udges are included in the list. A case which will command a great leal of attention is the one against Alexander J. Straff, of this city, who s charged with violating the postal laws, conducting a lottery business under the name of the Santo Domingo Investment and Loan company. The hearing in the case was before commissioner Breck, who held Straff unler $300 bail. The case was first discovered by Postoffice Inspector U. J. McManus, of Philadelphia. The method of the concern in transacting business was to sell what purported to be certificates of stock in the company. The operations were carried on among the Slavish population in all parts of the state. All of the correspondence was in the Slavish language, which allowed the concern to do business for quite a time before its discovery,

DEFENDANT'S CLAIM.

The chief evidence is the literature sent out by the "company," and its correspondence with the alleged in-vestors here and in other parts of the state. Although the claim of the defendant concern is that a legitimate investment business has been conducted throughout the correspondence and of the referce is confirmed. circulars of the concern it mentions "winnings," "days of drawings" and prizes.

The arrest of Straff was made in this city about a week ago. This case will have to go before the grand jury and it will be for them to decide whether or not Straff is guilty as far as a prima facia case is concerned. If the grand jury indicts him an interesting case may be expected. There is no Alexander J. Straff in the Scranton directory and who he is no one seems to

JEROME KEOGH RETURNS.

Scranton's Pool Expert Offers No Excuse for His Defeat.

Jerome R. Keogh, the well-known pool player, returned home Saturday evening from Boston, where he was defeated by W. H. Clearwater, of Pittsburg, in the world's championship pool match recently. Keogh does not attribute his loss to any outside agency, but simply believes it a case of ill-luck. Immediately after the close of the match, Keegh challenged Clearwater to another match, and the contest will take place either in Pittsburg or New York some time next month. A cause which may be assigned for his defeat was the substitution of composition balls for ivory ones in the match, which greatly affected Keogh's playing.

THREE COURT OPINIONS

ere Against the Lace Curtain and the Postal Telegraph Companies. An opinion in the case of Creightor Birch vs. the Scranton Lace Curtain Manufacturing company was handed down in court Saturday morning, and another in the case of R. A. Blythe against the same company. Another ase disposed of-and one in which much local interest has been manifested-was that involving the validity of the borough of Taylor's pole tax. In the case of Creighton & Birch, court declared that the judgment was egal and discharged the rule to open judgment. Application was made in behalf of the stockholders, Creighton & Birch, commission men in New York city, to open judgment on bond given to secure advances that they made on goods. The defendants claimed that as Creighton was a stockholder and director any preference in his favor was unlawful. Attorneys Vosburg & Dawson represented the defendants, and C. H. Welles the plaintiff.

In the application of R. A. Blythe against the company for a rule to dissolve judgment attachment on the ground that there was fraud on the part of the company, the court held that as the debt to Blythe was not due attachment could not be sustained, and that the evidence was insufficient to show fraud. Both cases will be appealed to the Supreme court. Judge Archbald overruled the exceptions to the report of I. H. Burns, referee, in the case of Taylor borough against the Postal Telegraph company. The opinion contained the following:

The ordinance in question does not show as clearly as it might that the so-called annual license fees imposed by it are for the purpose of defraying the ex-pense of inspecting the poles and wires of the several telephone, telegraph and electric railway companies; * * * but this may be fairly inferred from the connection. The section which imposes the fce immediately follows others which direct that such inspection shall be made and how the correction of defects found by it shall be enforced. The only reasonable conclusion from this is that all the sec-tions hang together. * * * In this view the ordinance is clearly in the power of the borough to enact. Whatever views, however, we might have upon the subject must yield to the case of McKees port vs. Railway Co., 2 Superior Court Rep. 242. The license fee or tax there enforced was imposed by an ordinance which is bald of any suggestion as to its and simply levies the tax with out any further why or wherefore. But the court, supplying the purpose from the duty of the municipality to make inspection sustains the ordinance as a proper police regulation on that sole ground. "The introduction and construction of telegraph, telephone, electric light, electric power and street car lines," says Willard, ., "through, over and upon city streets, the erection of poles, and stringing wires thereon, charged with danger-ous agencies as motive power, call for the exercise of more than ordinary care not only in the erection of poles and proper adjustment of the wires, but in the main tenance and repair of the same, and a vigilant and constant inspection, and ev-ery municipality owes the duty of rigid inspection to its citizens. In the performance of this duty the proper auth*rities of the city of McKeesport had a right to pass the ordinance above quoted, and neglect on their part to have done so would have been neglect of public duty." It is further to be noted that this decision also sustains the power to pass such an ordinance as that under discus-sion. This was the question in that case. as it is here, but it was declared that is it is here, but it was declared that "the right to pass the ordinance as a police regulation is too well settled to admit of discussion." * * * The only difference between the two cases is that there it was a city ordinance and here it is the ordinance of a borough, but this, in effect, is no difference at all. * * * The exceptions are overruled and the report of the referre is confirmed.

BOARD OF TRADE.

Combined Supper and Meeting Will Be Held Tonight.

Tonight the board of trade will hold its combined supper and business meeting. It is probable that at least 100 members and applicants for membership will be present.

