NOTE WAS DESCRIBED THE

ANNUAL CONVENTION OF THE C. T. A. U

Sessions Opened Vesterday Morning at St. Aloysius Hall, Kingston.

ONE HUNDRED AND FOUR DELE-GATES REPRESENTING THE SO-CESAN UNION ARE IN ATTENDA TO LISTENING TO REPORTS OF OF-FICERS AND COMMITTEES-GEN-ERAL PARADE DECIDED UPON. ELECTION OF OFFICERS TODAY.

In St. Aloyius hall, Kingston, the annual sessions of the Scranton Diocesan union began yesterday morning. The concluding session will be held this afternoon. Yesterday was devoted largely to listening to the reports of officers and committees and today officers will be chosen and places for holding the next parade and convention de-

Charles H. Lavin, of Wilkes-Barre, the president of the union, called the convention to order at 10 o'clock and introduced Rev. J. P. O'Malley, of Kingston, who offered prayer and delivered an eloquent address welcoming the delegates to the historic Wyoming valley. The response to this address was made by Rev. J. J. McCabe, of Avoca, one of the delegates. S. J. Conors, of Wilkes-Barre and J. F. McDonough, of Scranton, were selected to assist Secretary George McLaughlin of Freeland, in keeping a record of the proceedings of the convention and President Lavin then appointed the following committees.

Credentials-Charles Canavan, Scranon; Thomas Herbert, Plains; James Scranton; J. J. McDonough,

Constitutional Amendments - M. J. O'Toole, Scranton; Rev. J. J. Curran, Wilkes-Barre; M. S. Lavelle, Scranton:

Joseph Finn, Sugar Notch; John Mc-Donnell, Forest City, Auditing — John Masterson Wilkes-Barre; Charles Scott, Hazleton; J. Samnon, Aveca; Thomas Herbert, Plains, Resolutions-Dennis Mackin, Wilkes-Barre; D. J. Boyle, Freeport; Michael McGarry, Scranton: John J. O'Hara, Parms; Rev. J. J. McCabe, Avoca; Rev. P. McManus, Scranton; J. J. Killeen, Carondale; Walter McNichols, Scranton; M. Brady, Kingston; M. J. Walsh, Wilkes-Barre: Owen McElwee, Harteigh, OBJECTION MADE.

M. J. O'Toole, of Scranton, objected to the appointment of committees at that time, as it had not been ascertained who were delegates to the convention. He said nothing was in order at that time but the appointment of a committee on credentials. The president in consequence did not officially promulgate his appointments until after the report of the committee on credentials, which showed that there were 104 delegates in gattendance.

Mr. O'Toole renewed his objections to the committees stating that several of the men appointed were not dele gates to the convention. President Lavin insisted that all of the men named by him were under the constitution entitled to a voice in the convention, but if they were objected to ne would listen to a motion to have substitutes named for the objection-able ones. No one offered to substitute names and the committees were allowed to stand as read. The convention then took a recess until 2

When the delegates reconvened the Rev. R. A. McAndrew, pastor of St. Mary's church, of Wilkes-Barre, was introduced and delivered a short address, in which he spoke words of encouragement to the delegates and asmovement. In closing, he said that before the convention adjourned he hoped that a resolution would be spread on the minutes endorsing the position the country has taken in the present international conflict.

PATRIOTIC WORDS.

"We are now engaged in a war," said Father McAndrew, "in which every American citizen should uphold the hands of our national authorities, It is not a question of nationality; not a question of religion; it is a question of country, and every American citizen will be found ready to do his duty. The Catholic citizens of America are patriots to the core and all are ready to protect the starry flag that waves over our heads; the glorious emblem McAndrew's remarks were greeted with loud applause.

President Lavin followed with his annual address. He said the Scranton union has for years occupied second place in the National union as to membership, but unless the work is pushed and societies not now identified with the union are gathered into its fold, it will soon have to be contented with third place.

"By request of the national president, Rev. James Cleary, and yielding to a desire of a large number of our societies the board of government has unconditionally reinstated the Father Mathew society of St. John's parish, Pittston," said President Lavin, "and submit our action to this convention for your approval." He suggested that it was a mistake for the convention to attempt to define the duties of a spiritual director of the union, and advised the convention to petition the bishop of the diocese to appoint a spiritual director. Mr. Lavin deplored the fact that the or-ganization of ladies' societies had not niet with much success, and that the quarterly conventions were not up to the standard that should be aimed at. He also felt called upon to regret that the last annual parade at Hazleton was far from being a success.

THE NATIONAL CONVENTION.

The national convention, in Scranon, last August, he said, was a great success, and leaves a landmark in the history of total abstinence in the Scranton union. He made an urgent plea for more broadness of mind and thoroughness in working for the spread of total abstinence doctrines, and said that the striving for higher education, the organizing and nurturing of cadet societies, and the creation of good libraries should be the object of adult society to the end that the temperance movement may spread and permanent results be secured. Mr. Lavin's report was received and filed. J. C. Gallagher, the first vice president, read an interesting report, which contained many valuable suggestions, the adoption of which Mr. Gallagher felt would greatly strengthen the movement and place societies on a more substantial footing. He suggested that the constitution be amended so that an office may be created to be filled by a woman who will have gen eral charge of the work done by we-men's societies, and of the organization of new societies composed entirely of women. He also favored a change of the constitution, which will provide for a ritual service in connection with the initiation of members into societies connected with the union. The report was filed.

