FARMER AND HUCKSTER AT IT.

Assaulted the Prosecutor, His Wife and His High Horse.

If a newsworthy hadn't jumped on behind Farmer A. H. Rodney's big wagon to steal a ride last Saturday afternoon on North Washington avenue Patrick Reilly, of the Nineteenth ward, would have been under $500 bail to answer two charges of assault and battery. It was like this. Farmer Rodney and his wife were headed for their home in Elmhurst contentedly riding their hay-rigging and enjoying a luscious cantelope which was purchased with part of the proceeds of the load of hay. Near the jail a newsworthy ran after the wagon and jumping on behind proceeded to enjoy a ride. When the farmer discovered him he did not do as many an unthinking farmer has done, order the boy off in a rough voice. Instead he said: "Come up here sonny," and when sonny came up, gave him a large slice of melon.

Now all this time the horses were jogging along at a lively pace and second by second reducing the distance between themselves and Mr. Reilly's huckster wagon which was standing crosswise in the street. As ill luck would have it Farmer Rodney paused too long in contemplation of the newsworthy's satisfaction and a collision occurred. Everybody has seen and heard what happens when two wagons collide. Anyway it wouldn't look well in print. But to get to the climax. According to the former's story Reilly assaulted him with two large stones, threw his wife violently against the side of the hay-rigging and then in pure cussedness kicked his right horse in the belly inflicting so severely that it is a veterinary's hospital with little chance of ever getting out except in one of Hewitt's wagons. Alderman Miller thought that Farmer Rodney's story was worthy of credence and that Huckster Reilly was guilty of a serious breach of the peace and despite the latter's affirmations that the farmer was the aggressor held him in ball for court.

LIVE NEWS OF WEST SCRANTON

BAPTIST YOUNG PEOPLE HOLD AN INTERESTING MEETING.

Union of First Welsh Church Is Addressed by Rev. J. W. Williams, of Swansea, Wales, a Former Pastor—Well-Known West Side Singers—Will Be Heard at Nay Aug Park Tomorrow—Harry Mott Will Go to State College for a Four-Year Course of Study.

There was a large attendance at the regular weekly meeting of Young People's Baptist union in the lecture room of the First Welsh Baptist church, on South Main avenue last evening. Luther Lewis was the chairman of the evening.

The programme was opened by a chorus and solo, by John Evans. It was finely rendered and merited much applause. A feature of the exercise was the excellent paper on "The Cause of the Late War," by Miss Lizzie Hughes. It was a splendidly prepared paper and met with the hearty approval of her hearers.

Miss Eliza Lewis gave a solo which was heartily appreciated. Thomas Davis recited, William Hughes sang and the programme closed with remarks by Rev. Dr. J. W. Williams, of Swansea, Wales. The speaker urged the members to keep up the good work which has been accomplished and which has benefited them both socially and intellectually.

Dr. Williams organized the society about seven years ago when he was pastor of the church, and it has grown until it is one of the largest literary societies on this side.

SCRANTON STREET CHURCH.

The pastor Rev. S. F. Matthews has returned from his vacation spent in the Alleghenies, and will preach tomorrow morning. He will also speak in the evening on the subject "Vacation Experiences." The church has raised $400 this year in payment on the bonded debt, making $1,300 besides interest on the same during the present pastorate. Slowly but surely the church is pulling itself up to better things. The industrial school, which is being built will open in the fall under the continued efficient leadership of Miss Anna Morgan. The prayer meetings are all well attended and always very interesting.

OPEN AIR CONCERT.

The following programme will be rendered tonight by Bauer's band at the open air concert to be given in the vacant lot opposite Clarke Brothers' store:

- March, "Tropic to Tropic".....Alexander Overture, "Gradella".....Florinda Selection, "Wizard of the North".....Herbert Brass Quartette, "Sweet and Low".....by Messrs. Bauer, Miles, Wilberose and Moore. Overture, "Zempele".....Herbert Wedding Overture, "Lovers and a Night in New York".....Beyer Dance of Goblins, descriptive.....Ricker Selection, "Blue and Gray".....Freat Patrol, "Bliss and Grief".....Miller March, "Pinesch Gas".....Miller "Star Spangled Banner."

ALDERMAN RUDDY SHOWS HE CAN RUN HIS OWN COURT.

Patrick Murray and William Corbett Thought Differently, But After a Personal Encounter Are Badly Worsted and Are Led Away to Jail—Constable McMurray, of the Twentieth Ward, Is Under Bail on the Charge of Conspiracy.

