Midnight Search for Buried Treasure-Lecture by Hon. Amos Cummings-A Chapter on Snakes of Susquehanna and Vicinity-Adventure of a Cyclist-Various Bits of County News-Personal and Otherwise.

Special correspondence to The Tribune.

Susquehanna, July 26.-About midway between Susquehana and Great Bend, there is the remains of an old fort of the Indians, and which was an encampment occupied by them for a long time, and from which they were driven in great haste by the white who came down the river in boats. They were supposed to have buried great treasures near here at the time of the attack. Some Onondaga Indians came once from Syracuse and searched for it, and some years since a party of Mormons came from Utah and worked a month exploring the old fort. It is said that some of the writings of Joseph Smith, who translated the Book of Mormon here, gave the prospectors some information concerning the buried treasure. The Mormons found some Indian weapons, a skull of an Indian, containing a rattlesnake, and a little silver coin. Of late several mysterious men, said to hall from Brooklyn, have been digging in the old fort at night. The leader of the party recently visited a Binghamton fortune teller, who has a diamond or stone in which she claims to show many things. She told the prospector that the Indians and Mormons had discovered some treasure, but there is more near the old fort. Another Binghamton man visited the spot with a "divining rod." and upon standing upon a certain knoll the rod would turn so that it was impossible to hold it. The prospectors are confident of success. There appears to be some ground for hope, as Indians were known to have searched for the treasure themselves, but claimed that those who buried it were killed in the battle on Round Hill, which followed the retreat of the Indians from Susquehanna. there. The fortune teller claims that the treasure buried is plunder from the whites, taken near Otsego Lake, previous to the bands retreating down the Susquehanna river.

CYCLIST AND RATTLESNAKE.

There comes from historic and hilarious Great Bend the ower-too-true tale of a cyclist and a rattlesnake. While Insurance Agent Burns was on his way home from Hickory Grove, a few even ings since, riding a wheel, he suddenly discovered that he had a passenger on board. The cyclist realized that the snake's venomous mouth was in close proximity to his vital parts. Occasionally the reptile would dart its poisonous tongue in and out. The insurance man did not become rattled, yet he hardly dared dismount, but con luded that the most prudent plan was to increase his speed, and thus confuse his passenger as to the geo-graphical location of the seat of war. He rapidly increased his speed, and the wheel soon snapped the head off is snakeship, and the unwelcome pas senger went whirling into the ditch.

CARROLL SET SECOND PRIZE. Judges Render Decision on Recent

Bicycle Races. The judges of the recent bicycle races last evening sent the following communication to Professor H. J. Hockenberry:

Frof. H. J. Hockenberry. Dear Sir: The undersigned hereby render judgment on bicycle races run at Alumni park, July 19, 1898, as fol-

T. K. Lee, 11 points, first prize. Joseph Carroll,8 points, second prize. B. R. Wickwire, 6 points, third prize This decision is based solely on paragraph 8 of League of American Wheelmen, Rule 16, defining a "heat race." Yours very respectfully,

C. R. Munn, E. E. Ely. C. E. Moon

The judges did not take into consideration the merits of the men but decided according to the letter of the The rule by which they were guided reads as follows:

"In a heat race, the position of each rider must be taken at the finish of each heat. The first man shall count a number equal to that of the contestants in the first heat, the second man shall count one less, the third two less, and so on. The competitor who scores the greatest number of points shall be declared the winner."

In the race referred to the four men fell and Carroll and Lee only, finished the first heat. Wickwire finished ahead of Carroll in the second and third heats, but the points thus gained do not equal Carroll's number. If Lee had won the first heat with Carroll second, the latter would still have been second prize winner by one point, and f Wickwire had remounted in the first reat and taken third place he would have gained two points and tied Car-

JERMYN AND MAYFIELD.

For ways that are dark, and for tricks that are not always in vain, the Jermyn school board is peculiar. It will be remembered that at the organization of the board last month some very nice sleight-of-hand work was said to have been done. Now here comes something else. What it is, and what it means remains to be seen. It was said on good authority shortly before the board met to elect teachers that two resignations were, or would be in the hands of the secretary, and, of course, there would be two vacancies in the corps of teachers, but when the meeting was held only one resignation appeared, and all the old corps of teachers who applied were elected. Now it comes out that one of the teachers who were elected has, after reflecting over the matter, concluded not to teach, and will have a letter Tuesday night. It looks very much when all things connected with this matter are put together, as though there might be a large sized African or a Spaniard in the fence somewhere. We have teachers, graduates of Normal schools, whose parents pay taxes in this porough. These teachers would Mr. David Williams, of Railroad fill the positions as well as those imported from other towns.

In the trouble at the Forest house, between Attorney Walsh, A. J. Gavin and William Flannagan, Flannagan appears to be ahead. He holds the fort and probably will until an amicable settlement is made.

George Griffiths, of Dorranceton, is visiting friends in town. A large party of young people visited the natives at Camp "L. S." last evening, thence went to P. J. Lee's pavilion, where they enjoyed themselves at tripping the light fantastic. The people living near St. George's hotel on Main street had a scare yesterday afternoon. A man from above Carbondale drove up in front of the hotel and tied his horse. Shortly after he entered the hotel a trolley car came along and frightened the animal. which sprang up on the sidewalk and overturned the buggy. As the vehicle went over a large box was thrown heavily to the ground. The box contained fifty pounds of dynamite, but fortunately the shock did not explode

John W. Grant and A. F. Gebhart are aspirants for the varant place on the school board, caused by the removal of W. F. Sullivan from town.

She was the fairest, bonniest lass That mortal ever knew; The rose's blush was on her cheeks, Her eyes had caught the blue Of June-time skies; around her head Bright, golden ringlets smiled on me I felt my heart entranced.
