

THE ORDERS TO RECRUIT

Have Been Received by the Commander of the Thirteenth.

DETAILS TO BE SENT BACK

Will Secure Men Necessary to Expand the Companies.

IT IS THE OPINION OF ACTING BRIGADIER GENERAL COURSEN THAT THERE IS NOT THE SLIGHTEST HOPE OF THE COMPANIES THAT HAVE BEEN RAISED HEREABOUTS BEING ACCEPTED—HALF-STEAD BAND WILL BE FIRST LOOKED AFTER BY CAPTAIN McCausland, WHO WILL RECRUIT FOR THE SECOND BATTALION.

Special from a Staff Correspondent.

Camp Alger, June 5.—Lieutenant Colonel Mattes, commanding the Thirteenth, today received the official order for recruiting. It directs that companies at present constituting the regiment shall first be expanded to the 108 limit, and that the matter of a third battalion will be an after consideration to be covered by future general order.

An officer from each battalion and an enlisted man from each company will be sent home at once, probably tomorrow, to establish a rendezvous and conduct the enlisting. Captain Frank Robbins, Jr., of the First battalion, and Captain R. J. McCausland, of the Second battalion, have been selected as the recruiting officers. Their assistants who have been so far selected by the respective captains are: Sergeant G. W. Culver, Company A; Corporal Herbert Keller, Company B; Sergeant Paul DePaschalis, Company C; Sergeant William M. Davis, Company D; Corporal Raymond W. Hardenberg, Company E; Sergeant William Freeman, Company F; Sergeant G. C. Rodgers, Company H. A central rendezvous will be established at the city guard armory for the First battalion.

The detailed men from the companies of the Second battalion will be stationed at their respective armories to make the enrollments and the like and the recruiting officer, Captain McCausland, will move about from one to the other, swearing in the men and dispatching them on here in squads as fast as they are recruited. A surgeon will be employed to conduct the physical examinations, it is thought, but these details will be definitely covered in a future order.

NOT THE SLIGHTEST HOPE.

As to companies already organized being taken in as a whole, Acting Brigadier General Courson said tonight: "There is not the slightest hope of these companies being accepted. Such portions of the state as have no representation in the army at present are to be given the new companies. Even if the Thirteenth is made a three battalion regiment, which is hardly likely, the additional companies will come from some city other than Scranton." It is estimated that the recruiting will require at least a month. There is some talk of sending a lieutenant from each company to assist unofficially in the recruiting. A regimental commander can grant furloughs that do not extend over seven days, without consulting higher authority. By alternating the first and second lieutenants of each company, a valued and almost absolutely necessary assistant can be supplied the recruiting officer at each of the company headquarters.

The first men Captain McCausland will look up will be the members of the Halstead band and Private Emmett McDermott, the much-needed bugler, who, it will be remembered, did not secure his parents' consent for enlistment until it was too late to take him in.

Consequent upon President McKinley's admission and General Graham's inspired order, the Thirteenth today had nothing in the way of work excepting the necessary guard mount at 1.30 p. m. Even dress parade was suspended. Several of the regiments, however, could not resist the temptation to show off before the big crowd of Sunday visitors.

Chaplain Stahl conducted church in the Pennsylvania Young Men's Christian association tent, preaching one of his feeling and eloquent sermons and reading at length the story of Gideon's conquest, with appropriate comments. The Catholic members of the regiment attended Father Sherman's mass at the Fourth Missouri headquarters. The altar was erected in a shallow and open-faced tent, the worshippers kneeling on the green sward. The Fourth regiment band, stationed at one side of the tent, played "Rock of Ages" and "America," at appropriate places in the mass, and two of the officers' wives who are on a visit to camp sang the Gloria.

Father Sherman prefaced his sermon—a treatise on the Trinity—with the announcement that under the vows of the Catholic church there is no Friday in the army or navy. The only intimation the church has in this regard is that the soldiers take all the meat they can get, so that they will be the better able to physically do their full duty. "Come around to my tent next Friday and I'll set you a good example," were his cordial words.

The health of the camp is perfect, water is plenty in the Thirteenth's territory, the weather is delightful, and the only thing the boys have to worry about now is that the women folks will not cease warping about them. A commission with Colonel Girard at its head was appointed today to look into the advisability of changing the camp site to a point below Alexandria on the banks of the Potomac.

THE SITUATION.

Unless some influence change the governor's determination the men of the Thirteenth's regiments and the companies organized by Captain Dimmick, Captain Stokes, John Moir and others will have to enlist in one or the other of the eight companies which now compose the regiment or find a place in a company from some portion of the state upon which will be bestowed the privilege of forming a company.

There is a strong likelihood, also, that the Thirteenth will not secure any of these new companies and will have to continue as an eight-company, two-battalion regiment. After the present companies are recruited to the 108 standard there will be only 1,800 of the second call volunteers to be recruited into new companies. These new companies, Colonel Logan says, are to be numerical order.