The report of Secretary McLaughlin showed that there are 65 societies on the roll with a total membership of 5,450. Forty-four of the societies are composed of adults with a membership CIETIES OF THE SCRANTON DIO- of 3,965. There are eighteen cadet socities with a membership of 1,350 and three cadet societies with 135 members ANCE-YESTERDAY WAS DEVOTED During the year four cadet and two adult societies were reinstated. The expenses of the union during the year were $542 and the balance now on hand-is $451.60. Mr. McLaughlin's report was filed and a vote of thanks tendered to the officers for their re-

TREASURER'S REPORT.

It was announced that the treasurer of the union, P. F. McDonald, of Carbondale, was not present but that his report will probably be presented today. The minutes of the last convention as printed were adopted.

The matter of the reinstatement of the Father Mathew society of Pittston, or rather the overtures looking toward the reinstatement of that society, were then taken up and discussed at some length. It appears that Rev. John Finnen, V. G., of Pittston, felt that an apology was due to him and the society from the union in addition to an unenditional reinstatement. The beard of government has passed a resolution unconditional reinstatement but refused to make the deserved apologies. On motion of Michael McGarry, of Scranton, the whole matter was referred to the incoming administration for settlement. This motion was approved.

report the committee on constitutional amendment favored changing article four, section of the by laws to permit of increasing the diocesan union per capita tax from five to ten cents to give the union a greater working fund for spreading the movement. This proposition had many enthusiastic champions and many others were equally ardent in their opposition to the proposition. John Brown, of Scranton, moved to lay the motion on a table and after a vote was taken, but before a decision on it was given, President Lavin declared the whole matter out of order.

THE CHAIR SUSTAINED

M. J. O'Toole, of Scranton, appealed from the decision of the chair and Vice-President Gallagher was called to the chair and put the appeal. Tha decision of the chair was sustained. A lively debate over the amount of salary to be paid the secretary followed and it was finally fixed at $100

Rev. J. J. Curran, of Wilkes-Barre, was introduced to the convention at this point and made a practical address to the delegates in which he counselled them to be wise and judicious in their deliberations that great good may result from the convention.

TRIBUTE TO MRS. JAMES C. HART Taken from the Rochester Democrat and Chronicle of Monday. Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Robinson have returned from Rochester, where they had gone to attend the funeral of Mrs. Jams C. Hart. The following tribute to her memory is from the Rochester Democrat and Chronicle, of Monday.

"The world will wear a sadder face, Its heart will bear another pain, That for her pity's tender grace

Its hungry search must be in vain." The death of Mrs. James C. Hart is one whose grief to friend-circle, to church-circle, and above all to home-circle, is simply immeasurable, and finds baim alone in the fact that for herself death could be "only gain." "Heart-breaking" sured them that the clergy are heartily is the only word that can express the nor-in sympathy with the total abstinence row that has in her departure come to an exceeding number in this community, gracious relations of life have been so much to so many, and multitudes there be who, though not bound to her by any tic of blood, still feel her death as though t were the taking away of one of their own kin. A woman was she from whose heart kindness breathed as naturally as fragrance from flowers, and to whose ups harsh and consorious words were strangers; with whom unselfishness was not a now-and-then impulse, but a constant life-habit; who forgetful of her own hap piness, was ever happiest in making others happy; to whom riches brought no ostentation, but instead the desire to help he humble and needy, and who prized wealth for its opportunity of generosity and its power of charity; whose benevplences, though they sought secreey, yet because of their very number, could not of civil and religious liberty." Father remain concealed; whose friendship in the bright hours of others' lives was so sweet and sunny, whose sympathy in their dark hours was so tender and strong-what words can express the extent to which by many in the friend-circle she is and will be mourned and missed?

A Christian from early youth, love to the Master was with her constantly ranslated into acts of loving kindness and devotion was the prelude to duty In her religious life there was the same beautiful simplicity and absence of all false display which marked all her conduct. On every hand, in the church-cir-cle is heard the tearful question, "How n we do without her?" But what words can tell of the tendersess and beauty of her life in the home circle-at first among brothers and sis-ters in youth in her father's house, and later in her own wedded home. There in happy marriage and happy motherhood. all the wealth of her unstinted love had its lavish outpouring. And there where the sorrow is keenest our sympathy goes in fullest flood. Our hearts bleed for the busband called to undergo the greatest sereavement possible to man and for the daughters who never again can speak to her on earth the word "Mother!" It is lives like Mrs. Hart's that make us

"It can not be that earth is all. That she today is less than we That death can hold within its thrall

"The heart whose throbbing silent is To earthly senses, beats on high; The starlike soul is quenched in this, To brighten in another sky.
