SAME OLD TROUBLE.

Constable Moran took four men to Honesdale yesterday for hearings before Justice Smith, who issued war-rants charging them with fishing in No. 4 reservoir contrary to the law protecting the water supply of com-munities. The men are William Gordon, John Doyle, William Jones and Thomas Walsh. The company officials say that they will push the case to the extreme, as they have been much annoyed of late by persons who insist on fishing in the reservoir. The law holds the company responsible if they do not protect the drinking water, and the officials say they will make examples of the cases now in hand.

LOCATED IN THIS CITY.

Miss Grayce Briggs has taken rooms with Mrs. J. G. Shepherd, on Salem avenue, and will make this city her permanent residing place. She is one of the trained nurses who graduated at the Carbondale hospital. Subsequently she took a course at a Philadelphia maternity hospital. Her charming personality makes her a welcome acquisition to Carbondale's professional and social circles.

EIGHT TREES SACRIFICED.

Eight beautiful trees of Memorial park have been sacrificed to pernicious insects which Park Commissioner Alexander says the gardener has fought faithfully for six years. Fortunately the trees affected beyond redemption were not the handsome maples, the dense foliage of which remains to rethe appearance of the little beauty spot.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

A wedding that is of more than usua interest in this city was that of Gerrit P. Rogers to Miss Carrie Helms, which occurred at noon yesterday. The ceremony was performed at precisely 12 o'clock in St. Luke's hurch, Scranton. Rev. M. B. Nash officiated. There were about three hundred invitations sent out and the ceremony was witnessed by a large number of friends After the nuptial knot was tied Mr. and Mrs. Rogers left for an extended wedding trip that will embrace New York, Boston, Newport and other points of interest. They will be gone about three weeks. On their return they will take up their residence at No. 20 Sixth avenue. They will be at home to their friends on Sept. 1. William Loftus, of Company E, is

A large number of voters of this borough are summoned to Scranton for tomorrow to testify in the Kelly-Langstaff election contest.

Besides possessing an intimate acquaintance with the intricacles of law. there are few men in this part of the state who have a more thorough knowledge of the details of navigation than our esteemed and well-known townsman, Justice of the Peace Gildea. There is nothing connected with that branch of activity that the 'Squire cannot discuss intelligently, and during the war now happily ending he has been looked upon as standard authority on questions relating to seamanship. All this comes from the 'squire's personal experience as one of the men "who go down to the sea in ships." His early years were spent before the mast, and he still has a lingering affection for matters relating to the sea. Recently he put his knowledge to a practical test by building a schooner which is now complete and ready to soil. Every mast, tackle and spar is reproduced in the model just as perfeetly as they are in the original, and it is fully as seaworthy. The keel is weighted with a sheet of lead, the masts are properly set and every detail is arranged with the greatest care. The squire has spent his spare time at the work for a long time past, and he now has a vessel he may point to with pride. It is his intention to present it to the young son of his friend, John J. Simpson, of Carbondale, and it is quite South Main street, are sojourning at likely that it will soon "walk the water Atlantic City." on the bosom of Crystal Lake. The ship has been on exhibition at Mr. Gildea's home for ome time, and it has been seen and admired by many of his friends. The current number of the Amerian Duggist contains a short story from the pen of our talented young townsman, John A. Foote, that has inland town, while those on the coast much favorable criticism. It is had scores of them. appreciated as much by the publishers as by the public was evident from the all imaginable occasions. Laborers generous remitance he received for it. Mr. Foote has also writen a story for the Rosary Magazine, which will appear in an early number. Mr. Foote's name is already familiar to the readers of The Tribune as the writer of the prize story, "The Last of the Druids." which appeared in its columns two years ago. It is gratifying to know that Mr. Foote's remarkable talent is being appreciated.

At St. Mary's church excursion on Aug. 23 there will be a drawing for a first-class Victor bicycle at 10 cents a chance. Since but few excursions have left here this season to Lake Ariel, this promises to be one of the largest outings the congregation have had in several years. The Moosic Populars went to Lake Ariel on Wednesday to meet the Honesdale team. An interesting game was expected, but owing to the unfairness of the umpire selected by the Honesdale manager it became evident that the Populars were not going to win. However, to procure the guarantee they remained in the field to finish a tiresome game. Score, 12 to 1.

The residents of this town are high y incensed over the manner in which they are treated by the Traction company. There are three cars plying between Pittston and Moosic and only one of these is an open car. The Avoca people are generally crowded out of this one, as the seats are occupied by the time it reaches the town. The two closed cars are dirty looking machines, fit only for firewood, and the sooner they make this disposition of them the better it will suit the people

The Standard Electric, Heat, Light and Power company met in Avoca yesterday. Ex-Congressman Jordan, of Tunkhannock, was chosen president. The directors are A. H. Squiers, E. T. Squiers, Frank Tergler and Leon Schrager.

