LAYING JF CAPITOL CORNER STONE

INTER,STING EXERCISES AT HARRISBURG YESTERDAY.

Gravid Lodge of Masons of Pennsylania in Charge of the Ceremonies. Speeches by Colonel A. K. McClure and Governor Hastings-Heavy Rain Did Not Dampen the Enthu-

Harrisburg, Aug. 10.-The laying of the corner stone of the new capitol took place at noon today in the presence of a large gathering. The grand lodge of Masons of Pennsylvania were in charge and some of the most distinguished men of the state were present to honor the occasion. A heavy rain fell during the ceremony and yet it did not dampen the ardor of those who took part. The corner stone is that used in the historic capitol destroyed by fire in February, 1897. The guests of the capitol building commission included state officials, judges of the supreme and superior courts and members of the legislature.

At the close of the coremonles a collation was served in the supreme court chamber, Colonel A. K. McClure, of Philadelphia, who delivered the oration at the laying of the stone, was entertained at luncheon this afternoon by Governor Hastings at the executive mansion

The act authorizing the erection of the new capitol directs that it shall be completed in time for use by the next legislature. The building will be of plain, ordinary red brick and will be so constructed that it may be faced with marble. It will be so built that wings may be attached at any time for the use of the various departments of state. The original appropriation for the building is $550,000, but it is estimated that it will cost ten times this amount before it is completed. The present department of internal affairs buildings and the old executive building will eventually be removed to make room for the departmental wngs. GOVERNOR HASTINGS' SPEECH.

The ceremonies were conducted on a large stand at the northeast corner of the proposed capitol. At the close of the Masonic exercises Governor Daniel Hartman Hastings introduced Colonel McClure. Concluding the governor

The first session was held at Harrisburg December 3, 1812, on which occasion Gov-ernor Snyder in his annual message al-luded to the declaration of war by congress in language which may be appropriately quoted today, "the sword of the nation," he said, "which for thirty years has been rusting in its scabbard has been drawn to maintain that independence which it had gloriously achieved."

which it had gloriously achieved."

The commission appointed by the legislature to superintend the construction of the capitol proceeded to arrange for the erection of a proper building upon these grounds which had been set apart and appropriated for state purposes as early as 1784. Stephen Hills, an architect from Boston, exhibited plans which were adopted by the commissioners, and at 12 o'clock, noon, Monday, May 31, 1815, the adopted by the commissioners, and at 12 o'clock, noon, Monday, May 31, 1819, the corner stone of the capitol was laid by Governor Findlay. The cost of the entire building, including the arsenal, the encipsure and embellishment of the public grounds was $275,000. The main capitol building cost $135,000. The building was completed in December, 1821, and on Wednesday, the 2d of January, 1822, it was nesday, the 2d of January, 1822, it was dedicated for the use by the legislature with imposing ceremonies. The holiest spot in America is our old state ouse-Independence hall-ard the nobles emblem of national existence is that in-spiration of a Pennsylvania woman now loating in triumph in Santiago, Porto Rico and Manila, as well as at Washing-No American war lacked for soldiers from Pennsylvania; no story of battle on sea or on land, where opportunity was given, failed to record the borsism of the Pennsylvania soldier and sailor. In the present struggle, Pennsylvania was first again, as in the war of the Rebellion, to place her sons in the field and say to the president of the United States that Pennsylvania's soldiers were ready or his commands.

But we prize the highest and hold most But we prize the highest and hold most sacred those qualities of our citizenship which insure contentment and happiness in pursuing the avocations which belong to peaceful industry, frugality and de-mestic comfort; which inculcate love of home and family; purity of purpose, in-dividual energy and honorable ambition recognition of duty to neighbor and the charity taught by the apostles. These elements in the character of our statehood have made us a peaceful, prosper-ous and homogeneous people. We have unlocked and wisely utilized the wealth which has been stored in the lap of Pennsylvania; we have established the American home, we have developed and fostered the American school; we maintain the church of our individual choice; and today our wives and daughters are busy with deft fingers and anxious minds in providing for the comfort of husband and brother serving in our army and Pennsylvania, in accord with her sister states, feels the thrill of national pride enkindled by the war now happily nearing its close, which has so closely united all sections of our country in a common national purpose and patriotism. We feel the uplift of mutual confidence in the safety, strength and glory of our institutions when tried in the crucible of pational peril. We are now more than ever united in the wisdom of the determina-tion that the blessings which we enjoy shall be extended as a sheltering hand to those who are our neighbors and who live under the shadow of our flag and deserve its protection. Our pride and con-fidence in, and our admiration for, the army and navy of the United States and the commander-in-chief of both is exalt-ed in contemplation of the growing respect in which they are now held by the other nations of the earth, and we are thankful to Almighty God that the angel peace is hovering over our land.

