

NEW BUILDING IS NOW OCCUPIED

Family of the Home for the Friendless Take Possession of It.

SOME VERY PATHETIC INCIDENTS

Many of the Old Ladies Were Lethal to Leave the Old Quarters on Adams Avenue Which Had Grown Very Dear to Them -- The New Building Is a Beautiful One and Has a Surprisingly Fine Location.

Last night the family of the Home for the Friendless slept for the first time under the roof of the new building. It was an unquiet rest, for many of the inmates, particularly the elderly ones, who for years had laid their heads on the pillow placed in a certain direction in the shabby old rooms which had grown so dear.

About 1 o'clock yesterday a procession started from the spot which has been a shelter for twenty-five years for the destitute and homeless. It was an interesting procession, freighted with the old and weary almost stepping with heavy feet across the threshold of another life; of the young before whom more than before most children stretch an unknown path; of desolate, deserted wives bearing wailing little ones upon their breasts; of others thrust out of homes in their helpless age and infirmity, for an old person without money to leave is of course a burden to many who in turn in the years to come will be burdens on their friends. Following came the final loads of household treasures so familiar in the old institution; a fine old trunk and a large bed with a cart filled with precious things. "I knew they were from the Home," exclaimed one of the managers who did not at first recognize the bright little boxes, "for where else but from the Home would proceed eight boys who would simultaneously and with utmost gravity take off their caps at sight of a Home manager?"

JOINED THE PROCESSION.

Several members of the board furnished carriages to convey the family away, and nearly everyone but the faithful matron, Mrs. A. K. Walker, went with the "procession." She remained to arrange for the departure of the others and to close the house.

The scene at the new building was interesting indeed. The children were wild with delight, but there were those among the aged who looked at the fine edifice rising in the brilliant sunshine and then glanced with a sigh beyond where a belt of trees hid the Home plot in Forest Hill cemetery. Some of the old ladies were, however, in out of the way places, amid all the splendor of bright surroundings and new furniture, weeping over the lost glories of the rooms just forsaken. Others wandered around in discomfited fashion, saying over pathetically: "I want my own chair; I wonder if they brought my trunk I've had these fifty years," or "I can't stand it if they won't let me have my bureau that John bought when Maggie was a baby." But soon in the excitement of getting settled they forgot their woes and, finding the missing treasures, began to see the superior attractions of the beautiful home. Long before night more than one aged face smiled placidly as its owner looked in contentment in her own dainty room furnished with a neat iron bed painted white, and with a pretty bureau, a warm, bright rug and other delightful things surrounding her.

OLD LADIES' ROOM.

The old ladies' rooms are all on the first floor and look out on a magnificent view. They are sunny and spacious, and make anyone an impulsive willingness to immediately begin to get on. It is a lady with a cap and a room in the Home for the Friendless. Everything was, of course, in confusion yesterday and it was only by the liveliest effort that the dormitories could be prepared for occupancy. Mrs. C. P. Matthews, Mrs. W. D. Kennedy, Mrs. J. E. Carmalt, Mrs. N. Y. Leet, Mrs. A. Hendrick, Mrs. J. A. Robertson and others were on the spot endeavoring to evolve order out of chaos. It seemed rather a hopeless task, as many of the rooms are as yet unfurnished, despite the generous gifts of friends. Among those not yet provided for are the matron's sleeping room, which is one of the lower chambers, and the board room below. The building is so beautiful, the location is so surpassingly fine that the visitor is overwhelmed with the prospect. One cloud rests upon it, and that is the ominous black cloud of a debt of $28,000.

BAPTIST CHURCH SUPPER.

Ladies of the Penn Avenue Congregation Served Many Patrons. A delicious supper was served last evening at the Penn Avenue Baptist church when chicken, scalloped oysters, ice cream and other good things called forth the appreciation of the many patrons. Among the ladies on the committee were: Giles Roberts, George Weed, John Watkins, E. P. Welch, John Woodhouse, P. C. White, E. C. Roselle, Mrs. Richardson, Mrs. Hollingsworth, Mrs. Ridgway, Mrs. Lasley, Mrs. Standler, Mrs. Connors, Misses Roslands, Sicker, Callender, Jennie Thomas, Mesdames W. H. Tripp, L. J. Northrup, William McClave, A. D. Stelle, L. R. Stelle, A. B. Warner, Charles Northrup, G. F. Weeks, Herschel Hall, George Fassold, George Frutcher, H. S. Smith, Crawford Swartz.

