TAXING CHURCH PROPERTY. Showing flow the Laws Differ in the Different States.

In the matter of the taxation or exemption of church property there is wide diversity in the legislation of the several states. The principle generally recognized has been that church property is not held for private interest or enjoyment, but has been given and is maintained for public use, like hospitals, anylums and institutions of learning, and that the taxation of such property tends to discourage gifts for this purpose, and is, therefore, contrary to public policy. Ministers and church people, however, generally sympathize with the desire of legislatures to restrain any tendency to excessive accumulations of ecclesiastical property. All church real estate above ten acres is taxed in Kansas; in New Jersey above five acres; in Rhode Island above one; in Nevada when the value exceeds $5,000; in Washington when it exceeds | being also the possessor of a pair of beau-$500. Parsonages are exempt from tax- tifut eyes. ation in Delaware, Florida, Iowa, Kentucky, Maryland, Michigan, North Carolina, South Carolina, South Dakota, Virginia Wisconsin, Wyoming and West Virginia, and are taxed in the remaining states. In Connecticut, however, they are exempt up to the value of $500, in Maine up to $5,000, and by New York up to $1,500.

ONCE BLEW UP A WARSHIP

Former Confederate Tells How He Smuggled an Internal Machine, Run by Clockwork, on a Federal Vessel on the James in 1864--58 Men Killed and 128 Wounded

Richmond, Va., Letter in the Sun. The recent disaster to the Maine recalls a tragic incident in the late war, when $4,000,000 worth of property of the Federal government was destroyed and the lives of more than half a hundred men were lost, while 126 were wounded This event occurred on Aug. 9, 1864, at City Pont. The man who, acting under instructions from the Confederate States government, caused the terrible havoc is Captain John Maxwell, a wellknown machinist, who resides at 318 North Twenty-seventh street, in this city. Captain Maxwell gives the foilowing account of his experiences: "I left Richmond on the 26th of July, 1864, to operate with what was known as the 'horological' torpedo against the vessels of the Federal forces navigating the James river, R. K. Dillard. since dead, was with me. He was well acquainted with the river, and would go anywhere I led, no matter what the danger might be. When we reached Isle of Wight county on Aug. 2, we heard that an immense supply of stores was being landed at City Point, and at once started for that place, intending, if possible, to introduce our machine upon one of the vessels discharging their cargoes there.

"We reached City Point before daybreak on Aug. 9, having traveled mostly by night and crawled upon our knees to pass the picket lines. I had with me an ordinary candle box containing twelve pounds of gunpowder, procured at a country store. In the box was packed a small machine, my own invention, which was arranged by means of a lever to explode a cap at a time indicated by a dial. SAFELY ABOARD.

"When we got within half a mile of City Point I told Dillard to remain behind while I went forward with my machine. I went out on the wharf cautiously, put my box down and took a seat on it awaiting an opporture moment to get it aboard a vessel. There were two boats at the wharf loaded with ammunition and various stores for the Federal troops, while on the bank were buildings stored with supplies.

"I sat waiting until I saw the captain of the vessel nearest to me leave his boat. That was my opportunity, I picked up the box of powder and started for the boat. As I reached the edge of the wharf the sentry hailed me. He was a German and could not speak a word of English. He vociferated something at me in German. while I rejoined in broad Scotch. Finally by means of signs I induced him to let me approach the vessel, Just then a negro appeared at the side of the ship. I gave him the box and told him the captain said put it down below until he came. The man took it without question and carried it down while I went off a little dis-

"In an hour's time the explosion occurred. It was terrific. Its effect was communicated to the other vessel and also to the large buildings on the wharf, filled with stores, and all were destroyed utterly. I myself was terribly shocked by the explosion, but was not injured permanently. Dillard, my companion, was rendered dear by the explosion and never recovered from Its

"The scene, though terrific, was In some respects ludicrous. The air was filled with all sorts of munitions of war. Army saddles careered through while headless bodies, arms, legs and heads of the unfortunate crew flew in fragments about in the smoke. The official report of the enemy was that 58 men were killed and 128 wounded, but I think that this estimate was too low. They also reported that property to the amount of $4,000,000 was de-

THE VALUE OF LEMONS. No Woman Should Be Without This Very Useful Fruit.

No woman should be without lemas necessary nowadays as soap, so

"Lemons!" exclaimed a woman who believes in them religiously. "Why I

those who believe in them say.

wouldn't be without lemons a whole day for anything. I once heard of a French woman who was considered the most beautiful woman of her time, and she attributed her good looks to eating eight oranges a day for 365 days in the year. I'd be willing to gamble on it that lemons will do far more toward beautifying a woman than oranges. Lemons beautify one through and through, outside and in. Nothing in the world bleaches the skin, hands and face like a little diluted lemon juice applied at night, and, strange to say, unlike most bleaches, it softens the complexion. Then the finest of manieure acids is made by dropping a teaspoonful of lemon juice in a cup of tepid water. This removes all stains from nails and skin and loosens the cyticle naturally and much better than any sharp instrument. A dash of lemon juice in plain water is an excellent tooth wash, removing not only tartar but sweetening the breath, and a teaspoonful of the Juice in a small cup of black coffee will drive off a bilious headache before the sufferer can say caterpillar. Life would be very barren to me without lemons, and so it would to any woman who knows the secret of a lemon taken with a teaspoonful of soda, cooking soda, after each meal will pull the flesh right off the most
