Meeting of the Centurys to Arrange for Their Annual Outing.

NUMBER OF COMMITTEES AP-POINTED TO LOOK AFTER THE DETAILS OF THE EVENT-GRANT COMMANDERY, KNIGHTS OF MAL-ITS FIRST ANNIVERSARY-NOTES OF A PERSONAL NATURE AND NEWS TOLD IN BREVITIES.

The regular monthly session of the Century Hose company, held last evening, was one of the most interesting in years, and in the absence of President Emil Bonn, Chief Hickey presided. Louis Wetzel, chairman of the picnic committee, gave a lengthy report of the work done by his committeemen, and all the major details for the approaching outing have been carefully arranged, and the printing committee. of which William Tannler is chairman, reported that the large posters and streamers have been received and the committe complimented The Tribune for the excellent taste displayed in the getting up of the work.

It was decided that the company parade the streets of this side and the central city, Saturday evening, June 18, to further advertise the picnic, and a motion was passed that the mem-bers report at the hose house Monday evening for drill practice. Louis Bumbacher was chosen foreman to succeed Charles Wirth, who is at Camp Alger; Louis Wetzel was elected first assistant foreman, and John A. Miller, second assistant.

Common Councilman Wirth, of the Eleventh ward, and Fred, Wirth were initiated, and at the conclusion of the meeting these gentlemen gave a reception to the company at Smith's hotel.

The Forest band sent a communication, stating that they will give an open air concert at the hose house one week from tonight, and the offer was accepted with thanks. Letters of invitation were received from the Schuylkill Hose company, of Reading, asking the Centurys to be their guests at the annual parade and inspection in July, and the Firemen's State association, of New York, requested the company to be present at the annual state convention at Binghamton in August. The regrets of the company's inability attend either event were ordered to be mailed today.

The following sub-committee was appointed last night to assist at the picnic: Ticket office, John A. Miller, John J. Gordon; gate, John Sohns, Louis Bambacher, Conrad Hopf, Patrick O'Brien; bar, Christian Storr, jr., Joe Heipman, R. C. Schaeffer, John J. If life were one long summer day and its journey through a garden of flowers, it might be possible for people to be careless of their health without fearing evil results. Unfortunately, since Adam and Eve were driven from the Garden of Eden, life has not been tollied in the careless of not been a toilless journey through a garden of flowers. Man must carn bread by the sweat of his brow, and woman must bring forth children in pain and suffering.

In both cases the curse is multiplied many times over because both men and women neglect their health. Man's toil is women neglect their health. Man's toil is rendered a thousand times harder by the added burden of ill-health. The woman is a still greater sufferer. She suffers in silence ustold agonies from weakness and disease in a womanly way. Motherhood becomes to her a menace of death, and her babes are born with the seeds of disease already implanted in their little bodies. There is but one unfailing remedy for women who suffer in this way. It is Dr. Pierce's Pavorite Prescription. It acts directly on the delicate and important organs that bear the brunt of maternity. It makes them strong, healthy, vigorous, virile and elastic. It allays inflammation, heals ulceration, soothes pain and tones and builds up the tortured nerves. It fits for wifehood and motherhood. It does away with the trials soothes pain and tortured nerves. It fits for wifehood and motherhood. Street Car Fender Saved the Life of Two-Year-Old Anna Nichels.

SHE TODDLED ON THE TRACK IN FRONT OF A CAR AND WAS STRUCK-EXACT EXTENT OF HER INJURIES IS NOT YET KNOWN. TOMORROW-BRIEF NEWS ITEMS.

A street car fender proved its usefulness as a life-saver yesterday afternoon about 2.30 o'clock and 2-year-old Anna Nichols would have probably forfeited her life if the car had been fenderless. The child had wandered from her home to North Main avenue and was standing on that thoroughfare directly in front of Ross's building. She walked across the street, failing to notice the oncoming car, which was going south.

ance on the track that the motorman was unable to bring the car to a standstill, though he made strenuous efforts to do so. The fender struck the child and hurled her in the gutter. VANDERBILT'S START.

Daniel Drews's Story of the Help Given by Mrs. Vanderbilt at the Right Moment. rom the New York Sun.

"One story about Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt which I have never seen in print was told to me many years ago by Daniel Drew, and I have no doubt but that it is authentic, said a man who has known intimate: the men who have made New York history during the last half century. "Various stories have been about the beginnings of Vanderbilt's fortune, and they all go to show that luck played a very significant part in them. Vanderbilt made money because of his energy and his shrewdness but I don't believe that it is generally known that Mrs. Vanderbiit aided him very materially at a time when he thought a good investment was slipping through his hands because he had not enough money to take dvantage of his opportunity.

"Daniel Drew knew Vanderbilt well and before his death he frequently entertained his friends with stories about the commodore's early life. It was when Vanderbilt was simply an energetic young captain connected with the Union line for Philadelphia and Baltimore, 'through to Philadelphia in one day!' that the incident of which Drew delighted to tell occurred. In those days the steamer Emerald, Captain C. Vanderbilt, left her wharf on the north side of the Battery, at noon every day. Sundays excepted, with passengers for New Brunswick and Philadelphia. Passengers were not many, and many people went down to New Brunswick and back by boat for the pleasure of the trip. New Brunswick's hotel, or half-way house, was dirty and ill-kept. Mrs. Vanderbilt saw her opportunity. She suggested to her husband that they should take the hotel, refit it, and run it in a style that would attract guests. Vanderbilt thought well of it, and, after leasing the hotel, he took his family from his father's little house at Stapleton to live in New Brunswick. As Mrs. Vanderbilt had suggested the scheme, her husband told her that she might run the hotel herself and have

"Mrs. Vanderbilt was a strong, in dustrious, frugal woman, and she turned the hotel upside down, cleaned it and made it fit for guests. She named it Beilona Hall after the steamship Bellona, which her husband then ommanded, and in a very short time the fame of it had spread to New York, and parties were made up to visit it because of the excellent fare to be found there. It also increased the profits of the line for which Captain Vanderbilt worked, and his salary was increased to $2,000 a year. For twelve years Mrs. Vanderbilt managed Beliona Hall, with profit to herself and pleasure to her guests. "During these years Captain Van-berbilt had been studying steamsbill and investigating the chances for profit in truffic on the Hudson and along the Sound. He wanted to be one of the transportation magnates of this city, and although his fortune was small b had valuable ideas, gained from years of practical experience as a steamboat captain, and he felt sure that if h could get the right opening he need not fear the greater wealth of his rivals. He had never questioned Mrs. Vanderbilt's management of the hotel, but he knew that she had saved some money. In 1829 his opportunity came. He had a chance to get a controlling interest in a steamship for $18,000. He had $5,000 in each which he had saved. but he didn't know where to raise the balance. He told his wife about this steamship which he wanted and explained to her his plans for making money if he could get the ship.

"I need $13,000 more, said the captain, 'and I don't know where I can "I will give it to you.' said Mrs. Vanderbilt, and to her husband's surprise she pulled the money out from under the bed. She had saved it from the profits of the hotel. Captain Vanderbilt bought his boat and then h bought many others, but his first ship

he owed to his wife."