Lost flesh lately? Does your brain tire? Losing control over your nerves? Are your muscles becoming exhausted? You certainly know the remedy. It is nothing new; just the same remedy that has been curing these cases of thinness and paleness for twenty-five years. Scott's Emulsion. WHAT IS THE GRIP?

It Is Certainly a Most Mysterious Disease, but Its Real Cause Is Clearly Explained.

Investigation has shown that nearly every family in the city has had at least one of its members attacked by the grip, but it seems to be coming in a different form this year than ever heretofore. Men and women complain more of nausea, pains in the arms, limbs and about the back and a general lack of appetite and ambition. Now, all this proves clearly just where the cause of the grip is located. Have you ever seen a sewer or drain clogged up after a heavy rain? It is precisely this way with the grip. The kidneys get clogged up and the poisonous acids which should pass from the system are thrown back until finally they get into the blood and so poison the whole body.

Read what the eminent Dr. Hamilton has to say upon this subject: "It is clear," says he, "that in order to drive grip and similar poisons from the system it is only necessary to open up the sewers; in other words, to put the kidneys in perfect working order so that they will carry these poisons away instead of allowing them to clog up and ruin the blood, and, unfortunately, this is not altogether an easy thing to do. 'There is, so far as the medical profession and science know, but one discovery that will quickly and effectually open up the kidneys and at the same time soothe them. That discovery, which has cured so many thousands of men and women; which is keeping so many in perfect health today, and which is used so universally the world over is Warner's Safe Cure. It is recommended and used by the highest medical authorities both abroad and in America. It can be taken by the most aged person and the tiniest child with perfect effect, for it is perfectly pure and harmless. Prof. Meyer, of Germany; Dr. William Edward Robson, of England, and Dr. Gunn, of New York, are all prominent men who speak in the highest terms of this great remedy. If you have any symptoms of the grip, let me advise you to act promptly, for you will find that Safe Cure will relieve you quickly, take you from a condition of misery and put you on the road to health."

THEATRICAL ATTRACTIONS.

Kathleen Mavourneen.

At the Linden theater yesterday afternoon and evening "Kathleen Mavourneen" was presented by the stock company in a manner that called forth hearty applause. New faces seen in the company were those of Thaddeus Gray, Harry Holtzman, F. J. Wallace and Miss Agnes Hopperton. They are capable actors and will add much strength to the company. Mr. Gray was seen yesterday in the role of Bernard in "The Bohemian Burlesque," and Mr. Holtzman as Tom in "The Bohemian Burlesque." Miss Hopperton assumed the role of Katie O'Leary, while Mr. Wallace was cast for the minor role of Darby Doyle. All demonstrated that they are possessed of much dramatic talent. Miss Alice Kemp made a graceful and loving matron. Kathleen and Charles H. McKinley won much applause in the role of Father Cuddy. The drama will be repeated this and tomorrow afternoons and evenings. Souvenirs appropriate to the day were distributed to the patrons of the house yesterday.

Very Ordinary Performance.

A small audience composed mostly of boys and young men, gathered at Pennsylvania yesterday afternoon to witness the opening performance given by "Robbie's Bohemian Burlesque." The man who took tickets at the door said that Mr. Robbie was in New York, and those who witnessed the performance were doubtless not surprised that the proprietor should keep as far away from his town in which he was performing as possible. Morally speaking, the entertainment was not so bad as some of those which have disgraced Music Hall in the past, but the performance contained suggestive features which should be introduced before an audience composed of decent people, and the witticisms were in the last degree of taste.

Creston Clarke.

Creston Clarke, supported by Miss Adelaide Prince, and an exceptionally strong company of twenty, will present "The Last of His Race," a new four-act drama. In the performance contained suggestive features which should be introduced before an audience composed of decent people, and the witticisms were in the last degree of taste.

A Wealth of Scenery.

The King Dramatic company that will appear here next week at the Academy of Music has made more to commend itself than the usual popular priced attraction. Presenting, as it does, a round of popular scenic successes, all famous for their original as well as novel stage effects, a vast amount of settings are necessary. To properly present a repertoire of such scenic success, which includes "The Stowaway," "Power of the Press," "Lights O' London," it requires twenty-two complete sets of scenery, all of which are carried by the organization. The management opens Monday evening with an elaborate production of "The Stowaway." Time matinee will be given daily commencing Tuesday. A special ticket for the first night will be issued for ladies at 15 cents.

