COLD CURE
CARBONDALE.

[The Carbondale correspondence of The Tribune has been placed in the hands of Mr. C. H. Mount, Salem avenue and Church street, to whom news items may be addressed. All complaints as to irregular delivery, etc., should be made to W. J. Roberts, news agent.]

MONTHLY STATISTICS.

Only Twenty-one Deaths During March—Police Court Record.

Twenty-one residents of this city and one from Carbondale township and one from Fell township passed away during the month of March—an extremely low death rate for a district containing at least twenty thousand inhabitants. According to the board of health statistics the cause of death were divided as follows:

Pneumonia, 3; bronchitis, 2; old age, 2; apoplexy, 2; accidents, 2; paralysis, cerebro-spinal meningitis, heart trouble, typhoid fever, rabies, spasms, alcoholism, cardiac disease, grip, each one. The cause of two were unknown. Twelve interments were made in St. Rose cemetery, four in Maplewood, three in Brookside, and bodies were taken to Mayfield, Brooklyn, Pleasant Mount and Preston for burial. One body brought here from Jersey and interred in St. Rose cemetery. During the month was but one still birth.

POLICE RECORDS.

For morality as well as health this city will take the palm over the others of its size in the commonwealth. But fourteen arrests were made by the police during March. All were plain drunks. Two were fined, and two were committed to the county jail and the other ten were reprimanded and discharged.

GAMBLERS MUST GO.

Authorities Have Notified Them to Quit the Cards.

Local authorities have determined to rid the city of the two well known gambling houses on Main street. As a result of their orders the one on South Main street has closed its doors and there is indication that the one in the Keystone block will soon be obliged to follow suit.

JERMYN AND MAYFIELD.

Steven Witmore and Edwin Graves are at Crystal lake. Mr. Witmore is just in receipt of a letter from Frank Decher, who has been in the Alaska gold fields for the past three years, and who was one of the Klondike pioneers. In his letter Decher strongly advises everyone who has the Klondikeitis to get rid of the feeling as quickly as possible and stay at home. He has been one of the fortunate ones and is estimated at the present time to be worth a hundred thousand dollars. His advice, therefore, ought to have some weight.

CHANGING LOCATION.

Among the prominent people who moved yesterday are the following: Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Vanaman and Dr. and Mrs. F. E. Jenkins, into their new building on Salem avenue. It will, however, be several days before they can become settled in their new home as the finishing touches are still being put on by the workmen. Mr. and Mrs. Grattan A. Singer will occupy apartments in the building. Professor and Mrs. A. Rumsby left South side in the J. F. Moffitt house on the west side of South Main street.

FIRE.

Fire broke out in the kitchen of Mrs. John Nell's house, on Wayne street, at 9.30 this morning. Neighbors formed a bucket brigade and broke holes in the roof through which they fought the flames. The damage to furniture and house from fire and water will be considerable. The fire was started by an over-heated stove and no one was in the kitchen at the time had gained considerable headway when discovered. Mrs. Nell, who intends to break up housekeeping, is in Cherry Ridge today.

HER MASTERPIECE.

The Ethel Tucker company presented her masterpiece, "The Foxglove," at the Grand last evening. There was a large attendance and the manner in which Miss Tucker's efforts were received was highly complimentary. The specialty artists also added to their popularity last evening.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

Miss Grace Briggs and Miss Agatha Dwyer, graduates of the Carbondale hospital school for nurses, left yesterday for Philadelphia, where they will take a special course in one of the large hospitals.

Mrs. C. A. Smith and children, of Park street, are visiting friends in Lehigh.

Mrs. W. J. Lowry and daughter are visiting friends in Binghamton, N. Y.

Mrs. Catherine Bolton and daughter Lella, went to Binghamton yesterday. They will make the Parlor city their home for a year.

Dr. J. G. Harper, of Buffalo, N. Y., is spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Lathrop. The doctor is at present in the best of health, and states that the air of the Lake City does not agree with him.

John Clune has moved his old store building to the rear of his property on the site a handsome new residence.

Mrs. L. E. Bate returned home today from a visit to her sister-in-law, Mrs. George Detrick, of Scranton, where she was called by the illness of her mother, Mrs. Joseph Detrick, who is visiting at that place.

TAYLOR NEWS.

Pleasantly Surprised -- Accidentally Injured -- Personal and Other News.

Miss Lizzie Jones was tendered a most enjoyable surprise party at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Jones, of Storms' street, on Wednesday evening. UNCLE SAM'S FIGHTING RECORD.

Reasons for Believing That He Can Take Care of Himself.

Proble Tucker, in the Sun.

It may not be inopportune at this time, when certain timorous ones are expressing doubts as to the result of war between the United States and Spain, to look up our fighting record, as the sporting fraternity would put it.

From the Declaration of Independence to the present day, a period of 123 years, the United States has waged five wars, not to speak of the numerous Indian and border skirmishes, and in every one our flag has come out on top. Can as much be said of any other nation during the same period?

England has had during that period, roughly speaking, six wars, not including its fights with the natives of South Africa and northern India and the opium war in China. Of these six, two—the American Revolution and the War of 1812—resulted in victory for her opponents. In other words, to axain use a sporting term, she lost two out of six events.

France had also six wars, not counting her fights in northern Africa and China; of these she lost two—the war with the allied powers and the Franco-Prussian war.

