ORDINATION OF REV. JAMES HERRICK

Took Place in the Universalist Church at Nicholson.

HIS ENTRY INTO THE MINISTRY OF THE CHURCH WAS A FEATURE OF SERVICES PRELIMINARY TO THE OPENING OF THE ANNUAL CONVENTION OF THE UNIVERSALISTS OF THE STATE—PROGRAMME THAT HAS BEEN ARRANGED FOR TODAY.

Nicholson Universalists turned out in force yesterday to welcome the delegates from the various Universalist churches throughout the state to the sixty-seventh annual state convention. Delegates arrived on every train passing Nicholson, where they were met at the depot by the reception and entertainment committees, who escorted them to the newly erected church of the Saviour, which is to be dedicated today.

The convention opened last evening with the exercises attending the ordination of the Rev. James Herrick, who is to be the pastor of the new church. The following programme was rendered in a most pleasing manner: Voluntary, Mrs. Frank Baker, Dookology, congregation; invocation, Rev. Ralph E. Horn; anthem, choir; Scripture lesson, Rev. B. B. Fairchild; solo, Mrs. E. M. Tiffany; sermon, Rev. Dr. Atwood, ordination hymn, choir and congregation; prayer of consecration, Rev. F. E. Adams; right hand of fellowship, Rev. Dr. Sweetser; anthem, choir; charge to pastor, Rev. O. R. Beardsley; charge to people, Rev. O. R. Whipple; anthem, choir; benediction, pastor and choir.

Rev. Fairchild read the Scripture lesson, which was taken from the second chapter of the Second Epistle of Paul to Timothy. The ordination sermon was delivered by Rev. Dr. Atwood, pastor of St. Lawrence's university of Canton, N. Y. Dr. Atwood took as his text the thirty-third verse of the thirteenth chapter of St. Matthew, "The Kingdom of Heaven is like leaven which a woman took and hid in three measures of meal until the whole was leavened." Dr. Atwood compared our conception of the kingdom of heaven as a place where everything will be just as it should be. He referred to Christ as Leaven. He said Jesus was real Leaven, for he had the power of communicating himself to the world and himself indefinitely in human souls to the end of the earth and to the end of time.

BIBLE LIKE LEAVEN.

Dr. Atwood also said that real leaven must be brought into contact with that which is to be leavened. You can not, he said, place a pile of leaven in one place and a pile of meal in another. Thus he said it was with the Bible. The Bible was like leaven, the people were the meal; bring them together and the whole would be leavened. This is what Universalism means, that the leaven shall leaven the whole lump. That there shall be no part of it that shall not be changed into the very substance which the original leaven was. That is Jesus Christ. Have you any fault to find with that? That is the way the kingdom of heaven should be realized and maintained. They tell us that there is no great difficulty to preach the Universalist belief or to put any modifications upon it, because it has raised its belief so into the other churches until they are largely Universalist today.

It did not, of course, rain upon them like it rained here tonight, but it rained upon them as the water runs through a leak in the roof. Some of the churches are a little bit wet with Universalism, but they are not soaked; but the time will never come for us to cease to manifest the truth.

Following the sermon by Dr. Atwood the ordination of Rev. Herrick took place during a touching prayer led by the Rev. F. E. Adams, of Brooklyn, in which Dr. Atwood and Rev. Dr. Sweetser of Philadelphia took part. Rev. Dr. Sweetser then in a short and earnest address extended to Rev. Herrick the right hand of fellowship of the convention and of the Universalist church. Dr. Sweetser said in extending an apparently empty hand to a candidate for ordination he wished to emphasize the fact that as the representative of the Universalist state convention he extended to him the right hand of fellowship of every minister in the state of Pennsylvania, a firm which was necessary for the success of any minister. He ended by invoking a blessing upon the candidate.

Rev. O. R. Beardsley followed with his charge to the pastor, Rev. Beardsley made a touching reference to the time when many years ago the present pastor had been a member of his congregation at Cicero, N. Y., and now by a strange coincidence he was to preach from the same book and from the same pulpit that Mr. Beardsley was ordained to preach from last year. Rev. Beardsley then talked to the young pastor with such impressive but kind words of advice and encouragement that all in the congregation were visibly affected.

