THRILLING SITUATION.

Children Painfully Injured by a Vicious Horse.
Saturday afternoon the young son of John R. Thomas was driving a horse of Tucker & Maxey's on Welsh hill. He was accompanied by some smaller children, among whom was the seven-year-old son of John Hopkins. The harness broke and the horse became unmanageable. It kicked viciously for several minutes before things could be straightened out.

When the excitement subsided it was found that the children were painfully injured. Dr. D. L. Bailey was summoned. He discovered that the little Hopkins boy had sustained a lacerated little finger, the end of which was missing, and a big hole in his knee. Thomas' injury consisted of badly bruised shins.

FLORENCE MISSION OFFICERS.

The local circle of the Florence mission has elected officers as follows: Mrs. Pierce Butler, first president; Mrs. Robert Brodie, president; Mrs. G. Place, Mrs. R. A. Sawyer, Mrs. C. E. Jepson, vice-presidents; Mrs. C. E. Brope, treasurer; Mrs. W. A. Gardner, assistant treasurer; Mrs. S. J. Secretary; Mrs. George Cross, assistant secretary. This circle reports work done in reaching a class of the churches have been unable to reach and the ladies of Carbondale would support such a work which is voluntary and requires some self-sacrifice from those who do it. All ladies are requested to attend the meetings which take place the last Friday of each month in the different churches.

WILL EXTEND THE ROAD.

The Forest City opposition to the extension of the traction company's electric road into that borough has been overcome and before snow flies the street cars will be running to the business portion of our northern neighbor and those who use the line will not have to walk a mile. The preliminaries are now well under way and it is estimated that the middle of September will see a great improvement.

OLYPHANT.
Michael Bosak's wholesale liquor store was broken into and a large quantity of liquor stolen yesterday morning. One dozen bottles of wine and liquors were taken. Not being content with that, the intruders turned on the faucets of ten barrels of whiskey and wine and allowed the contents to go to waste on the floor. They then entered the barn in the rear and stole two sets of harness and two horse blankets and the tops of several buggies were ripped with knives. Early in the morning one of the tenants in the upstairs of the building smelled the strong odor of liquor and upon investigating found that the place had been entered. Mr. Bosak had a search warrant issued and the house of Steve and John Knoch searched and under one of the pillows of one of the beds was found a bottle of wine. Officer Murray arrested the two men and they were taken before Justice of the Peace Cummings. Dave Cohn, one of the witnesses, testified that he saw Steve Knoch looking in through one of the windows at 4 o'clock. Both men were committed to the county jail.

JERMYN AND MAYFIELD.

Saturday evening about 9 o'clock the people here were startled by a low, muffled explosion, a violent trembling of their houses, a sound as of escaping steam and the sudden extinction of all electric lights. All knew at once that something had gone wrong at the powder mills. Word was soon received that a boiler had exploded, and that Benjamin Carey, one of the firemen at the powder mills, had been killed. Mr. Carey, Gomer S. Davis and Mr. Jenkins are the three firemen who alternated shifts. Mr. Carey had relieved Mr. Davis at 8 o'clock, and Mr. Jenkins had come on to relieve Mr. Carey at 9 o'clock. He had just entered the engine room, hung up his umbrella and set his dinner pail away and started across the engine room to enter the boiler room, and as he was about half way to the door the explosion occurred. Mr. Jenkins fortunately escaped with a few slight burns from the escaping steam. Mr. Carey was blown about fifty feet, every shred of clothing, except his shoes, were blown from his body. His body was severely burned, and a large shrapnel cut in his head. Death, evidently, was instantaneous. Mr. Carey is said to have been a very careful man, and the cause of the explosion will probably never be known. He leaves a widow and seven daughters, some of whom are married, to mourn his loss. There were two very large boilers of the direct flow, locomotive type, set north and south, the one that exploded was on the east side of the boiler room. It was thrown in a northerly course about one hundred feet and ended directly over, and the fire box and other parts were thrown in a southeasterly course, about the same distance, and part of the fire box was thrown into the street. The boiler was built of brick and is a total wreck and the remaining boiler was blown from its settings. The boilers were used to furnish power for the powder mills, also to furnish power for the electric light plant. It will require some time to get the plant in operation again, and Jermyn and Mayfield will be in darkness until it is started. Superintendent Hutchings informs us that the work will be pushed as fast as men and means can push it, and the plant gotten in operation as soon as it is possible to have it done.

Deputy Coroner Pennybacker visited the scene of the accident and permitted Undertaker Carey to take charge of the body. Carey had been in the employ of the company many years and was considered a competent employee and a good mechanic. He is survived by a wife and the following children: Mrs. Herman Kiefer, of Simpson; Mrs. William Hackett, of Peckville; Mrs. Ella Lutey and Anna, Vera and Harold Carey.

Until repairs are made the borough of Jermyn will be in darkness unless the company arranges to connect its lines with those of nearby towns.

William E. Davis is visiting friends in Wilkes-Barre.

Misses Louise Moon and Hilda Swick returned Saturday after having spent a week with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Moon, of Amasa.
