THIS AND THAT.

At least one tragedy, bloodless we grant, has happened in this city, and neither police, coroner nor county de-tective have been apprised of it. The tective have been apprised of it. The Scranton Railway company should have made the facts, in connection with the affair, known to the proper authorities, but it may well be doubted if it was even reported to them, though it was by means of one of their cars that the bloodless travely accurred. tragedy occurred.

That there was an evident desire to suppress details was apparent to an extent for the car was fairly well crowded at the time of the affair of which the true facts are about to be related. Conscience, however, smote at least one passenger and he unbessomed aimself.
One evening not long ago, a heavy vestibule car of the Street Railway company was on its outward bound trip to Dunmore over the Laurel Hill line. It was about 10 o'clock and many passen-gers were aboard. Conductor Arthur Evans and Motorman Enoch Evans were in charge of the car and everything had gone along in monotone. had gone along in monotonous routine until after they had passed the Laurel Hill park switch. Just above the switch a heavy curve begins and swings around into Blakely street toward No. 6 branch.

The tracks are well to the left side of the road going toward Dunmore and about the middle of the curve heavy shade trees on abutting properties cast a deep shadow over the rails. A dis-quieting feeling seemed to affect Motor-man Evans. He leaned forward, muscles tense, eyes and ears alert. Then a yell that would have done credit to the Rough Riders' leader at Santiago broke from him as he frantically shut off the power, jammed on his rachet brake and reversed his power.

The car was almost on end with the suddenness of its reverse, but its weight carried it forward and with a duli thud a large, heavy man, who was standing in the middle of the track, was hurled into the fender. The car stopped. Con-ductor and motorman jumped from the car to investigate, while the passengers were untangling themselves from gers were untangling themselves from the sents and seeking an explanation. "Good Heavens, 'Evans, it is another. I'm havin' bad luck these days," said Motorman Evans to Conductor Evans as he stood trembling before the fender while both stared at the inanimate form. A gurgle of laughter from a nearby

A gurgle of laughter from a nearby porch, and a scream of pent up amusement nearby seemed to have a peculiar effect on Motorman Evans. He siezed the still, inanimate form, and lifting it from the fender hurled it to the roadbed, jumped on it, tore it apart and scattered straw, clothes and rags to the winds. Conductor Evans stood aghast for a moment and then retired behind the car. The passengers attempted to interfere. The passengers attempted to interfere, but one look at Evans' face deterred the boldest. The poor insulmate object which he had run into was an effigy of the "Unspeakable Weyler" and the plac-ing of it on the track a new way of suggesting what would be done to the real Weyler.

But stay, Evans was remembering much more. Two years ago he ran over a little child and has never forgotten it. This second experience, though a hoax, has severed the connections of a first-class materials. class motorman with the company and Evans has gone into the hotel business on Jackson street near Main avenue.

He was a little man of three and had much enjoyed the entertainment afforded by the graphsphene when at his grandfather's residence on Quincy avenue. The other afternoon the graphaphone refused to work and much consternation was expressed regarding the difficulty. When everybody was still, after vain efforts to locate the cause of the trouble, the small chap earnestly remarked with an air of virtuous consciousness of being utterly blameless in the matter: "Well, anyway. I never did do a fing to it. I only did pour one cup of water in the place where the oil goes."

The Petersburg and Nay Aug cars now run on the Laurel Hill lines and the pat-rons haven't yet grown used to the change, but continue to stand in squads rear Sanderson's drug store and swear re or less excitedly about the kind of time observed on that division. Yespronuced at Linden street, "Transfer o Shanty Hill!" and the passengers who of Stone avenue, almost tumbled off the feetrail in their speechless indignation. But, after all, what's in a name?

He was taken down on June 8 and by skillful treatment the fever was broken in five days, leaving him very weak. The physician there had him removed to the mountains back of the city of St. Pierre, where it was cooler. Mr. Testart, vice-consul, who has been at Mar-tinique for a number of years, stuck to Mr. Darte night and day. A letter dated 25 says he is fully recovered and is all right again.

STAMP SHORTAGE STILL CONTINUES

War Revenue Stamps Received Here Since Last Thursday.

RAILROAD AND TELEGRAPH COM-PANIES EEGINNING TO SEND IN NEW ORDERS, SOME OF WHICH CANNOT BE FILLED-PARTIAL FILLING OF ORDERS IS MAKING MUCH EXTRA WORK IN THE REV-ENUE OFFICE-STAMP OPINIONS BY COMMISSIONER SCOTT.