At this time only the first six regiments are called out to three-battalion dimensions. The Thirteenth, which is the eleventh regiment in numerical order—there being no Seventh or Eleventh regiments—stands no show whatever of securing the desired enlargement to twelve companies.

COURSEN NOT PLEASED.

Colonel Courson is not at all pleased with this plan, and proposes to register a vigorous protest. The regiments should be favored according to the seniority of their colonels, as is the rule in every other case. In the matter of seniority he ranks as third or fourth among the commanders of the Pennsylvania regiments, by reason of his service as a captain in the civil war. When he was third from the bottom under the National Guard rules he had to put up with the tail end of everything that was going on. Now, in the volunteer service, when he is third from the top he intends to insist on the good, old rule of seniority being enforced.

At last the Thirteenth has a bountiful, pure and convenient water supply. After three futile attempts to strike water by boring at points selected upon scientific principles, the old-fashioned, peach-sprout method was applied to and today the Thirteenth boasts of the finest well in the camp. Lieutenant J. C. Harrington, of Company G, Montrose, did the trick. Some of the scientific fellows sort a snickered when the gentleman from the Metropolis of Susquehanna whetted his jack knife on the side of his arm brogans and went forth in search of the famed talisman. He found one and then set it to its task.

HE FOUND WATER.

For the best part of an hour he tramped over the camp ground carrying the peach-sprout before him. Finally he came to headquarters and asked for a detail. It was given him, and after they had been armed with picks and shovels he marched them to the very top of the hill on which the camp is located. Again the scientific fellows sort of snickered. The books always told them to look for water in valleys. Lieutenant Harrington was aware of what the books had to say on the question, and he believed they were ordinarily right in this regard, but his peach-sprout said distinctly that the best vein of water about the camp was on top of the hill, and the peach-sprout, in Lieutenant Harrington's estimation, is infallible.

THE FOUND WATER.

At the point designated by Lieutenant Harrington, or rather by the peach-sprout, the well diggers went to work. Twelve feet below the surface the red clay gave way to a bed of gravel, and before the shovels had penetrated it a foot a veritable underground creek was encountered. It wasn't a lodgement of swamp water, such as other regiments had struck in the sand strata that overlie bed rock, as a rule, hereabouts. It was a small, swiftly coursing vein, of seemingly inexhaustible quantity, and of quality altogether unlike anything that the scientific fellows had been able to tap.

A perforated whiskey barrel was set in the center of the well rip-rap was under, about and for a foot or two above it; a pipe was inserted in the head of the barrel and a pump attached to the pipe. The Thirteenth no longer has cause to complain of its water supply and has Lieutenant Harrington and his peach sprout to thank for it. An artisan well is being sunk by General Graham's orders, at the other end of the camp, but the Thirteenth has lost all interest in the operation.

GOSSIP OF THE CAMP.

From a Staff Correspondent. Camp Alger, June 5.—An issue of fresh meat was delivered yesterday at the Thirteenth's commissary. Lieutenant Cox refused to accept it and sent it back. It was returned to him with the information that the meat was all right and that if he didn't like it he could leave it, or words to that effect. Colonel Courson, acting brigadier, was appealed to and under authority of his office he appointed a board of survey to pass upon the question at issue. Acting Major Kombeek, Captain Fellows and Assistant Surgeon Keller, who comprised the board, reported back to the brigadier that they had ordered the meat to be buried and three guns to be fired over its grave. Another issue of fresh meat came later in the day.

Major Wood, of the Second battalion, was yesterday detailed to organize a field officers' court to try several cases of violation of the rules of discipline. Four culprits received light deductions from their pay for being absent from roll call or some such offenses.

Captain McCausland, of Company G, who is engineering the scheme to secure the Halstead band for the regiment says that the order to recruit the companies to 108 members makes the regimental band an assured thing. John Coddington, the leader of the band, and 15 of its members stand ready to enlist and they will be among the very first recruits which the recruiting officers will consider.

Colonel Albert J. Logan, of Pittsburg, quartermaster general N. G. P.; Colonel Thomas Potter Jr., assistant quartermaster general N. G. P.; Major J. S. Snyder, of Philadelphia; Lieutenant W. F. Richardson, of Harrisburg, superintendent of the state arsenal, and W. H. Keochy, of Pittsburg, were guests of Acting Brigadier Courson, yesterday.

Judge Harold M. McClure, of Lewisburg, who is visiting Colonel Corvill, of the Twelfth, called on the officers of the Thirteenth yesterday.

Miss Blanche Hull, of Green Ridge, who is visiting friends in Washington, made a call on friends in the regiment yesterday.

Lieutenant Colonel Mattes returned today from his furlough and relieved Major Stillwell of the command of the regiment.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Grödin, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kilroy and Michael Hayes, of Halstead, and Burgess B. C. Ratt, of Great Bend, are visiting the "Benders" in Company G.

