IT IS A NATION APART. France on the St. Lawrence Will Not Assimilate With the English.

From the Pall Mall Gazette. There is on the banks of the St. Law ence a nationality whose isolation becomes more complete, and whose numers become surprisingly greater, as the years pass on

Talk as we may about the genius of the English in conquering and assimilating races of greater variety, and of our success in Canada especially, the fact remains that never were the French of lower Canada more "nationalistic" in character and aspiration than at the present time. There has een no fusion of French and English; and the possibility of there being one eems as far removed as ever. The utimental connection with France, broken off by the revolution, has been renewed after a fashion; and the imperialistic longings of English Canada are regarded with indifference. if, indeed, they are not treated with Am, Spirits, Pr ..... open scorn. The tri-color flutters not infrequently from the flagstaffs of Quebec; and the strains of the "Mar-N. J. Central ..... 91 seillaise" are as often heard as those of the Euglish national anthem. The power of this lever in the hands of an Ultramentane church may be imagined. In Quebec the affairs of church and state are practically one. Priests direct their flocks how to vote, and cajoling and threatening are part of their mode of direction. Bishops forbid the reading of any journal that raises its oice in criticism. Of social intercourse between English and French, there is very little; for it is the church's policy to prevent it. Intermarriages are of rarest occurrence. Children of French and English parents are educated apart, in separate schools; and thus perpetuate the distinction. The power of the French priest over the inhabitants, as a political and educational oracle, cannot be understood by those who have not witnessed its exercise The educational system is wholly on a religious basis, or, practically speak ing, a nationalistic basis, the central poard consisting of thirty-five members, including the bishops, and the ocal boards of the inferior clergy. Protestants in Quebec are like flies on the wheel, as far as their influence on the provincial policy is concerned. This is easily understood when the figures of some of the electoral districts are glanced at. For instance, in Bellechasse there are 18.364 Catholics and four Protestants; in Kamourska the proportion is 20.451 to three; in L'Islet it is 13.821 to two. In addition to valuable privileges to the Catholic clergy, the Quebec act Scranton Forging Co established the French law re prop- Traders' National Bank erty and civil rights which still prevails. # THE MARKETS.

Wall Street Review.

New York, April 20.-The New York tock market offered a firm resistance all day to the depression which was reflected upon it from every other exhange in the world, its declines at no time reaching more than a fraction ver a point for the active stocks. In the final hour, after a trading on the foreign bourses had been suspended for the day, there was a lively movement to buy developed on the New York ex-change which wiped out practically all arlier losses and lifted the level of prices sharply above that of last night. The final recovery was brought by the dissemination of a rumor that the period allowed Spain for a reply to the ultimatum has been extended to Monday. with a chance that a settlement would be affected before that time. How He Expedited the Trial of a Lagging Case. The Kansas City Journal tells two or three good stories of a well-known and highly respected judge, regarded as one of the ablest in Missouri. He believes in convicting the guilty, and does not waste much time in vexations delays. Some time are he was called to St. Louis to try a case. After hearing evidence all day he adjourned the court until 8 o'clock the next morning.

"Eight o'clock, your honor" said one of the St. Louis attorneys, "Why, in the city our judges never begin to held court "Well." said the judge, "if you must have country judges, you must bear with country ways. Court will meet at 8 o'clock while I am on the bench," and court did.

On another occasion he granted a change of venue from St. Louis to Cooper county. The defendant's counsel, an ex-governor, had looked up the regular terms of court in the Cooper county circuit, and found that there was no regular term for some months. As he was anxious for delay, the lawyer was much surprised when, after granting the change of venue, the judge said: "I will eet this case for a week from next Mon-

"But, your honor, there is no term of ourt in Roonville for several months."
"You are mistaken, governor," said the
