THE GREAT MAN AT KEY WEST

The Censor a Most Important and Interesting Man.

INGENIOUS SCHEMES OF THE ALL, HOWEVER, AND HANDS BACK "COPY WITH CHILDLIKE SIMPLICITY-HE IS A BIT OF A HU-MORIST, TOO, BUT THE JOKE WAS ON HIM IN ONE CASE-A GAME-LER'S REQUEST FOR A NEW ROU-LETTE TABLE WAS A DISGUISED PRESS DISPTACH.

Key West, May 15 .- The cable office in Key West, since the world became interested in war talk, has been the most interesting spot on the island, and the most interesting and the most important man is the censor.

The cable office is a small brick building, two stories high, with a large cocoanut paim growing on either side. The paims spread their great branches above the building and form a perfect arch over the red tiled Hoor. Great clusters of cocoanuts are suspended from the green arch and all day swing and rustle in the swarthy leaves whenever the lazy south wind comes up from the harbor. It is only a few yards from the door of the cable office to the government dock. In fact, it is only a few yards from any point on the island to the water, and when the tide is at the highest point the sea sets back through most of the streets and leaves a white fringe of salt along the gutters when the tide goes out and the saltscaked earth dries.

ENCITING RACES.

Up through the narrow streets, which lead from the cable office to the wharf some very interesting and exciting races have taken place during the last few weeks. When the newspaper despatch heats come in from the gulf they always land as near to the cable office as possible, and when the correspondents land at the same time the race for the cable office is more interesting than any steeplechase ever run. Some of them after a long cruise go staggering and reeling on their sea legs, like drunken men. Some are weak from seasickness, and others are limping from brulses received from being pitched about in the rough sea. But sickness and bruises are forgotten when land is reached, and every effort. is put forth to be the first to "file copy." If it be late at night five seconds gained in the race from the dock to the cable office may mean an exclusive story for one of the great dailles in the North. Cable transmission is necessarily slower than sending overland wires, and the correspondent who files 3,000 words at midnight is pretty sure that no other paper will be able to get anything for its morning edition from Key West that night.

But after the copy has been filed the correspondent's trouble is not at an end. Every word of it must be read and passed on by the censor. No matter how much time, hardship or expense it has required to get the story. if, in the judgment of the censor it ought not to be printed, it cannot be sent. If it gives any information as to the movements of the fleet or the army it cannot go.

RED INK "NO."

something like one hur dred and fifty newspaper correspond- regiments are reported to be scheduled ents in Key West, and while most of them appreciate the wisdom of the government censorship of news matter, some of them have grown impatient in their eagerness to tell the interesting sories that are to be told, and have tried all manner of ingenious schemes for getting matters past the censor. Usually, however, all plans mve been rejected by the censor, and the apparently innecent or stupid despatch has been returned to the writer with "No" written in red ink across it.

The most trying period for the correspondents was on the day the fleet started on its cruise eastward. Every the great battleships were steaming away from before Havana in quest of and taken an overdose. big Spanish game. Every newspaper not a line, not a word would the censor permit to pass. From a hundred papers in the North came the query:"Has the fleet started" Even the answer 'Yes" to this inquiry was not permitted to go. Some of the correspondents had arranged a cipher code with useless. Everything that had the appearance of a cipher-everything that was not absolutely plain and explainable-was stopped. One correspondent his paper, but he failed. Early in the | night. morning he filed a despatch, the first line reading as follows: "The newspaper fleet sailed this morning toward Porto Rico." An hour later he went to file a personal message to his editor. reading: "Correction; omit second word in last despatch." When he handed in the last despatch, the censor met him at the receiving desk and with a kindly smile, handed back the first despatch with the words, "All fleets look alike to me," written across it.

AMUSING EXPERIENCES.

But the censor has had some very mueing experiences with others than the newspaper men. Repeatedly he has been severely rebuked for holding NEWSPAPER CORRESPONDENTS up private messages which he believed to be cipher despatches for newspaper men. The proprietor of one of the gambling rooms here cabled north the other day for a new roulette wheel. He gave full description of the kind he wanted, and requested an immediate answer. After waiting twenty-four hours without receiving any reply, he went to the cable office to see if his meesage had been sent. He found that the censor had held it up, believing it to be a cipher message to a newspaper The censor apologized and permitted the message to go through. An answer came back within a few hours, and the proprietor had a bright new roulette table within a week.

The censor, however, is greatly liked The censor, however, is greatly liked | Consumers' Gas company, of Chicago, by the newspaper men, and spends has been brought to this city from most of his time chatting with them on | Washington, where he was arrested a He is an officer of the regular army, and simply discharges faithfully and well the duties assigned to him. of the correspondents as have attempted to send nothing but verified and undisguised facts have fared best at his hands.

SPANISH WAR NEWS.

A Rosy Despatch Published in the Imparcial.

Madrid, May 15.-The Imparcial today publishes a dispatch from Havana, giving another extraordinary Spanish version of a war episods. It says:

"On Friday the gunboats Conde de Venadito and Nueva Espana steamed has relatives living in New Orleans. out of the harbor and attacked an American squadron of two cruisers and five auxiliary cruisers which were outside. The Spanish vessels fired twenty shots and the Americans eight, the latter apparently retreating damaged.

Three crowded tugs followed the gunboats, the people on board cheering Coney Island point, where she will be them.

It would seem possible that the facts upon which the Imparcial's dispatch is based are to be found in the report from the Associated Press dispatch Bloomsburg Administered the First boat Kate Spencer, filed at Key West and sent out today. Two Spanish ships did steam out of Havana harbor and tried to draw some of our vessels under the guns of the heavy Spanish batteries. The ruse was unsuccessful, though the Santa Clara battery sent some badly aimed shells at our ships. which replied by driving the two Spanlards back into Havana.

Until the last half of the seventh inning when the score was 3-1 in favor of the association it was anybody's game but in that inning, Stengline, who was pitching for the association, was touched up for a fusilade of hits and seven runs which gave Bloomsburg the game. The association was crippled by the absence of its captain and regular second base-man, John Brooks, and Gileran, catcher, Their places were filled respectively by oleman and Logan. Bioomsburg was particularly strong in its battery department, Williams and Kellett, Scranton boys, by the way, Williams in a southpaw, He had excellent control. Kellett's accurate base throwing was one of the game's best teadence of the association's difficulty in connecting with Williams' clusive curves, In the fourth the association tallied one on Cleary's hit, a steal and an error.