Prussia out of her five wars waged during the same period lost two.

Austria lost three and gained two.

Russia lost two and gained two.

Spain has lost every war she has undertaken during that period, unless her ten years' war with Cuba should be placed to her credit as a victory. So much for the record. In analyzing it we find that in most of the cases in which a European nation has won it has been in alliance with some other nation, as in the war of the allied powers against Napoleon, the Crimean war, and the Franco-Italian-Austrian war.

In one case only did the United States have an ally, and that was in the Revolution. Even then the war was nearly half over when France came to our assistance with a fleet and a few thousand troops as an offset to the Hessian troops employed by England. In our two wars with England the United States was tremendously outclassed in all that goes to make the fighting efficiency of a nation, except bravery and endurance. In our war with the Barbary states the odds were not so great. In our favor as they appear at first blush; we were fighting thousands of miles from home, a naval power that had exacted tribute from every maritime power in the world and was secretly backed by the money and moral support of Great Britain.

In the Mexican war the advantages were all with us.

The war of secession was the greatest war of modern times. In that war the old flag completed its unbroken record of victory, but the victors have shared the fruits of victory with the vanquished and the nation is stronger than ever before to defend its flag against all comers. In the face of this record how can any sane person doubt the result of a war with Spain?

THAT TORPEDO FLOTILLA.

What It Is and Why It Is Considered Dangerous by Expert Naval Authorities.

From the Times-Herald.

When Spain's flotilla, now on its way to American waters, reaches its destination that country will have about forty old line torpedo boats and three torpedero destroyers with twenty-four hours of fuel. If these torpederos should slip over to that vicinity on some dark night and attack our fleet where it lies it might very well happen that the latter should be utterly destroyed and Spain left in command of the sea. If we would lose even the Massachusetts and the Iowa it would leave Spain with the preponderance at sea and with full power to ravage our coasts at her will. The navy department has the following list of the Spanish torpedo boats now on its way to Porto Rico: Terror, Furor and Pluton, each of 380 tons and a speed of twenty-eight knots. Torpederos: Azor, 127 tons, twenty-five knots; Ragor, 120 tons, twenty-two knots; Ariste, 128 tons, twenty-five knots, and Ciudad de Cadix, 120 tons, twenty-two knots. Besides these there are thirty-four torpedo boats already in Cuban waters.

DESCRIPTION OF A DESTROYER.

A torpedo boat destroyer is nothing more or less than a very large torpedo boat. The ordinary torpedo boat cannot travel in the open sea with safety. A destroyer is between 210 and 225 feet in length. It draws only four or five feet of water, which is about the same as that of a torpedo boat. It has a coal carrying capacity sufficient to enable it to cross the ocean, and it has twin screws and triple expansion engines, capable of developing 6,000-horse power, which insures a speed of thirty knots or more an hour. This is considerably faster than the ordinary torpedo boat travel. Torpedo boat destroyers cost between $300,000 and $400,000. They are built to carry five or six six-pound guns and one thirteen-pound quick-fire gun. These guns are sufficient to destroy any torpedo boat or to sink an ordinary unprotected gunboat. They also carry two torpedo tubes. The United States now has twenty-one torpedo craft of this character, either built or under construction. These vessels range from forty-six tons upward to 300 tons, the large ones partaking of the character of torpedo boat destroyers.

HARBOR DEFENSE.

The smaller boats are intended mainly for use in harbor defenses, as their dimensions will permit of their rapid ingress and egress from narrow and contracted channels, and also their navigation through rivers in order to reach inland points. Besides these, the United States has several improved torpedo boats.

DEATH OF ARANGUREN.

Colonel Parker Sheds New Light on This Cuban Tragedy.

From the Washington Post.

The story of conditions as they exist today in Cuba was told last night at All Souls' church by Colonel Myron M. Parker, who, as a member of the expedition to the suffering island, in company with Senator Proctor. Much that Colonel Parker related in his lecture has already been given in his own interviews and in the recent statements of Senator Proctor before the senate. One feature of the lecture, however, was his story, told incidentally, of the execution of Colonel Ruiz and the killing of General Aranguren, the insurgent leader. It differed somewhat from that of previous reports, and was interestingly and accurately related.

WORLD CHANGE TACTICS.

"Of course, in war times, no fleet would be at anchor in an exposed condition, but would either remain in a sheltered harbor or steam silently along without lights, or with a battleship succeeded in reaching Cuba, some such plan will probably be adopted by Commodore Sampson. But at present he is handicapped by the fact that war has not been declared, and while unconsciously vigilant, he would be loath to open fire on suspicious craft than he would in war times. Yet it would be just like the Spanish to attack first and declare war afterwards. Most wars begin in this way. For instance, the British destroyed a Turkish fleet at Sinope some years ago without war either before or after. A

HIS YARN CAME BACK.

He Told It to a Graphophone, That by a Telephone, and Then to Him.

From the Galesburg Evening Mail.

W. E. Terry, of Galesburg, has been having considerable fun lately with his brother-in-law, Dr. Hull, of Keosauqua, and perpetrated a joke on him the other day that was as unique as original. Mr. Terry has a graphophone, and a few days ago sent the machine to Hull, with the request that he should talk to it. Dr. Hull happened to find some extra cylinders, and so he talked a fake story of one of Mr. Terry's big deer shots in the northern woods last fall.
