It was suggested that the dining room in the main building at the home be enlarged.

Superintendent Beemer urged the board to secure the adoption at once of a bright and attractive child two and one-half years old, a girl, who has been reared at the home. His mother is a young woman of good parentage now employed as a servant in a respectable home in Scranton. The child promises to develop with years into a girl attractive in character and features.

At the opening of the meeting a number of relief cases were presented for relief. Of the four-year-old child, Miss Stella Beemer, who has been reared at the home, and each had at least two children. In no case was the youngest child over two years old.

Mr. Alfred Wooster, tenor of Elm Park church, has just prepared and copyrighted a chart 22 inches by 9 1/2 inches which, when placed on the keyboard of piano or organ, points out every major, minor and diminished chord there is in music; at the same time showing harmonic progression of some. It is so simple that a child can readily understand it. Any person, musician or not, can learn how to play chords correctly in any key by it. It displays rapid inventive genius. Mr. Wooster will have it published both in English and in this country on July 3, 1898. It is predicted that it will have a large sale.

Mrs. Kennedy, the new soprano of Elm Park church, will sing a solo tomorrow evening.

Mr. Lewis K. Brown, late of the Scranton Conservatory of Music, has resigned his position as teacher of sight singing, etc.

Mr. H. P. Dreyer, late of the Presbyterian church choir, this city, is meeting with much success at the New England Conservatory of Music, Boston.

One of the grandest concerts of the season will be held in the Scranton Polytechnic rooms on Washington avenue. The Apollo club, of which Professor T. J. Davies had been conductor prior to his recent visit to Pittsburgh, where he will permanently reside, will give a testimonial concert on Thursday evening, the 17th inst. Professor Hemberger, who has devoted a great deal of time to the organization in the absence of Professor Davies, has been chosen the conductor. The Apollo club has been in existence for several months and now shows strong evidence of being a permanent organization. Professor Davies has been actively engaged in training the chorus which will on this occasion sing several of Professor Davies' compositions.

The beautiful solo which Mr. Wooster sang in the church choir, last Sunday evening, is his own composition and will shortly be published by the Hanch Music company, Philadelphia.

The people of the South Side had a rare treat given them last Thursday evening in hearing in concert the magnificent singing of Miss Timberman and Mrs. E. Warden, of this city, together in concert.

Mr. Philip Warren has received an engagement to sing at a concert in Ocean Grove on August 17.

The latest composition published by D. O. Evans, of Yonkers, N. Y., is the national song and chorus, "O Blessed Land of Swedia." This song was composed by John H. Powell, of West Chester, Ohio, the chorus arranged by Professor T. J. Davies. It is one of the neatest and most artistically arranged compositions that has yet been published. The arrangement of words on the second page is translated in Welsh and English. The back cover page contains the arrangement of "Swedia" music.

The Wilkes-Barre orchestra, which was to be held on May 23, has been postponed until the fall. The change was seen necessary owing to the condition of the times.

The Lyric quartette, composed of Philip Warren, John W. Jones, David Stephens and Tom Byrne, will be prominent in the opening of the Knights of Malta hall in this city in June.

The male voice choir which had been preparing the "Constructing of Ganga" under the leadership of Professor Prosser, has disbanded.

A concert will be held by the Jackson Street Baptist church choir on Wednesday evening, the 11th inst. The arrangements of solos, duets and choruses by the choir, some of Scranton's prominent vocalists will participate.

On Sunday evening at the Plymouth Congregational church of the West Side the choir rendered some very beautiful selections. The anthem entitled "The Earth is the Lord's," by Kirkpatrick, was sung by the choir in a pleasing manner. The singing has been improved greatly under the leadership of Mr. Elias Evans.

The committee having in charge the musical reception to be tendered Professor Daniel Frothero is actively engaged in securing talent to make it grand success.

Lovett's Boston Stars took part in the benefit concert of the Electric City Whistman on Friday evening. The artists who participated in the evening's programme were: Miss Hill, soprano soloist; Miss Brewer, reader; Miss Garvin, violinist; Mr. Frank Reynolds, banjoist; Lovett's Boston Stars appeared in this city a few years ago, and during the both visits here they were received by large audiences.

Miss Vannie Williams sang a beautiful selection at the entertainment in Plymouth church on Thursday evening. Miss Williams, who is a member of the Plymouth church choir, possesses a very sweet voice.

Miss Mable Rennie executed Allegro and Andante in G major from Beethoven at the musical entertainment in the Presbyterian church on Tuesday evening. This is the second performance of Beethoven's music by Miss Rennie, and at both appearances she acquitted herself with great talent. Miss Rennie is a pupil of Professor Chance.

TWENTY-ONE OF CORNELL'S MEN HERE

Came to Get Practical Experience With Electrical Machinery.

They are making use of the plant of the Scranton Illuminating, Heat and Power company for that purpose—the tests that are being conducted by the students began last night at 10 o'clock and conclude at 10 o'clock tonight.

