CITY NOTES.

William Weber and Miss Annie Hempel, of Dunmore, were married in the office of the clerk of the courts Saturday by Alderman Fuller.

On Wednesday evening, April 13, the council of the Young Men's Institute of the city will conduct a social in the Scranton Bicycle club house.

The various City union will meet this morning at the Elm Park church. Subject for discussion, "Should We Continue." The committee on Dr. Strong's meeting will report.

The Delaware and Hudson paid Saturday at the Manville colliery and at the Providence repair shops. The Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company paid at the Diamond and Hallstead mines on the same day.

Evidence on the death of Owen Davis, who was killed by the bursting of a fly wheel at the Green Ridge Iron works, will be held by a coroner's jury at 8 o'clock this evening in the arbitration room at the court house.

There will be a service for one hour, every evening this week, except Saturday, at the First Presbyterian church. Dr. Charles E. Robinson will preach this evening and Dr. D. J. Hurrell, of New York, Tuesday evening. Strangers welcome.

Final action on the Sunport sewer ordinance has been abandoned in select council. The project will be resumed as soon as property owners along the whole of the contemplated line petition for the sewer. Under these circumstances no cost would fall upon the city.

Mrs. Mary Scott, for many years a well known resident of Pine street, West Side, has occupied the commodious rooms at 306 Millberry street, and which she has elegantly furnished as a "Nurses' Home." Misses Hutton, Hartman, Schaeffer and Van Hatten, graduates of the Lackawanna Hospital Training school, have taken up their residence with her, and her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Seal, is also a graduate.

TWO DIVORCES ASKED.

In Both Cases Men Were the Applicants.

Two applications for divorces were filed Saturday with Prothonotary John Copeland. Lester F. Bassett, of Blakey, asks for a divorce on the ground that his wife, Mary E. Bassett, deserted him. They were married at Uaukaia, N. H., June 11, 1894, and lived together until Sept. 12, 1894, when Bassett alleges his wife left him and returned to the home of her parents.

Elias J. Hendrickson says his wife is unfaithful to him and for that reason he craves to have the legal bond that binds them severed. They were married July 8, 1890, and lived together until Jan. 22, 1898, when he learned of her unfaithfulness and left her.

NEW ORTHODOX GREEK CHURCH

Corner Stone of It Was Laid and Blessed Yesterday Morning.

BUILDING IS ABOUT COMPLETED

It is quite an imposing structure and stands at the corner of South Fillmore Avenue and Division Street. There was a Parade Prior to the Ceremonies Incident to Laying the Stone—Description of the Church and Officers on Congregation.

Services in connection with the laying and blessing of the corner stone for the new Russian Orthodox Catholic church, recently erected at the corner of South Fillmore Avenue and Division Street, were held yesterday morning. The members of St. Paul's and St. Peter's Russian society conducted the services in the presence of about 700 persons, most of whom will comprise the congregation of the new church.

The members of the society met at Sharak's hall, on Twenty-second street, and marched in a body to the church, where the other members of the congregation had already gathered and at 9:30 o'clock the services were held. Rev. George Hushkakh, of Old Forge, officiated and was assisted by Rev. Alexander Toth, of Wilkes-Barre. The beautiful ritualistic service used in this momentous ceremony was carried out in full, and was followed by the celebrating of a mass.

In addition to the St. Paul's and St. Peter's society, representatives from the St. Mary's society, of Wilkes-Barre, and the St. George and St. Michael's society, of Old Forge, were present and participated. The edifice is now practically ready for the holding of the regular church services. During the next two weeks the finishing touches on the interior, such as the painting of the seats, the arrangement of the sanctuary and altar fittings, etc., will be put in and the first service will be held Sunday, April 17.

REV. HUSHKAKH RECTOR.

Rev. G. Hushkakh, rector of the Russian church at Old Forge, will be in charge and will conduct services on alternate Sundays at both churches. The church and its congregation come under the jurisdiction of Bishop Nicholas Alaskinski, of San Francisco.

The edifice at which the above services were held yesterday was completed a few weeks ago, having been in course of erection since November last. Architect Percy Morris drew the plans and the building was erected by Mulhern & Judge. It is a frame building with a basement, and the superstructure is surmounted by the recitation three mosque-shaped towers. Upon each of the towers is placed a large cross.

