THIS AND THAT.

William Coughlin, formerly of the Pawtucket base ball club, who joined the Wilkes-Barre team Monday, spent last night at the home of his parents on Capouse avenue. Harry Merritt, the base ball writer of the Wilkes-Barre Record, said yesterday with reference to Coughlin's work on third in Monday's game: "The Bill Coughlin II. from Scranton is certainly a luminary. a very pert diamond artist. The board of appraisement on the bleachers held an informal session at the close of the melee with Providence. The board as a unit voted that Bill Coughlin would never suffer in a mark-down sale or find himself ensconced on the bargain counter. The following resolution, without the customary preamble, was passed without a dissenting vote, and ordered spread upon the minutes:

'Resolved. That all bonds that shall be issued on the Coughlin Manufacturing Co., operating at Third Base, A. Park, shall be issued to and retained by local members of this board, who are expressly prohibited from disposing of them at less than $50 above par. And, it is further ordered that no member shall dispose of any of his holdings to Scranton members of the organization.'

"Even the Scranton members expressed satisfaction with this mandatory action of the board and refrained from offering their resignations. After ordering that a bronze medal be struck off to commemorate Coughlin's achievements during this engagement, the board adjourned."

Few balloon ascensions are given under such striking circumstances as attended the one held last evening at the residence of Victor Koch, on Madison avenue. The balloon, a large paper one, was being inflated on the spacious car stopped to take aboard a passenger. Though there were no accompanying fireworks or parachute, the passengers on that car made a request to have the car wait that they might witness the ascension. The conductor agreed to favor them and in due time away went the balloon in satisfactory style. It took a course toward Lake Winola, and the car proceeded. A young lady passenger, who was apparently a stranger here, asked "if all vention. cars in Scranton were allowed to stop for balloon ascensions,

One of nature's freaks was noted at Park Place and Green Ridge yesterday morning. They were visited by a severe rain storm about 6 o'clock. For a time the rain descended in a very lively fashion and converted the dusty streets into thoroughfares of thick pasty mud.

The centre of the storm was Court street. No rain fell at Albright avenuc and Providence road three blocks to the south or above Jones street, the same distance to the north. Monday afternoon Dunmore had the beneof a gentle rain storm which was denied to other places hereabouts.

The cabinet for the "Rogues' Gallery" in police court was put in place yesterday in headquarters room. It is 4x5 and is of quartered oak. It opens like an album and has ten wooder leaves with spaces on each page for thirty-two photographs. The blackboard, chart and measuring blocks and calipers according to the Bertillon system are partly in place and pretty soon all arrangements will be made for a complete system of taking the history of prisoners such as exists in larger cities. Only cases of felony will be re-

THREW HERSELF INTO THE RIVER

LIZZIE BERNER, WAS TEMPOR-ARILY INSANE.

She Was Employed in the Sauquoit Silk Mill and Rushed to the Lackawanna River and Threw Herself Into the Water-Joseph O'Connor of Genet Street Jumped in After Her and Succeeded in Rescuing Her-Young Woman Has No Recollection of the Rash Attempt.

Miss Lizzie Berner, of Beech street, South Scranton, an operative in the Sauquoit silk mill, while temporarily insane, yesterday attempted suicide by leaping into the Lackswanna river, near the mill. The girl is subjected to frequent fainting spells, and the heat of yesterday brought several of these attacks during the morning.

About noon-time the last one took her. She was conveyed to a room in the mill that the management has provided for emergencies of such a nature. It is a well-equipped infirmary, and the restoratives it contains were applied to Lizzie with good results. After a time she recovered and Mr. Davis, the manager, ordered his carriage to be brought to the mill gate to take the young woman to her home. One of the foreladies volunteered to accompany Lizzie.

They started to the conveyance, and at the outer door it occurred to the forelady that she had forgotten a parcel and she requested her charge to wait for her.

During her absence Lizzie's mind became deranged and she dashed out of the yard, down the embankment crossed the tracks of the Delaware and Hudson Canal company and over onto he railroad bridge of the Jersey Central road switch that spans the Lackawanna river. John O'Connor, of Genet street, a miner, was passing over the bridge at the time. His attention was attracted by the wild stare and manner of the girl and he started after her in hot pursuit.

Lizzie saw him coming and she quickened her speed. She, at the end the bridge, rushed to the bank of the stream and threw herself in headlong. O'Connor followed, and in a short time the would-be suicide was on the shore. She was unconscious and almost strangled by the water.

ures taken to expel the water from the Dr. Manley was sumoned and attended her. Later she was taken to her home. When she regained her senses she said she had no recollection of the happenings of the previous

CHARGE UNFOUNDED.

