PROTHONOTARY HONORED.

John Copeland Made the Recipient of a Beautiful Diamond. Prothonotary John Copeland is receiving congratulations of his innumerable friends upon having been made the recipient of a Beautiful diamond ring on the occasion of his fortyfifth birthday. The presentation was made by Division No. 186, Order of Railway Conductors, at their meeting last week. While Mr. Copeland has been a member of this organization for many years, his friends are found in all the railway societies and the engineers, fireflagmen and brakemen were equally responsive with the conductors in contributing for the purchase of the valuable present for the popular exyardmaster of the Delaware and Hudson company.

M. P. Harding, chief conductor of the division, acting for the donors, said: 'Mr. Copeland: Your former associates in the railroad service here have assigned a pleasant duty to me in presenting to you on this occasion a slight token of their esteem. Words of mine are inadequate to express the sense of regard in which you were always held 'In connection with our railroad work we have always looked upon you as a friend. You rejoiced with us in our prosperity and by word and act sympathized with us in adversity. You were ever willing to give us good advice and when occasion demanded accompanied the advice by a degree of sternness that was always for our good. Such is the nature of railroad work that some must of necessity rule and teach so others must submit and obey. You were sufficiently conversant with the rules of propriety as to avoid exceeding the authority with which you were invested, and to obey an order issued by Jack Copeland was a pleas-

"Deeply regretting the necessity of your severing your connection with us, yet we rejoice with you in the victory that gave you this new and responsible position. We ask you to accept this gift not for its intrinsic value but because it comes from the boys, who have a warm place in their hearts for you, and will ever rejoice in your pros-"As each succeeding year sets up an other milestone in your existence, think kindly of us who wish that peace, prosperity and contentment may attend your days until your years shall be merged into life's eternity." ? r. Copeland was greatly affected by this evidence of esteem from his former associates. He said that the ring would ever be a reminder to him of the pleasant relations he had enjoyed with them and as he made no intentions of being an orator he would simply say "thank you" for the gift.

With one accord all called upon Jacob Eitel for a speech. He responded briefly: "I am the oldest man here tonight. I have been associated with Mr. Copeland for more than twenty-five years and never knew a more upright, better or more honest man." A half-dozen of the boys with vocal ability were called upon to assist in entertaining. Edled with "The Ship that Never Returned." Hugh McQuade sang an original song that has long been a "classic' on the Pennsylvania division. It deals with the time when the "branch" was but a single track and mentions several well known men and incidents. W. H. Breese's bag-pipe song, W. R. Hughes and Henry Isgar's solos were features of a pleasant gathering. Andrew Widner was the accompanist of

The following out-of-town railroad men attended the meeting: P. J. Ruddy and James Corrigan, of Mill Creek Thomas White, of Wilkes-Barre: David Cobb, Judson Callender, Frank Callender and James Pace, of Green Ridge and M. J. O'Malley, of Olyphant.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

Librarian W. L. Yarrington says that during the past two years 58,694 books have been taken from the public library, making an average of over one hundred for each day it has been open. During the two years there have been but three books lost. Considering the large circulation he thinks this latter fact is a decided compliment to the honesty of our townspeople.

Pierce W. Snyder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Snyder, entertained a number of his young friends at his home on Wyoming street Saturday afternoon, The party was given on his eighth birthday and the guests made him many pretty presents on the occasion. Master Snyder was the happiest boy in town, as his parents also presented to him a handsome new blcycle.

"I do—absolutely," replied the Professor deliberately, tightening the museles of his strong face, "and I welcome newly-formed hose company to purchase the necessary equipment for competing with fire. With our present meagre facilities no fire of any magnitude could be controlled. The introduction of a good supply of water, which is already assured for all sections and extending to all the limits of the borough, has opened up one very important element, but without a good supply of hose and some other accessories even this would prove entirely useless. Some of our enterprising citi zens have taken "time by the fore lock," as it were, and have organized a company and will provide said com pany with its equipment for work, but they ask for liberal help from the property owners in order that their efforts may be successful.
