DR. DIXON'S LAST DAY AS PASTOR

Preached His Final Sermons to Large Congregations Yesterday.

LEAVES FOR BOSTON NEXT WEEK

On Sunday, April 24, He Begins His Pastorate with the Warren Avenue Baptist Church, Which Has One of the Four Largest Congregations in That City--Yesterday Morning and Evening Dr. Dixon Referred Briefly to His Departure.

Rev. Dr. Joseph K. Dixon's pastorate of the Penn Avenue Baptist church ended yesterday. Two weeks hence he will become the pastor of the Warren Avenue Baptist church, of Boston, which has one of the four largest Baptist congregations in that city.

Aside from the significance of Easter, the church's large auditorium was filled to overflowing at the two services yesterday, scores being attracted by the last opportunities to hear the popular pastor. He preached no farewell sermon, although he referred to his departure during the morning and evening services.

The audience room of the church was never more handsomely decorated than yesterday. The floral treatment of the pulpit and platform was magnificent with its pyramid of Easter lilies and a small group of palms. Sinalax was used to intertwine the pulpit desk. Hyacinths, a bank of carnations, roses, sprigs blossoms and other plants completed the display.

"The Prince of Life" was the subject of Dr. Dixon's sermon which was based upon the text, "Ye desired a murderer to be granted unto you; and I killed the Prince of Life, whom God hath raised from the dead, Acts 1:18; 17:3. His evening topic was, "The Glad Victim." He preached from John, 11:26, "We have seen the Lord." In the evening hundreds were unable to gain admission to the church. After the service Dr. Dixon for the last time appeared officially before members of the congregation. It was during the usual after-meeting for those wishing special prayer. The occasion was a very sorrowful one to the pastor and his people.

In the afternoon Dr. Dixon conducted the exercises of the Penn Avenue church's American memorial mission on Prescott avenue. In addition to his address, there were many attractive vocal and recitative numbers.

DEPARTS NEXT WEEK.

Dr. Dixon spoke on "The Kind of Face After the Resurrection," Humanity, he said, is personally responsible for its degeneration. Persons wouldn't have long noses if they didn't need them to poke into the business of others. A man who dissipates has a dissipated countenance. The drunkard looks the drunkard; the saintly person looks saintly. As we will look in heaven we look here. We look here as we feel inside, and consequently humanity's looks are as humanity lives.

Near the conclusion of the service, resolutions of regret over Dr. Dixon's departure were adopted by the mission were presented by Isaac Post, the oldest member of the church.

Dr. Dixon, Mrs. Dixon and the children have for some time been stopping at the home of Mrs. Leonard Amerman, 1014 Boston avenue. Their household goods will be shipped to Boston this week and they will leave here for that city early next week. Dr. Dixon will preach his first sermon in the Warren Avenue church Sunday, April 24. His Boston residence will be at No. 281 West 15th street.

Allice, one of Dr. Dixon's children, is quite seriously ill with fever, the exact nature of which has not been determined. The child's condition yesterday was such as to suggest possible interference with family's plans for departure.

In the Easter Day issue of "Our Church Messenger," the Penn Avenue Baptist publication, Dr. Dixon made his good-bye as follows, in part:

Let your pastor draw out his good-bye into its original, "GOD BE WITH YOU!" Today's lesson is— "Mer may come, men may go, But Christ stands by forever." During ministry here some of your choicest spirits have said good-bye to us, yet their faith let us have faith to the end.

"Say not good-bye, But in some brighter, fairer clime, Bid me good morning."

Since the announcement of the conclusion of Dr. Dixon's pastorate here was first made, he has been in constant receipt of scores of written and verbal regrets from the city's best known people of all denominations. Many of the regrets, too, were from persons without church affiliations but of considerable repute in the city, the Holy Spirit testifying to the general esteem in which he was held by the city as a community.

LONG-FORGOTTEN LAW.

Legal Knowledge That Was New to the Court, Though Very Ancient.

In the trespass suit brought by the Lackawanna Iron and Coal company against W. M. Springer, the question of the defendant's bail is still at issue. Mr. Springer, it will be remembered, was sued for $10,000 damages for cutting 1,800 trees from the Daniel Smith tract in Lackawanna township, which tract the plaintiff company owns.

Hall in the sum of $10,000 was demanded and Mr. Springer, being unable to secure it, had to submit to being placed in the custody of the sheriff. He secured his release shortly afterwards through the efforts of his attorneys, who complained to court that the bail was excessive and secured Mr. Springer's release on $1,000 bail, pending the argument of a rule to show cause why the bail should not be cut down.

MUST BE IN DISTRICT.

Third District Republicans Adopt a Rule Concerning Conventions.

Heretofore Republican conventions in the Third Legislative district will be held within the boundaries of the district instead of in the court house as has been the custom.

