REESE POWELL ARRESTED AT INSTANCE OF JAS. COLLINS.

They Are Brothers-in-Law and Powell Says He Chastised Collins Because the Latter Was Abusing His Family-Funeral of Mrs. Margaret Miller From Her Late Home on Pittston Avenue-Adam Legh's Birthday Celebrated.

Reese Powell and James Collins, of tone avenue, are brothers-in-law who do not entertain the very best epinion of one another, as was evidenced in Alderman Lentes' court last night. Powell was arraigned on the charge of assault and battery preferred by Collins. At the hearing witnesses were heard who stated that Collins was the aggressor. Powell was discharged and he immediately gave information for Collins' arrest, charging him with assault and battery. A hearing was asked and the testimony given by Powell, corroborated by his wife, mother and a sister, places Collins in a most unenviable light.

Powell stated that his sister is married to Collins, and last Thursday a baby boy was born to them. The father got intoxicated and returning home that night broke furniture and dishes, throwing the broken pieces at his wife and new babe. He further alleges that the pitiful pleadings of the unfortunate wife and her mother were of no avail. The police were sent for but Collins evaded arrest. Powell heard of the affair and post-haste he went to the Collins home. He met his brother-in-law and remonstraed with him for his brutal conduct. Angry words ensued, and Collins hit him and he defended himself. Collins asked that before the matter was finished in the alderman's office the testimony of his wife be taken. He was held in $300 bail for a further hearing Saturday night.

Washington, July 18.-The question of transports for the Porto Rico expedition and that of providing subsistence for the army which is to go there was the topic which occupied the attention of officials of the quartermasters' and the subsistence departments of the army during the entire afternoon There are ample transports available scattered all along the Atlantic and gulf coasts and at Santiago and these vill be concentrated as rapidly as possible at the embarking points. Subsistence stores also are abundant at some of the points from which the troops are to start and these will be supplimented by additional supplies as fast as they are needed. A vast quantity will be shipped from Newport News and orders have been given for dispatching to that place 6,000,000 pounds of these stores and 200,000 pounds of refrigerated beef. The officials of the department were busy studying the map of Porto Rico with a view among other things of determining the most available pert at which to send the army and the surplies. They would not say, however, which one had been selected. It was suggested in some quarters that the army might land on the southern coast near the city of Ponce, to the southwest of San Juan.

Ponce is situated on a plain about two miles from the scaboard, is the residence of the military commander of the district and is commercially the second city of importance on the island. A fine road leads to the port (Playa) where is situated the custom house, the offices of the captain of the port and all consular officers. The port is spacious and will hold vesse s at 25 foot draft, an important consideration in the landing. The city proper has no military defences, but in the hills to the north of the town a series of earth entrenchments have lately been constructed. West of where the railroad and military road touch the shore, earth works have been constructed to guard this strategic point. There are about thirty mountain Howitzers in Ponce available for the defence of the city and the railroad. The agray if lar fed there would be compelled to travel fifty or saty miles across the mountainous country to reach San Juan. There is, however, a main road, irregular and circuitous, connecting Ponce and San Juan. The northern coast of the island extends in an almost straight line from east to west and is high and rugged. The only harbors it has are the following:

San Juan surrounded by mangrove swamps and protected by the Cabras and the Cabritas islands and some very dangerous banks; the anchoring ground of Arecibo somewhat unprotected and which has been mentioned as a possible landing place; and the coves of Cangrejos and Condado. During the present season the ports of this coast are safe and commodious un-

Be Added to Our Navy. Off Santiago, July 17, via Guantanamo.-Captain Cook of the Brooklyn is authority for the statement that the former Spanish flagship, the Infanta Maria Teresa, had floated off the reef on which she stranded and that her heavy armament is practically uninjured. The captain says also that the cruiser is likely to be saved and form an addition to the United States navy, a trophy of the glorious July 3, 1898. Cristobal Colon may also be saved, though much depends on the weather, which is very uncertain at this time of the year. A heavy storm might drive the vessel so high on the coral reef that it would be impossible Many naval men are outspoken in heir criticism of the treatment of the Colon immediately after her surrender, They believe the ship could have been saved when she slipped back from the reef into deep water had divers, carpenters and machinists with a competent prize crew been sent on board of her. The crew of the Brooklyn regarded the Vizcaya as their particular enemy, since the time when they were both resent at Queen Victoria's jubilee when there was much comment abroad on what a good fight might be expected etween the two ships if they ever met Of the four big ships which were in Admiral Cervera's fleet only two are doomed to destruction. They are the Vizcaya and the Almirante Oquendo, and those, as a coincidence, were the two cruisers which went into Havana harbor after the blowing up of the Maine and were moored near the wreck of the United States battleship, in all the bravery of paint, gilding and bunting seeming to gloat over the ruin, while the people of Havana shouted themselves hoarse, fired myriads of bombs, and bragged unceasingly of what the two formidable armored cruisers of Spain would do with the United States navy, should ever a fair fight be possible.

"Surely," remarked Lieutenant Commander Wainwright of the Gloucester, formerly of the Maine, "this avenges the Maine,"
