TERRIFIC STORM.

Trees Blown Down, Cellars Flooded and Street Car Traffic Interrupted. A terrific hail, rain and wind storm visited this city yesterday afternoon between 3 and 4 o'clock. It was brief and violent. All the principal streets were converted into rivers. Railroad ties, tree branches, a trunk and flags were among the things that floated down Salem and Main streets. Huge snowdrifts and even flags—American flags—were swept along by the torrent.

A good-sized "Sarotoga" packed with sundry articles pertaining to a summer outing floated down Wall street. It was taken in the Wall street hotel. At last accounts the owner had not called for it.

When the tail of the shower was passing ballstones about the size of marbles fell thick and fast. They fell in the reverse direction. The level, all the weathercocks headed from northwest to southeast and the storm in all its fury returned upon us. Finally the western wind prevailed and the destructive elements passed over into the happy land of Canada.

The huge elm in front of H. E. May's meat shop on Lincoln avenue was split from crotch to roots and may have to come down, as it seems to be in a condition dangerous to the public. A large maple was blown down on J. B. Van Bergen's North Church street fence, which was demolished.

On River street an immense tree fell in front of the Atkinson property. It narrowly escaped crushing the new Gelder residence.

A tree was blown across the street car track on Brooklyn street and delayed traffic some time.

Thomas O'Connell's cellar on South Church street was completely filled and many dollars' worth of provisions were totally lost.

A valuable plate glass window of the fourth story of the handsome Leader building was broken by the wind.

The street department was very prompt in getting at work and by early evening the streets were passable and presentable.

DEATH OF JOHN GORDON.

He Was Born on the Ocean Fifty-five Years Ago.

John Gordon, one of the best known residents of Union, died on Thursday evening. Deceased was born on the ocean about fifty-five years ago while his parents were on their way to this country from Ireland, their native land. They came directly to Carbondale and the deceased has been prominent in social affairs ever since. Two of the brothers enlisted in the Union army at the breaking out of the Civil war. One was killed at the second battle of Bull Run. The other, the subject of this sketch, served through the whole war in the cavalry. He saw some of the hardest fighting of the war and participated in nearly all the important engagements of the army of the Potomac. He retired from the army with permanent injuries received in the service. He applied for a pension which was granted, and up to the time of his death he was on the country's roll of honor.

After the war he was married in this city to Miss Mary Ann McDonald. His widow survives him. There are also three sons and four daughters. They are: William, Thomas, James; Julia, Ellen, Theresa and Margaret. Thomas Gordon, of Church street, and Dudley Gordon, of Gordon avenue, are brothers of the deceased; and one sister, Mrs. McHale, of Philadelphia, is among the survivors.

Deceased had been sick for about three months. His ailment was asthma which developed into a dropsical complaint. He has been a great sufferer in the past few weeks and death was a merciful relief.

The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Services will be held in St. Rose's church. He will be buried with military honors.

GRACEFUL WOMEN

over nervousness cannot be accomplished by will power. Disturbed nerves indicate disease. Nervous women are seldom graceful. If graceful naturally, they soon lose their ease of movement. Many nervous women are astonished to find they have catarrh. Catarrh penetrates everywhere; Pe-r-u-na cures it wherever located. It makes calm nerves and drives out catarrh, for the nerves control catarrh.

Dr. S. F. Hartman, Columbus, O. DEAR SIR:—For ten or fifteen years I have been subject to nervous dyspepsia. I would have spells of quivering in my stomach with smothering feelings. My nerves were terribly debilitated. I was suffering from what is called nervous prostration. My stomach felt bloated and I was constantly weak and trembling. I consulted several physicians who treated me without doing me any good. I had almost given up in despair when I heard of Pe-r-u-na. It was about six years ago that I first took Pe-r-u-na. I found it an immediate relief to all my disagreeable symptoms. It is the only medicine that has ever been of any use to me."

Send for Dr. Hartman's books on catarrh; they are mailed free. Special book for women. Pe-r-u-na cures the diseases of the mucous membrane, and at the same time builds up the general health. All druggists sell it.

Mrs. Rosina Horning, River Basin, Mich., writes: "Last summer I was troubled with female weakness. Pe-r-u-na helped me and now I can do my own work."

Here is a letter from Mrs. Lucie Waldie, Olds Lake, Mich. She writes: "For three years I suffered with catarrhal dyspepsia. My mouth was so sore I scarcely ate. I wrote to you for advice and you told me to take Pe-r-u-na and Man-a-lin. I at once got some and began to take it. It has been ten months since I began to use your medicines and I am perfectly well. I have no signs of my old trouble."

The magnificent work accomplished by Pe-r-u-na during the past forty years in curing catarrhal trouble, is reflected in thousands of letters on file and constantly being received.

ABOUT COPRA. Facts Concerning a Large and Peculiar Industry of the Philippines. From the Philadelphia Times.

Copra, which is one of the chief products of the Philippine Islands, is the dried meat of the coconut. The industry, while cooperatively young, presents some unique features and the production of it is the outgrowth of attempts made a few years ago to find some convenient method of exporting the surplus quantity of coconut oil produced in the islands. The earthen jars in which the oil arrived at Manila were too easily broken to be transported with any degree of safety. The only available alternative was a crude form of barrel made in China for the purpose, but these leaked so profusely that they gave very poor results. These difficulties led to a search for a more convenient form in which to export the product. It was for the purpose of supplying this need that M. Eduard Vidal taught the natives how to prepare the cocconut in a dry form such as is known on the market as copra, basing his process upon some experiments which he together with some planters in the province of Misamis had carried on with considerable success in the year 1882.
