles mailed free by ad-dressing The Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich.

A Starrucca man, whose son had had symptoms of Klondike fever, offered him the necessary money to start with if he would transport 2,000 pounds of bluestone over the mountains to Mount Phesah, entirely away from the roads, without the aid of horses. He was to have all the handsleds he required and three home-cooked meals per day. The young man looked at the flagging, shook his head, and decided to go to school.

Erie engineer Frank Traisdale had a close call a few evenings since. When the train was at Hickory Grove, three miles west of here, there was an explosion of gas in the fire box of the locomotive, and Transdale was blown through the cab window, a distance of eight feet, and received painful injuries.

And there is a possibility that the Williamsport - Tunkhannock railroad may be extended to Uniondale, to connect with the Erie, Ontario and Western and Delaware, Lackawanna and Western roads. Perhaps brakemen will yet yell: "Uniondaie! Change cars for New York, Albany, Boston, Phila-