Many of Pennsylvania's noblest figures and ablest statesmen and patriots have here served their constituencies. They charmed by their rhetoric and guided by their wisdom the people of this great commenwealth. Among the ablest and most eloquent of them all is your orator of the day, whom I now take pleasure in presenting to you, Colonel Alexander K.

COL. M'CLURE'S REMARKS, Colonel McClure's speech concluded

the ceremonies. It follows:

Citizens of Pennsylvania: I come to peak of our commonwealth, an empire by courtesy called a state on this occa-sion of laying the corner-stone of the Temple of our Laws. Nearly four score years ago—on the 31st of May. $19—a like imposing ceremony was had need in kying the correr-stone of the old capitol, which Governor Finley presided. ylvania was then, as now, the second state of the Union in population, but the contract of the grand old commonwealth of today with the commonwealth of four score years ago, tells a story of liberal and enlightened progress that has no parallel in the history of any of her sister

There was then not a single steamship on any of the seas of the world. There was not a train of cars drawn by a lecture of the world. The magnetic telegraph was undreamed of, and even a quarter of a century later Professor Morse was shunned as a fretting crank by the lawmakers of the patter. the lawmakers of the nation. There was not a state west of the Father of Waters, save part of the newly acquired Louisiana with a people largely alien to our language, our laws and our interests. present golden Pacific slopes were then sparsely settled by the semi-barbarian and ruled by a foreign power. The now fertile plains between Missouri and the Rocky Mountains were marked upon our chool maps as the Great American Des-

Its of our state or in any other state of the Union. Water navigation by the con-struction of canals had just been initiated. ut without any conception of using then as great arteries of trade. Anthracite coal was unknown as an article of commerce, and our vast and only bed of this price ess product was slumbering without even easonable prospect of development. Colleges were so few as to be regarded as luxuries beyond the reach of a vast ma-jority of those who sought a classical education. Our free school system, now the most beneficent in any community in he world, was then unthought of the normal school had not come within the range of the most inventive imagina-Our population then did not exceed a million, and the dusky Aborigines yet remained with their wigwams as strangers at our gates; and yet Pennsylvania was then, as she has ever been, oremost in every attribute of the public and private progress of the age.

RAPID DEVELOPMENT.

Look at Pennsylvania today. A population of nearly six millions is clustered within our confires, and there is no other states or country of like population that equals us in the average intelligence of ur people and in general thrift and conent. From the first experimental tramfew years after the laying of the cor ner-stone of the old capitol, we have ad-vanced in railways until the rude song of the iron horse is heard in every valley and on every hilltop of the common-wealth and traverses nearly 10,000 miles of track within our borders. Our free educational system is unapproached by any other state or country of any clime. We today appropriate annually for the education of the youth of the state more than double the amount of the gross rev-enues of four score years ago. Collected enues of four score years ago. Colleces have been multiplied until every section of the state is abundantly supplied. The normal school provides an ample corps of competent teachers for the publis of our schools, and the crossroad from the Delaware to Lake Eric has its free school for every class, condition and race. The anthracite coal trade that score years ago was confined to the occa-sional adventurous shipping of an ark from Schuylkill to Philadelphia, has now with a value to the producer of nearly $70,000,000.

and long protracted struggle for our in-dependence, to find the grandest records of patriotism for our people. Every section of the state now points to its own heroes of the war of 1812 and of the Mexi-can war, and in the great struggle for the maintenance of the Republic, when rebellion struggled through four years of bloody warfare to overthrow it. Pennsylvania stands out single and alone in achievemnt, alike in field, in forum and n civil authority.

PENNSYLVANIA IN WAR.

It was a Pennsylvania executive who, when the dark cloud of fraternal war burst upon us and the hot shot of the Confederate batteries fell in Fort Sum-ter, was compelled to speak with official authority to define the relations of the states to each other and to the Federal government. Then had to be given, on the spur of the moment for definite action and for final arbitrament by the sword, the solution of an issue that had vexed the founders of the Republic and divided its ablest statesman for more than three-quarters of a century, and those who will turn to the momentous

THE MARKETS. THE TRIBUNE'S OPPORTUNITY BUREAU

Wall Street Review.

New York, Aug. 10 .- On the stock exchange today the news from Washington that a protocol had been agreed upon between Secretary Day and M. Cambon for the negotiation of a treaty of peace awakened the market into renewed activity after a period of comparative duliness and some recession in prices, and carried it to the highest point of the day, holding it within a small fraction of that point until the close. The St. Paul statement showed a decided increase in earnings and consequently the grangers lead in the day's movement, Burlington showing an extreme rise of 21/2 per cent. and St. Paul of 2 per cent. A continued large demand for People's gas also helped the morning movement. In the afternoon spurt prices were sustained by the very heavy demand for Atchison preferred and there was some realizing in the grangers under cover of this movement. But the close was strong especially near the top, a net gain generally of between one and two points. The total sales were 457, 400 shares.
