FLAG RAISING AT BRISBIN MINES AND SILK WORKS.

Exercises at Both Places Were Interfered With By the Rain-Mrs. John Lewis Had an Exciting Experience While Returning from Wales-Funeral of the Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Boneda. John Wethers Arrested at the Instance of His Wife.

Two flag raisings occurred Saturday and in each instance the elements came down in such abundant quantities that the exercises were curtailed. The first one was that of the employes of the Brisbin mine. The exercises attending the occasion were held at an opportunable time, so that the men employed in and about the mine were able to be present and indulge in the jubilant and inspiring event along with their many A temporary platform had been erected and from this the stirring features of the flag raising were conducted. They are related at length in another column. The flag, a handsome affair, measuring 20x36, was flung to the breeze on a pole that reached an aspiring beighth.

At the Bliss & Co. silk factory claborate preparations had been prepared for the event. The exercises had hard ly gotten under was when rain interferred. The flag was purchased by the employes of the Providence silk mill, and is a handsome one 17x18 feet. S. R. Bliss presented the staff, which is a nice fifty-three-foot, spruce pole. Rev. P. J. McManus made the presentation speech. The programme observed was: Overture Cumberland Band Raising of Flag, by Robert Taylor, of Taylor 80k Manufacturing Com-

> Many friends attended the ceremones which marked the marriage of Miss Jennie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. " an L. Lewis, to Edward Harmer, of Tannersville, Saturday evening at the residence of the bride's parents, 315 Tenth

At 8.30 o'clock, the bridal party entered the parlor and the ceremony was performed by Rev. Hugh Davies, pastor of the South Main Avenue Welsh Calvanistic Methodist church. The vedding marches were played by Mrs. Elizabeth Hellring. The bride attired in a pretty gown of cadet blue trimmed with blue satin, was attended by Miss Carrie Hellring as bridesmaid Miss Hellring were a handsome costurne of white organdie, over white Both ladies carried roses. liam Lewis, a brother of the bride, acted as groomsman.

The ceremony concluded, a reception cas held followed by the serving of a nuptial repast. Mr. and Mrs. Harmer are both well and favorably krown. Mr. Harmer formerly resided here. They will immediately begin housekeeping in a newly furnished residence at Tannersville. The guests present were: Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. David L. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Jenkins, Mr. and Mrs. John Sanford, Mrs. Elizabeth Hellring, and the Misses Carrie Hellring, Kate Williamson, Wil-Eam Lewis, David Lewis, Richard Lewis, Lewis Lewis, Thomas Williams, William Williams, and Edward Jenkins. Usually Mr. Snow, who is an nginger on the Central Railroad of New Jersey, is absent nights every other week, and this was the week. However, he had made an extra run and had been relieved about midlight. Friday. He reached home about 12.45 o'clock and retired. Owing to the extreme heat, Mr. and Mrs. Snow had made themselves comfortable on couches in the sitting room on the first door. saw no revolver and, squirming into hay window, promptly gave voice. Her husband sprang for his revoler and the fellow cleaned out. The neighbors whose windows were all open were aroused and Mrs. Adam Frounfelker, whose room is opposite the bay window of the Snow residence, fearing that the screams were the reof an uttack upon Mrs. Snow. pened her window and fired her relver to frighten the fellow. It did or he was heard scrambling hurriedly

He ran back and was soon joined by Patrolman McColligan who was only two blocks distant on Main avenue. The neighborhood was scoured but no person was found, the fellow having made good his escape. Only the week previous some fellow unconcernedly walked into the house by the rear door. Mrs. Snow was sitting up waiting for her husband, who had not come When she called, the fellow walked out. She thought it was some man who had mistaken his house. It would not be advisable for anyone to try to enter the Fraunfelker residence, as Mrs. Frounfelker though alone most f the time, her husband being a railnader, is a dead shot and absolutely tearless. If she had known the felw was outside she could easily have shot him.

SOCIAL AFFAIRS.

I tried several doctors but Mrs. Shepherd Snow-Intruder received little benefit. At last I decided to give your Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It is truly a boon to woman.

HER SOLDIER DEAD.

Mrs. Mary E. Angell, of 1026 Jackson street, received the sad intelligence Saturday that her only son was dead Tampa, Florida. Early in June she id him good-bye, as he left her to fight for his country in the ranks of the regular army, but within a few weeks is compelled to mourn his death. He was badly wounded in camp by the accidental discharge of a gun in the hands of a comrade. His left knee was so badly shattered that amputaon was necessary. The accident occurred July 23, and two days later he died from the effects of the amputation. He was buried in the cemetery at Tampa with military honors. The grave where lies this soldier is careilly marked and recorded. The communication which notified the mother was sent by Assistant Surgeon W. Reynolds, in charge of the field hospital. No more striking proof that war is hard could be found than that communication. It simply relates the fact of death, cause and burial, and asks what shall be done with the personal effects of the deceased.