Rev. F. M. Whipple, of this city, delivered a most timely address to the people. Mr. Whipple made a happy reference to some amusing instances in his career as a pastor. He said that the pastor must be very careful not to allow the people to be voice and ears both. They should be receptive. They should come to church expecting to be preached to them. He said the congregation is the primer for the minister to criticize first. If any one is to be criticized, if the minister makes the congregation the congregation also makes the minister.

CLOSED WITH BENEDICTION.

The services closed with the benediction pronounced by the pastor of the church, Rev. James Herrick, who is pastor of the Nicholson and Hopkinton churches, is probably one of the youngest pastors in the state of Pennsylvania. He is barely 24 years of age and of youthful appearance. The congregations of both churches are, however, immensely pleased with him, and a brilliant career is probably in store for the young pastor. Today, at 10 o'clock the convention will be formally opened. At 11 o'clock the Rev. Dr. Sweetser of the Church of the Messiah, Philadelphia, will preach the communion sermon and in the afternoon the dedication exercises will be held. The delegates from the city were Rev. F. U. Whipple, F. C. Loomis, John W. Owens, Mrs. A. B. Nicol and Mrs. Ross Danner, representing the church. Mrs. Sanford Benjamin, representing the Sunday school, and Ida Barber and P.

A. Branda, representing the Young People's society.

ST. LUKE'S NEW BUILDING.

Ground Broken Yesterday for a Model Parish House.

Ground for the Throop memorial parish building for St. Luke's Protestant Episcopal church, broken before 7 o'clock yesterday morning by Benjamin Throop. He is the minor grandson and heir of Dr. and Mrs. B. H. Throop, in whose memory the building is to be erected by their daughter, Mrs. Mary Throop Phelps. Nearly thirty members of St. Luke's parish were present when the ground was broken by Master Throop, who removed two shovelful of earth as a part of the simple but impressive service conducted by the pastor, Rev. Rogers Israel. The site adjoins the imposing church edifice on Wyoming avenue. At 7 o'clock a large force of laborers and teams began the excavating work. The structure will be of Indiana limestone, the same kind of material used in building the Scranton Public Library. It will be four stories in height and will cover the full depth of the lot. The architectural style will be Gothic. Conrad Schroeder has the contract for building the structure. Information as to the estimated cost is withheld, but the figure will probably approach $25,000. The building will contain a large assembly hall, guild and society rooms, kitchen, superior room, industrial department, etc. It will be completed by Nov. 1.

LAST WEEK OF THE TERM.

Suit of Agnes Nichol Against the City of Carbonate on Trial.

The third and last week of common pleas court began yesterday morning with Judge Archibald in the main room. Judge Edwards in No. 2, and Judge Searle, of Monroe, in No. 3. Attorney L. H. Burns was interested in every case open and, therefore, but one case was called for trial, and that was the case of Agnes Nichol against the city of Carbonate. Nichol is the plaintiff and Charles E. Hatwey represented the defendant and Attorney E. C. Newcomb and Hon. John P. Reynolds, the defendants.

Mrs. Nichol claims $2,000 damages because the outlet of the second district sewer is a few hundred feet above a property owned by her, and the exhalations carried on the breeze have made it a very undesirable place to live. The defense is that the damages claimed are excessive.

The cases continued were: Charlotte J. Skyes against Dr. A. Van Cleef, Daniel M. Simpson and others against John F. Meagher, O. F. McKenna against F. F. Marsh, J. W. Kilpatrick against National Express company, Elizabeth Woods against F. V. Yost, and others, B. F. Huffing against Melvina Street, Margaret Smith and others against Jermyn and Rush boroughs Water companies. Settlements were announced of the cases of Gowan & Stever against J. A. Yost, and others, P. Potter against Scranton Traction company, James Lynch against Scranton Traction company, Kate Carins against Scranton Traction company. The case of the Adams & Westlake company against M. T. Kelly was postponed to the 17th.

CONGREGATIONAL MINISTERS MEET.

Their Session Was Held at Kingston Yesterday.

The regular monthly meeting of the "Congregational Ministers' union" of the Lackawanna and Wyoming valleys was held yesterday at Kingston. The church of which Rev. T. C. Edwards, D. D., is pastor, Dr. Edwards presided. The paper of the afternoon was read by Rev. David Jones, pastor of the First Welsh Congregational church, West Scranton. The subject was "Reasons for the Present War With Spain." It was an able effort and treated the subject in a fair and impartial manner. He concluded the paper by likening the action of the United States toward Cuba to that of the good Samaritan in scripture, and as to those who are at present denouncing the war he styled them as being like Leveite and his friend, who "passed the wounded man by on the other side." The business session was held in the morning and was attended by ministers from Scranton, Wilkes-Barre, Edwardsdale, Nanticoke, Parsons and Plains. R. S. Jones, of North Scranton, was present. During the afternoon and evening a "Gymnasium" was held and an enjoyable time spent.