The stamps so urgently needed by follector Penman had not reached here up to a late hour yesterday aftersoon nor had he received at that time any information indicating when they yould be received. The last lot of stamps for this district arrived last week Thursday. During that day and Friday all of the desirable smaller denominations were sold. Stamps of larger denominations, for which there is not much demand, remained and many of them are on hand now.

Meanwhile the clamor for both proprietary and documentary stamps has in no wise ceased. A vast correspondence, too large to be filled until it is attended to and much of it accompanied by remittances for stamps, lies in the vaults ready to receive attenion as soon as stamps are received. Much extra clerical work is required in the partial filling of orders from certain denominations on hand. The extra work keeps the office force on duty until late each night.

It was thought the railroad and telegraph offices had purchased a sufficent amount to tide them over the first rush but the Erie and Wyoming Valley railroad has filed an urgent order for nearly all the lesser denominations, the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company has applied for a supply and the Western Union Telegraph company has also made known its need of stamps.

The First and Third National and Scranton Savings banks yesterday re-ceived consignments of check stamps from New York city. Each of these institutions observed some days ago that their first purchases of stamps would not last long, but new supplies could not be obtained here. Urgent orders by telegraph and letter were ent to the bunks' respective exchanges in New York city with the result that mough stamps were received yesterday to tide them over several weeks.

STAMPED CHECKS

Banks and individuals can save themselves the trouble of affixing and cancelling bank stamps by purchasing check books printed in ten designated government printing houses in as many cities. Each check contains an engraved revenue 2-cent stamp. These checks may be purchased through Collector Penman.

Collector Penman has received copies of about a score of opinions of N. B. Scott, commissioner of internal revenue, bearing upon certain provisions of the war revenue act. Some of these are of sufficient import to bear the signed approval of Lyman J. Gage, ecretary of the Treasury department, of which the internal revenue bureau is a part. Many of the following opinlons will give useful information to merchants, bankers and others in this

Checks issued prior to July 1 do not have to be stamped, though cashed subequent to that date. Manufacturing companies having on

Persons representing eigar manufacturers who are furnished with sampler and send orders to factories, receiving a commission for furnishing orders, are liable as commercial brokers, provided they pay their own traveling expenses and are not classed as regular employed wholly subject to directions from the Brokers must pay special tax in each city where they do business. Warehouse receipts for whisky in bonis subject to tax.

It is too early to even estimate how much the war revenue stamp sales will increase the receipts of this revenue district. To give an estimate Collector Penman would have to know the amount of average business of the banks, drug stores, express and railroad companies, etc. The sale of stamps now will not indicate the ultimate revenue even approximately for in some cases the required stamps have not been sold and in others the amount purchased has been greatly in excess of present needs. For the same reason any statemen of stamps sold to date would be misleading and of no value in the face of the rush for the small denominations as soon as they were received.

VOTERS OF THE FIRST WARD.

They Were Heard Betore the Commissioners Yesterday. Voters from the Fifth district of the First ward of this city were examined yesterday's hearing in the Langstaff-Kelley contest. Two of them said the only man on the ticket they voted for was John R. Jones, and another one said he voted for every office except county treasurer.

Louis Munsky was asked if he had assistance in marking his ballot, and the answer he gave made Mr. Hamilton ask if he had been coached by anybody in the corridor. Mr. Hamilton said that Munsky seemed to be densely ignorant on purpose.

The voters examined were as follows: Andrew Smith, James McDonnell, Tim Hollihan, John McDonnell Patrick Gorman, Michael Gilboy, P. J. Clark, Thomas McCrone, Thomas F. Duggan, James McCloskey, John Ryan, Michael Sweeney, Thomas McGuire, Bernard Sullivan, William Carden, Martin May, Anthony Carden, Anthony Costello, Michael Cusick, John J. IN COUNCILS TONIGHT.

Important Matters Stated for the Upper Body's Consideration.

Each branch of councils will meet onight, the select in regular and the ommon council in adjourned sessions. Whether an attempt will be made in the upper body to reconsider its action on the Lackawanna telephone amendments, is not known. However, orponents to such a move are mistaken in their contention that it cannot be made. The rules of select council permit a motion to reconsider on of before the next regular meeting. The amendments were sent to conference committee at the regular meeting Thursday, June 16, since when no regular meeting has been held. There were five Thursdays in June. Select council meets regularly on the first and third Thursday of each month, Select council will consider the fire limit ordinance on third reading and to which Mr. Sanderson will probably offer amendments increasing the proposed area. The upper branch also will eceive City Solicitor McGinley's opinon on the right to appeal the ordinance granting the Dunn Sprinkling ompany the exclusive privilege of sprinkling the streets.

A number of selectmen caucused last night to decide what they would do relative to the street commissionership.

TOOK A DOSE OF STRYCHNINE.