The main auditorium will be used for the regular church services and is 40x60 having a seating capacity of about 800. The basement, which is finished plain, will be used for day and Sunday school purposes. The lot upon which the edifice stands is 80x150, and the total cost of the property will reach $7,000. About two-thirds of the full cost is already paid and the greater part of the balance is pledged. So the new church, which will be known as St. Paul's and St. Peter's Russian Orthodox Catholic church, begins its existence under encouraging conditions.

ORGANIZED TWO YEARS.

St. Paul's and St. Peter's Russian society, which forms the nucleus of the congregation of the new church, was instrumental in its erection, and was organized about two years ago. Its membership is about 100, composed mostly of citizens of this country, and it is very conservative. Michael Sharak, at whose hall the society meets, is a progressive fellow and to him belongs the main credit of organizing the society and later the setting on foot plans for the erection of a church for the Russian speaking people of this city. The society went at it in a practical manner, and it is now nearly a year since the first steps were taken.

The following are the present officers of the society: John Lukutch, president; William Lotta; vice president; Michael Straeh, secretary, and John Fyrykal, treasurer. John Hrydzinski was elected superintendent of the Sunday school and John Calkowski was made church treasurer.

A RENOWNED SINGER.

Mrs. Anna Parker Kennedy Heard in Solo Work in This City Yesterday.

The audiences at the Elm Park Sunday school yesterday afternoon and at the Penn Avenue Baptist church last evening were treated to a delightful bit of solo work at the hands of Mrs. Anna Parker Kennedy, of Waverly, N. Y., who is visiting at the home of W. H. Campbell, on Webster Avenue. Mrs. Kennedy possesses a remarkably clear and sweet soprano voice, which shows the skillful perfection of many years' training. Her intonation is nearly perfect, with unusual clearness and brilliancy in the upper register.

At Elm Park she rendered a simple little conception entitled "Grass and Roses," while in the evening her efforts bent toward the difficult selection, "Rachela Marie," in which she was heard at her best. Mrs. Kennedy is the pupil of several great masters of note, and it is to be hoped she may be heard in concert here at some future time.

VERDICTS FOR DEFENDANTS.

Returned in Two Cases in Common Pleas Court Saturday.

Saturday morning the jury in the case of Joseph Gunster, assignee of the Scranton City Bank, against G. A. Jessup, cashier of that institution, returned a verdict for the defendant.

In the case of H. R. Wood against E. McE. Sanderson the verdict was also for the defendant. The second week of common pleas court will begin today.

CIVICS CLUB MEETING.

Was Held Last Evening and Included a Debate.

At Saturday evening's stated meeting of the Civics club in the Albright library hall there was a debate on the question: "Resolved, That the City of Scranton Should Own and Operate Its Own Street Railways." The affirmative was led by W. J. Douglas, assisted by Mr. Carter and James Sanderson. L. S. Richard led the negative debate and

BEFORE BREAKFAST.

It is a fact that a great majority of people find difficulty in pronouncing a new word when it first meets their eye. This was illustrated many times in this city while the Spanish man-of-war was in New York harbor. Some said "Viz-ka-ya," others "Viz-ka-ya" and still others "Viz-ka-ya." According to Ude Reger, a professor of languages in Rochester, the correct pronunciation is "Viz-ka-ya," and the accent is on the second syllable. The "i" is long and the "y" has a sharp hissing sound. The professor has authority for the assertion that all the "z's" that occur in the Spanish language have the sound of "w" and "b" fused, with the preponderance of sound in favor of the "w." "Viz" has the same afflication as the "w," "ca" as the professor says, sometimes has the sound of "th" and, then again it is "tz" but for a change it is sometimes given its own hard sound "k."

