COMMON COUNCIL BALKED.

Couldn't Get Paving Resolution from the City Clerk.

Another interested group assembled in the common council chamber last evening to witness action on the recently illegally laid paving contract. The commoners were anxious to get at the matter, but the resolution was locked up in the city clerk's desk and the official was absent. On motion the janitor was made messenger boy and instructed to go out and hunt up Mr. Clifford. The latter was soon at council's service.

"Mr. Chairman, I'm told you wish to speak to me," he said soon after entering. The purpose of his presence was explained to him and he stated that the mayor's veto of the resolution had been received by select council, which deferred action thereon that it might be taken up in joint session; that it was the property of the upper house and could not properly come before the lower body and that the mayor thought the better way was to have council act jointly. He also said notices had been sent out for a meeting of select council Wednesday night with a view to a joint session.

City Solicitor Watrous was asked for an opinion and he gave it as his best judgment that the commoners have no right to the papers. He said the law of 1889 requires that a veto be returned to the branch that originated the measure and by a similar process of reasoning a resolution originating in joint session should be returned to a joint session.

That settled the matter and Attorney John M. Harris, of Scranton, who had been waiting for an opportunity to pour forth his eloquence in the interest of Blair & Kennedy, left for the depot without delay. In less than a minute all auditors left the room.

The Leader's bill, reduced from $115.50 to $100, was adopted. The ordinance establishing grade on Ninth avenue was passed finally. Ordinances appropriating $35 monthly for maintenance of each hose company and fixing wages for street department laborers were referred to committee.

Eastern avenue property owners were granted permission to build a sewer at their own expense.

A resolution authorizing solicitor to draft ordinance for the issuance of $4,000 bonds for widening North Church street and building bridge over No. 1 plane was adopted.

A resolution that fire chief place five fire hydrants, on hand, under direction of committee was adopted and council adjourned to meet Wednesday evening.

Patrick and Michael Quinn, sons of M. J. Quinn, who died Friday of typhoid fever, have been taken to the hospital. They are suffering from typhoid, as are also their sisters, Jennie and Mary. TRAVEL PAR EXCELLENCE.

"Westward the course of empire takes its way," and with it the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern railway. And, just as the United States ranks ahead of all other nations in civilization, so does the L. S. & M. S. railway overtop all other railroads in America.

By direct communication at Buffalo with the New York Central and the Boston and Albany railroads, the Lake Shore road extends from the far east to the limits of the west, southwest and north-west, connecting again with other railroads for these latter points at Cleveland, Toledo and Chicago.

It is the speediest railroad in America. Passengers will save time as well as gain comfort if they travel over the Lake Shore.