Castle Square Opera Company.

The Castle Square organization, the largest, strongest and most successful in America, has made it its business to present "Grand" and "Comic" opera in the vernacular. Their singers are all American, they present in English--not in music--a very style. "H. T. Trovatore," "Martha," "Hohemian Girl," "Carmen," "Gypsy Baron," "Queen's Lace Handkerchief," "Cavalier Rusticiana" and the other operas in their repertoire will be given as complete and thorough representation as though they were to be played an entire week instead of individual performances. The Castle Square organization, by the admirable efficiency of its methods, has made opera in English--not only possible but profitable. This strong organization will be seen at the Lyceum in the near future.

UNCLE SAM CAN CALL OUT STATE TROOPS

They Are Quoted by National and State Laws to Obey.

TEST CASES AND COURT DECISIONS

Leave No Doubt of the Authority of the General Government to Use the National Guard of Any or All the States--Requisition Could Be Made on the Governor--Quotations from Law and Judge Advocate's Opinion on the Important Matter.

"Apropos of the war talk and the fever of preparing for emergencies by the United States government," says the Wilkes-Barre Leader, "there has been quite a little discussion of late about the rights of the government as to state troops. The statement has been made frequently that the National Guards of Pennsylvania would be promptly called upon by the president in case of actual hostilities and that the military organization of other states would also be called upon.

"This opinion has been scouted by others who claimed to be well informed and they have said with all the array of superior knowledge that it was absurd to suppose that the president could call upon the National Guard of Pennsylvania or any other state; that they could not be called out by any one except the governor, and then only for service inside the state. 'The whole matter has been discussed freely heretofore and authorities have been shown and quoted that bring the inevitable conclusion that the United States government can demand the service of the organized National Guard, and that the only formality necessary before taking the troops out of the state would be swearing them into the service of the general government. Now for the authority:

WHAT CONSTITUTION SAYS.

Constitution of the United States, ART. I, Sec. 8--The congress shall have power... to provide for calling forth the militia to execute the laws of the Union, suppress insurrection and repel invasions. Revised Statutes, United States, Sec. 102--Whenever the United States are invaded or are in imminent danger of invasion from any foreign nation or Indian tribe, or of rebellion against the authority of the government of the United States, it shall be lawful for the president to call forth such members of the militia of the state or states as he may deem necessary to execute the laws of the United States, to suppress insurrection, to repel invasion, or to execute such other duties as may be required of them, and to issue such orders for the purpose to officers of the militia as he shall think proper.

"Section 154 of the Revised Statutes provide that when the militia is summoned into the service of the United States they shall be subject to the same rules and articles of war as the regular troops, and that they shall be subject to the same rules and articles of war as the regular troops. 'Now in reply to all this some one may have noticed that the term militia used in the foregoing means the whole body of able bodied men between the ages of 18 and 45 and subject to military duty. But as a matter of fact it is plain in the construction of the paragraphs that the law quoted refers not to the general term of militia but to the regularly organized National Guards of the states.

"In support of this the Leader here-with quotes the opinion of Colonel Thomas DeWitt Cuyler, judge advocate general National Guards Pennsylvania, he says among other things:

COL. CUYLER'S OPINION.

"I entertain no doubt, but that such power is clearly invested in the president, under the constitution of the United States and several statutes passed by congress by virtue of said provisions in the constitution. Colonel Cuyler then quotes the articles from the constitution of the United States and from the revised statutes as they have been quoted above. He goes on:

"It will thus be seen that ample provision is made under the constitution and the statutes, for the calling into the actual service of the general government of the state militia, and its government and control while in such service. 'The constitutionality of the act of Feb. 28, 1795, has been attacked in a number of cases before the Supreme court of the United States, and notably in the case from Pennsylvania of Huston v. Moore (5th Wheaton). In that case the state militia having been called upon by the constitution to perform service under the general government, Huston, a private in the state militia, refused to obey the order. He was duly tried by court martial and convicted. An appeal was taken to the court of the United States, but on the sole question most aptly and completely resolved by all the justices of the Supreme court, in separate opinions, in all of which the right of the president to call upon the state militia was recognized and affirmed. The case may be regarded as a leading one and exactly settling the law upon the points at issue. 'As to the method through which the president shall call upon the state militia for active service it would seem that no president, subject to the approval and that under the decision in Huston v. Moore it is within the power of the secretary of war to make a requisition upon the governor in writing for the services of the state militia.