Professor Reger gives the correct pronunciation of a number of the names which have appeared in connection with Cuban affairs and the disaster in which the Maine was lost. In the following list the word is spelled as it is written in the first column and as it should be pronounced in the second: Havana—Mah-wan-nah, accent on first syllable; Madrid—Mah-dree, accent on second syllable; Blanco—Blahng-ko, accent on first syllable; Cubans—Cah-wah-nis, accent on second syllable; Sagasta—Sa-gas-ta, as spelled, the "a's" sounded as in "cat"; Gomez—Go-meth, accent on first syllable; Canovas—Car-no-was, accent on second syllable; Ruler—Ro-weth, equal accents; Maceo—Mah-tho, accent on first syllable; Maria Rodriguez—Mah-ree-a Rod-ree-guez, accent second syllable both words; "to" in "to" is long; Porcio Diaz—Por-see-ko Dee-ath, accent on second syllable; Perico; accents equal in second word; Reina Mercedes—Ray-vo-nah Mer-the-dek, accent first syllable in Reina, second in Mercedes; Galles—Gal-eth-ee-ah, accent on second syllable; Jorge Juan—Whore Whain, in these words the "j" is the German sound "ch" but it can best be represented in English by "wh"; Bernabe—Bear-nah-be, accent on first syllable; Cadiz—Kah-deeth, accent on first syllable; Eulate—Aoo-lah-te, accent on second syllable; Santa Cruz—Sahn-tah Krooth; Puerto del Padre—Poo-er-to del Pah-dro, accent second syllable of Puerto, first syllable of Padre; "o's" long; Luyando de Loo-see-pee, accent on second syllable of Castillo, first syllable of Principe; Dey Torruenas—Dree Tor-toe-nas, accent second syllable; Lupericio Martinez—Loo-per-see-oh Mar-tee-eth, accent second syllable of Lupericio, second syllable of Martinez; Dupuy de Loue—Doo-pee-oh duh Lohm. This is a French name, somewhat modified in change from that tongue into Spanish; Weiler—Wi-ler, accent first syllable; "i" long. This name comes from the German and retains the German pronunciation; Cristobal Colon—Kris-toh-bahl Koh-ton, accent on the first syllable in Cristobal, second in Colon; Du Bose—Doo Bosk; Matanzas—Mah-tahn-thaz, accent on second syllable; Azore—Ah-thor-ray, accent on second syllable; Rayo—Rah-yoh, accent on first syllable; Arico—Ah-ree-ah-tay, accent on second syllable; Gh-lwen-don, accent third syllable in Al-timention, second syllable in Oquendo—Al-timention Gazette.

A forthcoming number of McClure's magazine will contain an article on the Boys' Industrial association, of Wilkes-Barre, written by Rev. Dr. Gilhousen, of Dunmore Presbyterian church.

The opening day and reception at the new Home for the Friendless will be Thursday, May 5, when all friends of the institution will be welcomed on a tour of inspection.

SABBATH NOTES.

Rev. Thomas de Gruchy, pastor of the Jackson Street Baptist church, concluded his series of illustrated sermons on the "Life of the Master" with the sermon of yesterday. His theme was "From Jerusalem to Calvary."

Rev. T. C. Edwards, D. D., of Kingston, occupied the pulpit at both services at the First Methodist Congregational church yesterday. The eminent Welsh divine is well known here and large congregations were present at both services.

Thomas H. Houghton, the blind evangelist, who has been assisting Rev. J. E. Moffatt, pastor of the Washoura Street Presbyterian church, at the special services held at that church during the last two weeks, preached at a special service here. His topic was "The Greatest Thing in the World." He will speak this evening at the church upon "How I Lost My Sight, Became Converted, and Entered the Presbyterian Ministry." This will be the last evening of the special services and the public is invited.

Palm Sunday in the Lutheran church ritual is always selected as the day for the confirmation of catechumens and this service was duly observed yesterday in nearly all of the Lutheran churches in the city. At St. Peter's, South Scranton, Rev. H. P. Lise confirmed nine; at St. Paul's, Rev. C. Lauer confirmed seven; at St. Mark's West Scranton, Rev. A. L. Ramer, Ph. D., confirmed five. Rev. A. L. Ramer, Ph. D., of St. Mark's, preached from Matthew xxi, 6, "Blessed to God's Commandments," being his theme. The catechumens confirmed were Christopher Stecker, Henry Weber, William Witzal and the Misses Bertha James and Nettie Moore.
