FLAG RAISED ON PROVIDENCE FARM OF THE D. & H. CO.

An Immuse Field of Color Purchased By Employes of the 14-foot Vein of the Second Marvine Opening. Bliss Silk Mill Employes Have an Entertainment and Social-Funeral of Thomas Jones Tomorrow-Nubs of News and Personals.

One hundred and thirty feet above the ground and on the highest point on the Providence farm owned by the Delaware and Hudson company, can be seen floating a beautiful flag 20x36 feet in size. It was placed there Saturday evening about 6 o'clock, many hundreds of persons being present to witness the patriotic ceremony.

Several weeks age the employes of the 14-foot vein of the second opening of the Marvine shaft, owned and operated by the Delaware and Hudson company, decided to have a flag raising. The matter was placed in the hands of Inside Foreman Edward F. McGlynn and his assistant, Pobert G. Proudlock. The pole, the longest of its kind hereabouts, was secured and erected and the beautiful flag, purchased by subscription among the workmen was duly unfurled.

Superintendent Finlay Ress did the unfurling and a royal salute was fire I from a cannon in charge of Joseph The "Star Spangled Banner" was rendered by the Citizens' Cornet band of North Scranton. Later an address was made by Cornelius Smith. He spoke in an eloquent strain upon the two kinds of patrictism, war and peace patriotism.

The band played another selection and the exercises were brought to a close by the reading of a set of resolutions by Edward T. Saunders, in behalf of the workmen of the 14-foot The resolutions spoke of the war, of those who had gone from the Marvine shaft, of the purpose of the flag raising, and tendered the thanks of the workmen to Cornelius Smith and the band. They were heartily endorsed by all present.

SILK MILL EMPLOYES.

Over two hundred employes of the Bliss Silk mi'l enjoyed an entertainment and social tendered them by their employer, Valentine Bliss, overseer and superintendent of the factory, in St. Mary's hall, Saturday evening. This is an annual occurrence instituted by the company which it is intended to continue each year.

The event Saturday evening was one of infinite pleasure for all present and emphasizes the congenial will existing between the employes and the company. The programme rendered Saturday was characterized by exceptionally fine amusement and was thoroughly enjoyed. After the entertainment the guests sat down to tables which extended the fall length of the hall, and partook of the delectable refreshments served. Toasts were given in which Mr. Bliss was heartily thanked. The programme was as follows: Recitation, Miss Flossie Banfield; duct, Morgan sisters, recitation, May Simms; instrumental duct, Woolsey and Rhodda; recitation, May Simms; dance, Louise Morgan: recitation.