Twenty-one Cornell students are here and making a test of the machinery at the plant of the Scranton Illuminating, Heat and Power company.

Two of the party, D. H. Campbell, of Brooklyn, and C. H. Kretz, of Baton Rouge, La., have been in the city since Sunday making the preliminary arrangements. The others are juniors and seniors of the university's electrical and mechanical engineering departments as follows: Electrical, S. D. Bullock, H. L. Hibbard, C. L. Riley, R. S. Moore, J. W. Prince, T. E. Blake, R. G. Ware, R. H. Blakeslee and Mr. West, mechanical department, J. G. Glenn, P. W. Mideley, E. M. Kinney, M. W. Sherwood, L. C. Lewis, M. M. Upon, H. M. Weins, J. S. Avery, Mr. McMullen and Mr. Lane. Nearly all of them are stopping at the Faurot House.

Each member of the graduation class is obliged to prepare a graduation thesis on some practical engineering topic. Mr. Kretz and Mr. Campbell chose the present test as the medium for their thesis, the opportunity being offered by the company's invitation to send sometime ago to the university faculty. The graduates submit their report to the faculty for examination. A duplicate report is given the company for the latter's individual use.

The test began at 10 o'clock last night and will not be finished until 10 o'clock tonight. Every 15 minutes readings are being made of each heater, boiler, engine and dynamo, the quality of steam, etc. This explains the necessary presence of twenty-one students who relieve one another.

President Ball, of the American Ball Engine company, whose type of engine is used at the plant, is here to witness the test. The students will leave here for Ithaca tomorrow. They are here at their own expense. The part played by the electric light company is solely that of offering a medium for a thesis. The company gets the benefit of the copy of the students' report.

MR. VEST'S DEAL IN EGGS.

Food Tin Cans of "Solid Meats" to Yukon and Brought Back $6,321. Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

Nearly every man who has come out of Dawson during the past few months or more has had something to say of the "frozen egg man." They met him at various points between the Chilcot summit and the Yukon river, trading along with one companion and for dogs, pulling a heavy load of frozen eggs bound for the Klondike. Eggs at Dawson are worth $1 or more each, and this high price proved such an incentive to a Portland man that he resolved to freeze a lot of them and take them in.

The egg man is in Seattle. He has sold his eggs and returned with a sack which many a Klondiker might well envy. His name is Charles Vest. Vest left Portland last October on the steamer Elder. Before leaving he obtained 1,743 dozen eggs. He broke and packed them in tin cans holding one gallon each, six to a dozen. The cans were sealed, frozen and put on ice. They weighed 2,225 pounds in cold storage.

With one man to help him and his dogs Vest hurried the eggs up to Shel Camp and buried them in the snow. He put four cans in a sack and tied the sack over the dog's backs. Each dog carried twenty-five pounds in this way. Once over the summit the cans were piled on sleds, pulled by the dogs, and the journey continued.

Several hundred cases of Vest and his companion on the snow. On Dec. 21 they stopped at a cabin and bought supper and lodging. They bought some moccasins for their boots. In the morning one can of the eggs, now becoming more and more precious was gone. Vest had his suspicions, but had no evidence. He asked his host about the missing can, but got no satisfaction, although his suspicions were confirmed. There were others camping at the cabin, and from these two or three days later Vest obtained corroborative evidence as to the guilt of the suspect. The thief had gone toward the coast, but Vest followed him and took him before the police. Confronted with the evidence of his crime, the fellow confessed. The police decreed that the man should be punished by giving up his outfit to the man he had wronged. This was done, and Vest got $18 per dozen for the can of eggs, or $1,190 in all.

At Thirty-Mile River an adventure of a different sort overtook the egg man. A raft was built to float down the river. Vest stayed on shore to line the raft down, but at one place was not strong enough to support Vest's weight, and he was forced to let the line go. The raft went spinning down the river at a fearful rate. The anxious owner running along shore to keep up with it. Suddenly a rock rimmed with ice appeared in the track of the raft, and the raft and its cargo dived under the ice. The rider had jumped for his life to the rock, and the cargo had spilled into the swift stream. The stove and tent of the man, but the sacks of egg cans went floating down stream.

It was bitter cold, but the situation was desperate. Vest did not ponder long upon what to do. He plunged into the stream and pulled out the sacks one at a time. To do this he had to run along and into the stream for a mile and a half. His clothes froze to him, but he saved his eggs. Then he went back to his companion and threw out a rope and towed him ashore. Three men, who happened to be camping near by, gave the two wet men shelter until they had dried and warmed themselves.

Sixty-five miles further down Vest reached the Big Salmon, where Major Walsh was camping. Major Walsh wanted supplies, and he bought Vest's eggs at $2 per dozen. The eggs yielded $5,210, which, added to the $1,190 amounted to $6,400 as the total product of Vest's undertaking.

"Oh," said the myopic person. "They're nailing lists, I suppose." Then he went away satisfied.