STIFF DRINKERS, PURITANS.

Their Distrust of Water and Predilection for Medford Rum. From the Independent

Our Puritan ancestors hardly imagined that water was either a healthful or a sufficient beverage, if we may judge from some paragraphs in their letters and diaries. Governor Brad-ford bitterly complains of the hard-ship of having to drink water, as no beer or wine was to be had. In 1629 an appeal was sent to the Home company for "ministers," a "patent under seale that their legal status as colonists might be clear and stable; and also they want "vyne plantes," wheat, rye, barley, and also "hop rootes." When the answer to this appeal was sent by a ship that was provisioned for three months, it carried "forty-five turns of beere," "two casks of Malega and Ca-narie," "twenty gallons of aqua vitoe (brandy), and for cooking, drinking and all only six tuns of water? The Rev. Mr. Higginson, the first minister, in writing back a glowing account of the attractions of the country, said his health had been benefitted by the fine air; and he added: "Whereas my stomach could only digest and did require such drinks as were both strong and stale, now I can and doe oftentimes drinke New England water verie well." One Wood wrote in the New England's Prospect that the country was well watered, and with a water unlike that to be found in England; "Not so sharpe, of a fatty substance and of more jetty color. It is thought that there can be no better water in the world, yet dare I not prefer it to good Beere, as some have done. Those that drink it be as healthful, fresh and luctis as they that drink beere.

Those hop roots must have flour ished, for as early as 1631 the people of the colony had passed a law for putting drunkards in the stocks, and brewhouses multiplied, and an "ale quart of beere" could be bought for a penny. The manufacture of other drinks developed rapidly. Fifty years later, Judge Sewall names ale, beer, mead, metheglin, cider, wine, sillabub claret, sack canary, punch, sack-pos set, and black cherry brandy. Everybody drank eider, which was produced on every farm in aboudance. Besides these there was "beveridge" "swizzle" made from molasses and water, and many kinds of beer; but the grand and universal drink was rum. Ships took corn, pork and lum ber to the West Indies and brought and "punch" were made and drunk or would not work at the harvest, nor builders at he trades, without a liberal allowance of rum. Large quantities of liquor were consumed when a minister was to be ordained, as it witnessed in many of the parish records still extant. The following record is that of the town of Beverly, Mass., at an ordination in 1758;

30 Bowles Puncyh before they went

so people eating in the morning

10 bottles of wine before they went to meeting . 68 dinners at 804 and six people drank tea ...... 0 Even at a raising of a meeting house large stores of intoxicants must be laid When the meeting house in Medfield, Mass., was raised there was pro-vided four barrels beer, twenty-four callons West Indian rum, thirty gallons New England rum, thirty-five pounds loaf sugar, twenty-five pounds brown sugar, and 465 lemons. When, a century ago, General Washington was engaging a gardener, it was explicitly stated in the contract that he should have Four dollars at Christmas, with which he may be drunk for four days and four nights; two dollars at Easter for the same purpose; two dollars at Whitsun-tide, to be drunk for two days; a dram in the morning, and a drink of grog at Every tavern displayed many decanters of liquor to be drunk with all meals, free, and the flip-iron was kept onstantly heated in the tavern fire: he sideboard of every private family had a various assortment of liquors, and not to ask a caller to drink was a breach of hospitality; in short, temperance sentiment, as we now know it, did not exist.

EMPRESS TAITOU.

Some Idiosyncrasies of Abyssinia's Rather Remarkable Queen.

From the London Standard,

There is no European queen consort filling a more dignified station than the Empress Taitou of Abyssinia, She has a large household of her own, her lord stewards, chamberlains, butlers, cooks and guards. She directs all the grand feasts, has immense appanages all over the empire, and resources in kind. She leads a sedentary life because there are no interesting promenades, but when she shows herself in publis she is surrounded with ladies, nounted on richly-harnessed mules, with runners, umbrella-bearers and other attendants. The umbrellas are

f many colors, but Taitou's is red, The empress is a stickler for etiquette, to which Menelck attaches no importance. Nobody who has not been formally presented to her must gaze on her even within the precincts of the palace. She has a large kitchen gar-den, which is one of her many delights but the moment the brella appears the gardeners must retire. All the servants stand aloof with downcast eyes as she walks by. Not taking much exercise, Taitou is lost in fat. Nevertheless, her presence is dignified. She is wonderfully well informed, converses cleverly, and can be charming. Her letters are well written, and in a bright, natural style, They might put to shame those many a well-educated European lady. The dress of the empress is only distinguished from that of her ladies by its impeccable cleanliness and neat-