Captain Gilman, of Company D, was officer of the day Saturday; Lieutenant Robert C. Conroy, of Company E, commander of the guard and Private John Edlinger, of Company D, was orderly at headquarters. T. J. Duffy.

INTERESTING ANNIVERSARY.

St. Rev. Bishop Hoban was Ordained Eighteen Years ago Yesterday. St. Rev. M. J. Hoban, bishop of Annapolis and conductor of the St. Ignace, celebrated the eighteenth anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood yesterday, and during the day he received the congratulations of his many friends. Bishop Hoban was ordained a priest in Rome by Cardinal Monaco La Valletta, in the church of St. John Lateran, and he read his first mass in the chapel of the American college, Trinity Sunday, and shortly after he left for this country and landed here Sept. 2 of the year, and was assigned as assistant priest to Rev. Dr. Charles F. Kelley, of Towanda.

Three years later he was sent as assistant to Rev. John Finney, V. G., of Pittsburg, thence to St. Joseph, at Troy, and later was made pastor of the newly erected parish at Ashley. He was elevated to the bishopric Sunday, March 22, 1886, two years ago, by Cardinal Sadoli.

VERDICT FOR THE PLAINTIFF.

Directed by Judge Archbald in the Cannela-Kelley Case. The jury in the case for the recovery of $10,000 worth of bonds brought by Mrs. M. J. Cannela against Attorney John P. Kelley, assignee of the Olympia Trust company, was directed

AIDED BY MRS. PINKHAM.

Mrs. W. E. PAXTON, Youngtown, North Dakota, writes about her struggle to regain health after the birth of her little girl:

DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—It is with pleasure that I add my testimony to your list, hoping that it may induce others to avail themselves of your valuable medicine. "After the birth of my little girl, three years ago, my health was very poor. I had leucorrhoea badly, and a terrible bearing-down pain which gradually grew worse, until I could do no work. Also had headache nearly all the time, and dizzy feelings. Menstruations were very profuse, appearing every two weeks.

"I took medicine from a good doctor, but it seemed to do no good. I was becoming alarmed over my condition, when I read your advertisement in a paper. I sent at once for a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and after taking two-thirds of the bottle I felt so much better that I sent for two more. After using three bottles I felt as strong and well as any one.

"I think it is the best medicine for female weakness ever advertised, and recommend it to every lady I meet suffering from this trouble."

Maternity is a wonderful experience and many women approach it wholly unprepared. Childbirth under right conditions need not terrify women.

The advice of Mrs. Pinkham is freely offered to all expectant mothers, and her advice is beyond question the most valuable to be obtained. If Mrs. Paxton had written to Mrs. Pinkham before confinement she would have saved much suffering. Mrs. Pinkham's address is Lynn, Mass.

Saturday forenoon by Judge Archbald to bring in a verdict for the plaintiff. The case went to the jury Thursday, and on Friday afternoon, the jury being still out, Attorney I. H. Burns made a motion before Judge McPherson, who was the trial judge, for binding instructions, and to enter a rule for a new trial.

Major Warren opposed the motion, but the court decided not to rule on it until the next day, and as Judge McPherson was in a hurry home early on Saturday, he instructed Judge Archbald to grant the motion and direct a verdict for the plaintiff under these conditions. There is more law involved in the case than there are questions of fact.

In the wage suit of John Kane, of the South Side, against Henry Revels, of Archbald, a verdict for the defendant was found. Kane claimed $72 balance due on plastering a house.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. James Driscoll, of 113 Irving avenue, was 75 years old, and died at her home Saturday morning from an attack of heart trouble, to which she was subjected. A few hours before her death she was in good health. The deceased was 33 years of age, and is survived by her husband and three children. The funeral will take place tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock, at St. Peter's cathedral. Interment will be made in Catholic cemetery.

At the home of her daughter, Mrs. Daniel Reilly, corner of Grove street and Monroe avenue, Mrs. Johanna Madden, nee Kelly, died Saturday morning at 10 o'clock, after a long illness. She was 80 years of age, and is survived by her husband and two children. The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon, at 2 o'clock, at the Sacred Heart church. Interment will be made in Union cemetery.

8452 Pieces of Strictly High-Class Muslin and Cambric Underwear at a Sacrifice

Dainty, well-made Undermuslin that will appeal particularly to women who have been and are in the habit of making their own undergarments, with a view to obtaining only that which is perfection and which can be depended upon for wearing quality.

To all Purposes It Is the Equal of HOME MADE UNDERWEAR

In view of the fact that the market contains more inferior underwear at this time than it has for some time past, it is a relief to find that some manufacturers are still loyal to their good reputation and insist upon making only such underwear that will stand the criticism and scrutiny of home inspection. Just so with "Sicher" Underwear. Carefulness in making and liberality in the cutting it is on the order of home-produced underwear, and the sewing as well as the trimming is of the very best. This sale opens this Monday morning, with the opening of the store at eight o'clock. Goods will be found on sale all along the right aisle, at the bargain counter and in the center of the store.
