DAY'S DOINGS IN NORTH SCRANTON

Great Demonstration in Honor of the Departure of Company H.

AN IMMENSE THRONG WAS OUT

Citizen's Band Acted as an Escort for the Soldier Boys -- Marriage of Edward Loftus and Miss Mary Gavin and Horace C. Wilcox and Miss Hattie May Williams .- John Degan Died from the Injuries Sustained

The entire populace turned out last evening to give Company H a rousing farewell. In anticipation of the memorable occasion, all of the business places were gaily bedecked with bunting and flags, and business was for-gotten in the anxious moment.

The members of the company were all attired in heavy marching accounterments and when they emerged from their headquarters at the armory the Citizens' band was in waiting and escorted the guardsmen up to the square. As the boys departed on an electric car for the central city all joined and gave them three mighty cheers. The company last evening had its full quota of men, and each man expressed unbounded enthusiasm in the work that is before him. The wellwishes of the entire community accompanies Company H on their journey.

TWO WEDDINGS.

A pretty wedding was solemnized vesterday afternoon in the Holy Rosary The parties to be united in the holy bonds of matrimony were Edward Loftus, the well-known hotelkeeper, of this place, and Miss Mary Gavin, prominent young lady. The bridal couple marched down the aisle to the strains of an appropriate wedding march executed by Miss Libbie Neary. They were attended by Miss Mamie Shearn, of the West Side, and Edward Loftus, a nephew of the groom. At the altar they were met by the Rev. N. J. McManus, who performed the cere mony that united them forever. A large throng witnessed the wellding. couple will dispense with a wedding tour and settle down to housekeeping immediately. A reception was given them at the home of the bride's mother on McDonough avenue. They received innumerable wedding gifts.

A wedding took place yesterday af-ternoon at No. 14 Parker street, the contracting parties being Horace C. Soul-Stirring Scenes Marked the Departure of Company F.

EX-MEMBERS ACTED AS AN ESCORT

Willie .. ice, a Pupil in No. 14 School. Had His Hand Badly Injured by the Exploding of a Cartridge With Which He Was Playing -- Anna Timmins Sustained an Ugly Scalp Wound by Falling Off a Car -- Other

The members of Company F will carry with them the memory of the soul-stirring scenes which marked their departure from their armory to the regiment at the Delaware and Hudson station jast evening. There was plenty of red fire burned, numerous flags and handkerchiefs waved, but beyond a few smothered cheers, little outward demonstration was made. It seemed as if the great crowd who had congregated at or near the corner of Main avenue and Jackson street were awed by the solemnity of the occasion and respected the little group gathered here or there about a soldier boy to bid him farewell.

From 7 o'clock on the "boys" straggled into company quarters and strapped on their accourrements. shouldered their guns and took their places in the ranks. Little was said, for all felt that each had just said good-bye to the dear ones. Few, if any, but indicated by their actions that they realized what was to follow and were calmly prepared to go to the end of the journey, lead where it would. The company was mustered on North Main avenue at 8 o'clock and marched down to Scranton street. Turning here they began the march which ends temporarily at Mt. Gretna. Preceding them were about forty ex-members of the company and members of the Anthracite Gice club. They were marching in ets of fours and were led by Edward Thayer, who carried a large American flag. The three musicians of the company led the company and all marched up Main to West Lackawanna avenue and thence to the armory on Adams avenue. Colored lights were burned at the armory, West Side bank, West Side Republican club, and Davis' and Jenkins' pharmacies. Most of the stores and dwellings along Main avenue were decorated with bunting and flags. In sevwere displayed, especially at The Tribune bulletin at Jenkins' pharmacy.

AN UGLY SCALP WOUND.

Anna Timmins, the twelve-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Timmins, of Keyser avenue, was brought to Dr. F. C. Hall's office, on North Main avenue, vesterday afternoon to have a jagged scalp wound sewn up. She was playing with some companions on the mpty cars standing in the Price's shaft switch and had fallen off.

In falling she struck her head on the right side, just back of the forehead. and inflicted a wound over two inches long, exposing the skull. She bravely bore the ordeal of having the wound stitched, though she was quite weak

The game is hardly worth the candle, as the safe is never made the depository of much money over night. An attempt was made a month ago also. That time the burglars came up through the floor, having scuttled it wide enough to let the safe drop down. They paid their attention to the box office at the Academy of Music twice within a year.

Under the Red Robe.

Not in many months has so pronoun dramatic success been seen in New York as "Under the Red Robe," which York as "Under the Red Robe," which enjoyed an uninterrupted run at the Empire theater of 300 nights. This was perhaps owing to the fact that playgoers had become surfeited by wearisome problem plays and stage characters who lectured upon complex affairs of life and morality. "Under the Red Robe" on the contrary, deals with love, adventures, the gay life of Paris, men who were ready to risk their lives on the turn of a card, and women whose devotion and a card, and women whose devotion and valor was unquestionable. This is the play which comes to the Lycoum tonight under the management of Mr. Frehman. It is one of the greatest successes on tour,

GURRELL IS CHIEF.

Veteran of the Force Promoted by Mayor Bailey and Was on Duty Last Night.

Martin Gurrell, the veteran of the orce, is now chief of police. He was appointed by Mayor Bailey yesterday afternoon and went on duty last night During the absence of Captain Frank Robling, who is commander of Com-Robling, who is commander of Company C, Mr. Gurrell will be the recognized head of the police force

To make the appointment of Mr. Gur-rell possible, Captain Robling temporranks as a patrolman. His rearily duction in position made a vacancy in the office of chief, which was filled by promoting Mr. Gurrell.

If this had not been done Captain Richard Edwards, under the rules, would be the acting chief of the department.

The appointment of Mr. Gurrell is ne of the most popular ever made by Mayor Balley. He has been a mem-ber of the Scranton police force for twenty-one years and has an official record that might well be envied by any man. He is popular with his fel ow-officers and has the confidence of the community. Though a rigid disci-plinarian, and equally as rigid in rejuiring obedience to the law, he has the tact and experience which recognizes that law must be tempered by mercy. He will make a fine official head for the police department until Captain Robling returns to assume the duties of the office.

The departure of Captain Robling and Patrolman Lona Day, who is a member of Company D, makes two vacancies on the force which will probably be filled today by the appointment of substitutes by the mayor.