David Jones, a Former Scrantonian, Attempts to Kill Himself.

David Jones, a former resident of this city, who has been in the west for the last ten years, took a large dose of strychnine a short time ago and, according to the Tribune, of Great Falls, Montana, it almost proved fatal. The Tribune says:

Jones came here about six months ago from a sheep ranch, having about $1,500. Clair, an inmate of Ruth Cook's house on the Row, and spent about $1,000 on her, He endcavored to persuade her to go to Klondike with him, but she shock him. Then he secured a gun and threatened to kill her new lover. He was arrested and, when released, started for the Klondike, but returned after going as far as Seattle. He again took up with the woman and she soon broke him and again quit him. He took a very large dose of strychnine nearly empty bottle being found on his person.

TO THE FRIENDS OF GOOD GOVERNMENT

Rev. J. H. Leiper, of Pennsylvania Sabbath Association, Issues an Address.

HE SAYS THE CHRISTIAN CITIZENS OF SCRANTON ARE IN THE MA-JORITY AND CAN ELECT ANY GOOD TICKET ON WHICH THEY MAY UNIAE - URGES THEM TO UNITE AND SELECT COMPETENT MEN WHO HAVE THE FEAR OF

Rev. J. H. Leiper, one of the field ecretaries of the Pennsylvania Sabbath association, mention of whose presence in the city was made in yesterday's Tribune, has issued the following, which is addressed "To the Friends of Good Government: The fool hath said in his heart, there is no God," Psalm xiv, 1. To ignore or oppose law is the very essence of Atheism; and Atheism is the parent of anarchy. And anarchy on earth would be hell begun. There is no standing room between law and peace on the one hand and anarchy and hopeless ruin on the other. The truth of this statement is corroborated by the Divine word and all history, both individual and national. "There is no peace saith my God to the wicked." "The wicked are like the troubled sea which cannot rest, but easteth up mire and dirt." But it is also true that "no man liveth to himself;" hence the element of disobedience to law is a troubler of the eace-a nuisance-incompatible good government and public safety. No community can afford to be indifferent to the conduct of the lawless and dis-

FROM EVERY STANDPOINT.

This is true from whatever standpoint is viewed-whether social, commercial morni. Men may imagine that the safest way for them to not in regard to the conduct of the lawless is to let them alone. That is precisely what that class of inhabitants asks you to do. "Let us alone and attend to your own business is their impudent retert when expostu-lated with. All that satan asked of Jesus Christ was, "Let us alone; hast thou come hither to torment us before the But Jesus the king could not afford to let the legion of devils alone for they had possession of one of His children, so He permitted them to go into the herd of swine which resulted both in the destruction of the hogs and the banishment of the demons.

Those Gadarene Jews were thus rebuked for indulging in, to them, a for-bidden occupation, but they were kindly delivered out of the ciutches of satan Where a Christian community becomes aroused to their danger from the presence of the demon of lawlessness among then they only need to apply the power with which their Lord has endowed them and soon the demon will be cast out. That seems like an easy solution of a difficult problem, but it is as infallible, as the word of God. See Proverbs xxix, 2. In reply to a question of the writer an intelligent citizen of this city remarked: "Yes, sir, the Christian citizens of Scranton are a majority and can elect any good ticket on which they may unite." Then for God's sake and for the sake of all that is holy on earth unite and irre-spective of creed or party select from your citizenship competent men who have the fear of God (not man) before their eyes and fill your municipal offices with them, and Scranton will "be redeemed out of all her troubles." What will the re-sults be? That is a big question. Our pen would have to be dipped in the beams of the sun to portray the results that would follow such action as surely as the bright morning follows the night.

WOULD BE RESTORED.

The Sabbath of the commandment would be restored to your city, viz.: "In it thou shalt not do any work, thou, nor thy son, nor thy daughter, nor thy man servant, nor thy maid servant, nor thy cattle, nor thy stranger that is within thy gates." Not a place of secular business would be open on the Lord's day. Not a wheel of industry would be turned. The cry of the poor thoughtless or untaught newsboy would cease to be heard on your streets on the day of God. The folks whose moral taste relishes the contents of the "Sunday newspaper" for Sabbath reading (what a burlesque on piety, the very thought!) would have to provide themselves therewith on Saturday,

The cigar luxury would have to be laid up in store the evening before. "The necessaries of life" would have to be all provided for on Saturday. What a beau-tiful day for rest and worship each Lord's day would be! Not a drunken man on your streets any day of the week. Blasphemy and profanity would gradually cease to be heard. The pews in your churches would be fuller and the tobacco stores and beer dens would be empty for that day at least. When will we learn that civil government is an ordinance of God.