Civil Action Clears Attorney W. J. Tracey of One of the Charges of Embezzlement Against Him.

A strange case was heard yesterday before arbitrators in court, and it proved that not all of the charges against W. J. Tracey, the attorney indicted for embestzlement, are well founded. On the list of the first week of June criminal court were six cases against him. One of these, it now appears, was an unwarranted one.

The arbitration yesterday was the suit of W. J. Tracey against W. H. Campbell. Attorney George M. Watator J. C. Vaughan represented the defendant. The arbitrators were Attorneys M. F. Conry, Clarence Balentine and E. W. Thayer, and they consulted after evidence was taken and arguments heard, and found an award of $433.05 in favor of the plaintiff. The strange part of the case is that Campbell had Tracey arrested for embezzling this money, and Tracey had Campbell arrested for perjury for swearing that he embezzled it. Upon a hearing of the facts in the case three attorneys find that Tracey not only did not embezzle any of Campbell's money but that he paid him $433.05 too much.

Campbell is a blacksmith and lives in Olyphant. He began the erection of house and horrowed some money from the building and loan association represented by Tracey. The latter as the work progressed made payments on it. In settling up accounts Campbell alleged that Tracey was short and swore out a warrant.

Another strange feature of the case is that Tracey has paid out more money by nearly $500 than he should. The arbitrators were dumbfounded to think of such a thing, but the proof was placed before them. The witnesses in the case were R. A. Dainty who represented judgments held by Bittenbender & Cc. against Campbell; John Turn, of Stark & Turn, insurance men, and Al Kays, another insurance man.

LARGE AMOUNT INVOLVED. Action in Trespass Against Mount

Jessup Coal Company. The declaration was filed in Prothonotary Copeland's office yesterday in the sult of B. M. Winton, W. H. Winton, W. T. Leas, G. Mortimer Lewis and the Mount Vernon Coal company against the Mount Jessup Coal Company. It is alleged that between June 27, 1891, and June 8, 1897, the agents and employes of the defendant company trespassed within the lines of plaintiff's coal land in Winton borough and mined therefrom 50,000 tons of coal. The fair value of it per ton is fixed at $1. The laws allows treble value when property is taken by trespass. Hence the amount of the suit is $150 000.

later in the evening MR. FISCHER'S REMARKS.

Rev. Mr. Fischer, of St. John's church, Pittston, made the first address, bringing congratulations to the congregation of St. Peter's. It is the custom in some places, he said, to present pearls on the thirtieth anniversary. More than pearls, more than diamonds, better than gold is the salvation of Christ. Jewels will not avail for sin, nor will they comfort in the hour of death. To the young people he spoke earnestly as he deprecated the too prevalent fashion among many of feeling that they must apologize for being Lutherans. He besought them to show their appreciation to the thirty years of protection and progress by renewed zeal for their church and for Zion's sake not rest night nor day. Rev. Mr. Lisse, of Christ church, the South Side, spoke briefly in a congratulatory spirit reviewing the thirty years of Scranton's history when there was but one Lutheran church, where now there are seven. From the small beginning how great has been the in-Rev. Mr. von Bosse, of Harrisburg, gave a brilliant address also in German. In the course of this he spoke of the boy soldier wounded in the Civil war and near to death in the hospital Lying there unconscions, he did not when his mother entered the ward, but as her gentle hand rested upon his wrist and brow, he moved and muttered "My mother's touch." and as she spoke the tones penetrated the heavy cars almost sealed by death and he whispered "My mother's voice."

A PARALLEL CASE. From the Fatherland the sons of Germany wander far and wearily Sometimes on Sunday they come to the house of God, where again they hear the mother speech and in their hearts echoes the sound of the voice their dulled senses they hear the accents of the Father calling after His erring children "My it will guide them on their way. Love the church, your mother church, guard her well and hold fast to her precepts. The service closed with a choral. This evening Dr. Herschmann, of St. Peter's, Prooklyn, will deliver an address, which will be heard with great interest. Rev. Mr. Schinger, of Carbondale, my son!" and ever in the future will offer a congratulatory speech as will also Rev. A. L. Ramer, of St. Mark's; Rev. Mr. Lauer, of St. Paul's, and Rev. Mr. Kowala, of Emanuel's (Polish) church, all of this city. Miss l'imberman will also sing. FREE FIGHT AT BARBERTOWN.