The supper, which will begin at 7.30 o'clock, is to be provided by Steward O'Neill, of the Scranton club at the expense of the board's treasury. The menu is quite elaborate. Fifteen or more applicants will be present as guests of the board.

At the conclusion of the supper the ousiness session will be held at the table and will conclude with several impromptu speeches.

FORTUNES IN NEW MEXICO COAL

One of the Most Tempting Proposttions Ever Offered to Business Men. A Supply That Practically Com- sal patron to all industries extant and mands the Great Market of the creates more wealth and business.

El Paso, Texas, March 12.-A good many people at the North do not seem to realize what the coal situation here eally is. A number of correspondents have questioned me on this point and I hear of many inquiries directed to other persons. Bear in mind that El Paso is the neeting point for six railroads which radiate in every direction-into Old Mexico as well as the United States. These railroads are not only extensive onsumers of coal, but they reach markets for that product throughout the entire Southwest. There are very large smelting establishments in this city and in the region reached by these roads, which also require great quantitles of coal. There are likewise demands for manufacturing and for do-mestic purposes. All told it is estimated that the El Paso market for coal s about 50,000 tons per month and for oke about 20,000 tons per month-a total equivalent of about 80,000 tons of raw coal each month. At present the principal sources of supply for coal at this point are:

Thurber, Texas, 538 miles away. Trinidad, Colorado, 530 miles away. Sabinas, Mexico, 514 miles away.

Cerrillos, N. M., 330 miles away. In nearly every case the haul to El Paso is over adverse railroad grades, aggregating fully 5,000 feet. Half a ent a mile per ton for hauling is the usual estimate. Add the cost of minng-which in every instance is greater than at Salado, and in some important cases many times greater—and it is easy to see that with the New Mexico Railway & Coal Co.'s coal but 169 miles distant its product can be laid down at El Paso at a price that will command

The quality of the coal is equal to he best that is available in the Southwest and is better than most of the supply that now reaches El Paso. It okes easily and well.

The very best coal mining authorities ay that the cost of mining coal at Salado should not exceed $1.25 a ton. The haul of 160 miles is down grade all of the way. It is easy to see therefore that this coal could be offered in the El Paso market at a very low price and still give a profit to the consumer. At present the wholesale price of soft coal here is $4.50 a ton. The price of coke is $6.50 to $9.50. No wonder that the callroads and smelters at El Paso are frequently inquiring when the coal and okes of the New Mexico Railway & Coal Co, will be ready.

Even at current prices they have difficulty in securing regular supplies on account of their great distances from the mines. The Salado coal is about as far from El Paso as the Wyoming Valley is from New York, but no one who has seen the regular, easy, down-gradiants of the mesas from Tularosa o El Paso can imagine how different the haul proposition is in the two cases.

The wholesale cost of anthracite in New York ranges from $3.50 to $4 per ton and the producer has royalties of from 25 cents to 40 cents per ton to pay, and there are large expenditures for improvements and breakers for the preparation of this coal in different izes. At Salado, on the other hand, the coal out-crops in seams of nearly six feet and at an easy dip, so that plest proposition.

All the world knows of the immense fortunes that have come from anthracite mining in Pennsylvania. The coal is there, hard to get, hard to haul, expensive to prepare for market, and with a demand which must be handled with discretion. In Salado the coal is plenty, easy to mine, cheap to haul and t will reach a market where it is practically without a price-competitor. No wonder those who know most of this proposition are the ones that are investing the most liberally in it.

UNSURPASSED NATURAL RESOURCES.

A Scranton Man Now Residing in New Mexico Tells Something of the Promise of That Favored Land. Certain Profit for Investors.

La Luz, N. M., March S, 1898.—The completion of the El Paso & Northeastern railway into the White Oaks country, a distance of about 150 miles, will center into El Paso the trade of a country unsurpassed in the United States for natural resources. This railroad is now being constructed at the rate of one mile per day. Along this and pasture lands, when the Jarilla Mountains are encountered. These mountains are somewhat isolated from the main range, or Sacramentos-practically foot-hills, and yet separate and conglomerate mineral. These mountains have been neglected, to a great extent, for want of water facilities, but they contain great wealth in copper, iron, gold, silver and turquoise. The railroad people are sinking a series of wells along its line, and so far have found abundance of good water, so that the mineral in these mountains is now being opened up and legitimate mining begun by companies with abundant means, and who are now accumulating the various ores to ship to El Paso for treatment. To persons not cognizant of what

Passing these mountains you see upon your left vast bottom or valley lands, while on your right rises the main ranges of Sacramento, White and Nogal Mountains, filled with springs and running brooks wherewith to irrigate the plains and valley lands which grow cereals, vegetables and fruits to a perfection unequaled anywhere else in the United States. At Nogal, 20 miles from White Oaks, are many gold and silver mines in operation. Timber, coal, iron, gold, silver, copper and lead all abound in these mountains, and the impetus now being given by the prospect of cheap railroad transportation is already bringing in a great number of practical and mon ied men to develop and utilize thes various resources and make of this country a paradise for business and