BICYCLE CLUB BIRTHDAY.

BARTLEY-RYAN FIGHT A DRAW

Men Spurred Very Cautiously from Beginning to End.

BARTLEY HAD A TRIFLE THE BEST OF THE FIGHTING BUT THE MEN AGREED IT SHOULD BE A DRAW IF ON THEIR FEET AT THE END OF THE TWENTIETH ROUND, MIKE KELLY WAS REFEREE.

The American Sporting club presented a good bill at Music Hall last night before a comfortably filled house. The preliminary bout was to have been between Bartley and Ryan, but the men agreed it should be a draw if on their feet at the end of the twentieth round, Mike Kelly was referee.

The principal bout was between Tommy Ryan, of Philadelphia, and Frank Bartley, of Binghamton, Sam Austin, of New York, was to have refereed the fight, but missed train connections, and telegraphed Manager Skelly that he would not be here. After some difficulty, Mike Kelly, of this city, was decided upon as referee.

Harry Hopewell was announcer, and in Ryan's corner were Harry Tutbill, of New York; Frank Eddies, of Philadelphia, and James Mcadden, of Wilkes-Barre. Bartley was headed by his manager, James Fitzerald, of Chicago; Jimmy Barry, the lightweight champion, and Will O'Brien, of Susquehanna. The timekeepers were Mike Connors, for Ryan; Henry Baker, for Bartley, and Peter Flynn, for the club. The men weighed in yesterday afternoon under the limit, 144 pounds, Ryan being slightly the heavier. Ryan entered the ring at 9:32 and Bartley at 10:05 o'clock. The fighters were instructed by the referee at 10:12 and a minute later the fighting began.

FIGHT BY ROUNDS.

Ryan led for Bartley's wind and Bartley landed his left on Ryan's face, which struck him on the forehead. Ryan countered effectively and Bartley sent in some good body blows. Ryan led for an uppercut, but missed and slipped to the floor.

The third round opened with a left lead by Bartley, but Ryan blocked it. The latter also received a left-hand punch on the nose, but in turn landed a vicious left swing on Ryan's jaw and dodged some clever swings by his opponent. The fourth and fifth rounds were uneventful, but in the sixth round Bartley did some clever work and honors were in his favor. The seventh and eighth were characterized by some clever in-fighting and clinching on the part of Ryan, which nearly upset Bartley.

At the beginning of the ninth round Ryan hit his opponent in a clinch un-intentionally and was cautioned by the referee. He afterwards landed a straight left on Bartley's mouth, which jarred him. Bartley mixed things up in this round and got a couple of punches on his face and neck. This was Ryan's round. The tenth was featured by a hot swing by Bartley on Ryan's jaw and clever ducking by the former.

RYAN ERED HIS KNEE.

The eleventh, twelfth and thirteenth were lively, with honors slightly in Ryan's favor, but in the fourth round Ryan's right hand striking his knee for his stomach, which bothered Bartley considerably.

Ryan led and landed in the fifteenth effectively, and three blows in quick succession were cleverly landed. This was Ryan's, but in the sixteenth and seventeenth rounds Bartley mixed things up and did some clever fighting. He landed his left and right on Ryan's face and jaw, and rushed his opponent, who clinched to avoid punishment. Bartley landed a left swing, which staggered him and he slipped to the floor, although it was not a knock down.

The eighteenth, nineteenth and twentieth rounds were lively but ineffective for either fighter, and both were very strong at the finish. Both men had agreed in the event of their being on their feet at the end of the twentieth round, the decision was to be a draw, which was given by Referee Keeloy.

The proposition was made by Bartley before the fight, but in all probability he would have received the decision if no such agreement was made.

The fighting was rather slow throughout, but was scientific and clean. Bartley was a much better fighter showing when he fought Judge, while Ryan repeated his former exhibitions here, displaying a willingness for punishment, but ineffectively landing the principal blows which he uses throughout his fights—straight arm punches for the wind. The spectators would have been better pleased had a decision been given.

ABOUT VICIOUS DOGS.
