GLORIOUS FLAG RAISING.

Mitchell Hose Company Unfurls Old Glory.

The Mitchell Hose company had a glorious flag raising at 8 o'clock last evening. Before the exercises at the hose house, the company, in full dress, uniform, marched down Main street, headed by the Mozart band. At the rear of the procession this sparkling affair drew a concourse assembled by Mayor O'Neill, ex-Mayor Bellow and Alderman S. S. Jones. Five thousand persons were within hearing of Mayor O'Neill's voice when he stepped to the front of the gayly decorated platform and commenced his address, which the immense throng punctuated with frequent applause. Passing the question as to the merits of the war, his honor declared that inasmuch as the strife is now on, the man who fails to support the president in his trial is a traitor, and he scathingly rebuked those who criticize the administration. This is the time for union and the Devey, and the Hobson, of the South, to show the sort of stuff that is born and reared under the protection of the tri-colored banner. The mayor's remarks took deep root in his auditors. He was in fine voice and the stillness of the evening made it possible to hear him more than a foot was one of the best ever made by Mayor O'Neill in this city. The band played the "Red, White and Blue" and Foreman Thomas Herbert pulled Old Glory to the top of a hundred foot pole. Jacob Ellet touched off his "sounding" and a beautiful flag, 75 feet was unfurled. Out of it fell 216 little flags with this inscription: Mitchell Hose Co., No. 1, Flag Raising, June 10, 1898. Alderman Jones then delivered a stirring address, in which he referred to the flag as being a reference to the near end of Spanish misrule he was cheered to the echo. The band concluded the exercises by the playing of "America" during which a thoroughly patriotic, but not too well informed member of the assemblage, asked his nearest neighbor: "What piece are they playing?" "I don't exactly know, but I think it's one of those Grand Army marches."

DEATH OF JOHN WHITE.

Octogenarian Passes to His Final Reward.

John White died at his Canaan street home Monday night. Deceased was a native of Ireland where he was born in 1817. He came to America in 1837, being in his twenty-first year. He was a farmer by trade and found employment at his business in various parts of the country. He lived at Middletown, N. Y., for a time and afterward moved to Waymart, which was at that time in the center of the biggest tanning district of the country. Mr. White had lived in Waymart for several years and afterward moved to this side of the mountain, and took up his residence on the Canaan road. He has been living there for many years. During his residence in the community Mr. White has won abundance of esteem and respect. He was an exemplary citizen and a kind husband and father. He was a devout attendant at St. Rose's Catholic church, and always made his daily life conform to his religious beliefs. Although he lived to the ripe old age of eighty-one years, he retained his faculties up to the last, and was always vigorous for his years until his fatal illness overcame him. He had been confined to his bed for three weeks, during which time the end was daily expected. Deceased is survived by his widow and five daughters and two sons. They are Mrs. Cecelia, of Oneonta; Mrs. W. W. Graham, Mrs. E. J. McHale, Mrs. Joseph Herndon and Miss Julia White, of this city; John White, of Oneonta, and Thomas White, of Wilkes-Barre. The funeral will be held Thursday morning at 9 o'clock. Requiem high mass will be celebrated in the church of St. Rose of Lima. Interment will be made in St. Rose's cemetery.