This was decided upon at a meeting of the standing committee in the arbitration room Saturday afternoon. The resolutions adopted for the change were offered by Attorney James E. Watkins, of Taylor, and the motion for its adoption was made by a Lackawanna township man, William Weir, Glensburg.

The resolutions were adopted and the district convention to elect delegates to the state convention will be held in Taylor on Tuesday, April 19 and the primaries will be held next Saturday between the hours of 4 and 7 p. m.

FUNERAL OF WILLIAM MAHON.

It Was Attended by an Immense Concourse of People.

The funeral of the late William Mahon was held yesterday afternoon from the residence in Oliphant. A silent proof of the esteem in which the deceased was held during his life was shown by the immense concourse of friends who viewed the remains as they reposed in a handsome broadcloth casket. Many beautiful floral designs and bouquets were laid either upon or near the casket, furnishing further proof of regard.

At 2:30 o'clock the remains were borne to St. Patrick's church. A short service was held, the pastor, Rev. P. J. Murphy, officiating and also preached an eloquent sermon eulogistic of the deceased. The Anglican hymn "Lead, kindly Light" at the conclusion of the blessing. The remains were then borne to Carbonade for interment. It required a special train of eleven cars to carry the cortege. Rev. J. M. Smullen pronounced the benediction at the graves.

The active pall-bearers were: P. J. Hoban, R. J. Gallagher, J. J. Padden and Thomas Monahan, of Oliphant; M. J. Duffy, of Carbonade, and J. J. Brown, of Scranton. Honorary pall-bearers were: District Attorney John R. Jones and John P. Manion, of Oliphant; John J. O'Boyle, J. R. Coyne, John Clark and Peter Ziegler, of Scranton. The Lodge of Elks, of this city, attended in a body.

CABBAGE CASE IS STILL ON.

Found It Impossible to Finish It Saturday Night.

After the Good Friday recess, Judge Cavanaugh took up the cabbage case since more Saturday morning and gave notice to the attorneys that it would have to be concluded before adjournment.

The case, however, developed such long-windedness that when 6 o'clock arrived it was so far from being finished that the judge decided to continue it over until Monday.

TOO MUCH ESTIMATING.

Joint Committee Went Over $1,000 Above the Revenue.

As intimated in Saturday's Tribune, the joint estimates committee of councils on Friday night included in the appropriation ordinance more than $1,000 above the revenue of $26,100. This was ascertained in the revision of the figure Saturday in the city clerk's department.

A meeting of the committee will be held tonight, when the ordinance will be reduced to the required amount.

MERIDIAN STREET RIOT.

Led to the Arrest of Three Men, and Others May Follow.

Intense excitement raged during the progress of a general light among a dozen or more Polanders yesterday afternoon on Meridian street, near Elyon street. A squad of policemen were hurried to the scene in a patrol wagon.

They succeeded in arresting two of the five principals on the spot and caught another later in the afternoon.

Conflicting stories are told of the beginning of the fight, which spread through two of the houses on Meridian street owned by Michael Ruane. Anyhow, the disturbance developed so much blood and noise that a crowd of several hundred persons gathered there and a patrol call was sent to the central police station. Sergeant Deiter, Mounted Policeman Dyer and Patrolman Toland and Marker were hurried to the scene.

When the patrol was sighted, those who were fighting in the street made a dash for the houses and warned their companions inside. Dyer and Marker found Alexander Salskill hiding in one of the houses. A revolver with all but two chambers loaded was taken from him. Patrolman Toland chased Joseph Salskill nearly a quarter of a mile to Third street and Broadway, where the officer's endurance proved superior to Salskill's, who was hustled back to the patrol wagon.

Of three other ringleaders in the disturbance one was arrested later in the afternoon at the corner of Washington street and Broadway.

DEJESKI BADLY HURT.

He Was Murderously Assaulted by Toughs from Minoaka.

Minoaka toughs committed a murderous assault last night on Conis Dejeski, in a South Washington saloon. It was the last of the Minoaka toughs of the gang and now lies with a broken arm, a cut scalp and many bruises in the Lackawanna hospital.

Dejeski and his brother had been drinking heavily in a Polish saloon on Washington avenue. Dejeski left the place about a quarter of an hour after the brother had taken his departure. As he was passing the doorway someone hit him over the head with a chair and felled him to the sidewalk. He was struck again, this second blow breaking his arm above the elbow. After being kicked about he was left bleeding, half dead and unconscious on the street.

Word was sent to the police and Patrolman Parry and Dugan were sent to the scene with the patrol wagon. Dejeski had meanwhile been taken to his home on Elm street near the Erie and Wyoming valley railroad, where the policeman found him. He was conscious but unable to speak. No time was lost in taking him to the central police station where Police Surgeon Fulton dressed the scalp wound and directed his removal to the Lackawanna hospital where his fractured arm was given attention.