THE ORGANIZING ACT.

Colonel Cuyler then quotes the Act under which the National Guard of Pennsylvania was organized, and shows that the National Guard and militia are synonymous terms and that the aforesaid law distinctly recognizes the relation of the Guard to the National government and provides for its being called into the service of the United States. He concludes that it is within the power and it is the duty of the governor at all times, under the law, to recognize requisition of the president of the United States or of the lawfully constituted authorities of the general government calling the National Guard into the service of the general government. Another decision of the United States Supreme court says:

"It belongs exclusively to the president to judge when the exigency arises in which he has authority under the constitution to call forth the militia and his decision is conclusive upon all other persons."

"The clinching of the whole argument is found in the quotation which Major Sheldon Potter, Judge Advocate of the First Brigade, N. G. P., makes from the Revised Statutes U. S., 1549. This provides the penalties which may be imposed upon every officer, non-commissioned officer or private in the militia who fails to obey the orders of the president when he calls out the militia into the actual service of the

THEY RIDICULE IT.

MANY PEOPLE RIDICULE THE IDEA OF AN ABSOLUTE CURE FOR DYSPEPSIA AND STOMACH TROUBLES.

Ridicule, However, Is Not Argument and Facts Are Stubborn Things.

Stomach troubles are so common and in many cases so obstinate to cure that people are apt to look with suspicion on any remedy claiming to be a radical, permanent cure for dyspepsia and indigestion. Many such pride themselves on never being humbugged, especially on medicines. This fear of being humbugged may be carried too far; so far, in fact, that many persons suffer for years with indigestion, and get no better, until a little time and money in faithfully testing the claims of a preparation so reliable and universally used as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Now Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are vastly different in one important respect from ordinary proprietary medicines for the reason that they are not a secret patent medicine, no secret is made of their ingredients, but analysis shows them to contain the natural digestive ferments, pure aseptic pepsin, and the digestive acids, Golden Seal, bismuth, hydrate and nux. They are not cathartic, neither do they act powerfully on any organ, but they cure indigestion on the common sense plan of digesting the food eaten promptly, thoroughly before it has time to ferment, sour and cause the mischief. This is the only secret of their success.

Cathartic pills never have and never can cure indigestion and stomach trouble, because they act entirely upon the bowels, whereas the whole trouble is really in the stomach. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, taken after meals, digest the food. That is all there is to it. Food not digested or not digested in time, creates gas, acidity, headaches, palpitation of the heart, loss of flesh and appetite, and many other troubles which are often called by some other name. They are sold by druggists everywhere at 50 cents per package. Address Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich., for book on stomach diseases or ask your druggist for it.

United States. Under this section it has been decided, in the case of Martin V. Mott, 12 Wheaton 19, that although a militia man who refuses to obey the orders of the president calling him into the public service, is not employed in the service of the United States so as to be subject the Rules and Articles of War, yet he is liable to be tried for the offense by a court martial called under the authority of the United States.

"Now all the foregoing ought to be conclusive and it will set decidedly at rest the doubts that have arisen and that have been expressed upon the points hereinabove detailed. It is surprising to find the number of well informed people who have been insisting that the national government had no jurisdiction over the state troops. But there is no doubt that Uncle Sam can beckon to them and that they must obey. But the word must be not the one perhaps to use, for the patriotism of the guardsmen is so great they will be glad to take a hand in holding up the honor of the nation in whatever way the president may decide to call upon them to do it."

MAYOR BAILEY'S APPROVAL.

Withheld from Light Ordinances and Given to Other Measures.

Mayor Bailey yesterday had before him a number of ordinances passed by councils providing for additional electric lights. He deferred attaching his signature to the measures in view of information from the contractor that no funds were available for that purpose. Among a large batch of papers delivered by the city clerk to his honor for approval, and which he signed were ordinances which will provide sidewalks for pedestrians to May Ave. park. He also signed the ordinance transferring state funds from the city treasurer to the Scranton Volunteer Firemen's Relief association, and an ordinance for sidewalks on Garfield avenue, between Jackson and Washburn streets.