If there are any people who entertain a desire to run things in Alderman Ruddy's court it would be well for them to paste in their hats the result of the attempts of Patrick Murray and William Corbett, of the twentieth ward, who today will commence to serve a twenty-day term in the county jail. Murray and Corbett went to Alderman Ruddy's office last night during the progress of a hearing. A friend of theirs was the defendant on the charge of conspiracy. Details of the hearing were not to their liking, and in no mild manner they made known their objections. The alderman, in a patient manner, endeavored to have the men maintain order, but to no avail. Finally Murray, who was the most boisterous, was fined $2 for disorderly conduct. He refused to pay the amount, and a commitment was made out for his incarceration in jail for ten days.

Special Officer Raune, with the prisoner, followed the charge of being a constable following a short distance behind. At the Scranton Brewing company's plant, Corbett walked up to the officer and prisoner asking the former to stop for a minute. As Raune turned around both men tried to give him "the foot." Ruddy, who was somewhat suspicious, retained his hold on Murray and caught Corbett by the neck. He took both back to the alderman's office, stating he needed assistance.

The commitment was changed, Murray and Corbett being sentenced to five fine each or twenty days in jail. The announcement of that fact caused a free-for-all fight, in which the prisoners were badly used. Alderman Ruddy making good use of his sparring ability. He landed an uppercut on Corbett that sent him against a stove with such force that the latter was knocked from his bearings. A deep gash was made in Corbett's head by his sudden meeting with the stove.

DUNMORE.

George Kellam, of Grove street, was tendered a pleasant surprise party by a number of his young friends last night. Those present were Misses Eliza Van Camp, Estelle Winters, Minnie Saxton, Florence Weber, Lucy Wildes, Jennie Davis, May and Gertrude Hughes, Sadie Miller, Daisy Dawson, Edna and Dorothea Kellam, and Messrs. Peter Seigle, William Sydel, James Johnson, Albin Reese, Harry Belknap, James Davidson, Matthew Jeffrey, David Shepherd, Harold Davis, Clyde Cornell, Charles Luton, John Byrne, Henry Turnbull and Charles Wildes.

CONSTABLE ARRESTED.

Alderman Ruddy issued a warrant for Michael McMurray, constable of his ward, on the charge of being a party in a conspiracy to ruin the standing of Michael Deritt, of Pear street.

It is alleged that McMurray and Richard Fleming conspired against Deritt by having him arrested on the charge of perjury. The latter's allegations on the ground that Deritt qualified as bondsman in Alderman Ruddy's court swearing he was a property owner. Fleming said "Deritt is not worth a pipe full of tobacco," since in 1897 he was arrested on a charge of perjury which was furnished. Fleming, who was arrested Thursday night, entered bail in the same amount, as noted in yesterday's Tribune.

MISS LAMBERT SURPRISED.

Miss Mame Lambert was given a surprise reception at her home, 413 Willow street, last night, by a number of her intimate friends. Miss Lambert returned from the charge of being a party in a conspiracy to ruin the standing of Michael Deritt, of Pear street. Those in attendance were: Mrs. Emily Gaughan, Misses Frances Kressell, Jennie, Mamie and Agnes Schantz, Bridget and Ella Shiner, Katie and Lizzie Phillips, Kate Miller, Julia Cusky, Annie and Nellie Bellin, Emma Luther, Phoebe Greiner and Annie Eipus; Arnold and Michael Ruth, B. Fuhrer, Joseph Lange, Fred Hellerman, Joseph Heitler, Charles Kellar, Fred Christ, Peter Eipus, Fred Seelye, A. C. Kellar, Jacob Heip and Fred Heintz.

FAMILY AT ODDS.

Michael and Joseph Duffey will be called on today to answer the charge of assault and battery by Ann Duffey, wife and mother respectively, of the men. In the information given before the alderman Mrs. Duffey stated that her husband and Joseph Duffey had been and put her out of the house. She is now living with her sister on Cedar avenue. The warrants will be served this morning.

NUBS OF NEWS.

The annual picnic of St. John's T. A. B. society will be held this afternoon and evening and Laurel Hill Park. Arrangements have been made for an enjoyable time. Thomas Hughes was committed to the county jail yesterday for thirty days by Alderman Donovan for drunkenness and disorderly conduct. Mrs. A. Taylor, of Plattburgh, N. Y., is the guest of Mrs. Thomas Griffiths, of Stone avenue. Charles Hornbaker left yesterday for Lake Hopatcong. Misses Nellie O'Malley and Mary Donahoe, of Stone avenue, returned from Pittston accompanied by Miss Helen Keating, of that city, who will be their guest for several days. The funeral of Helen, the infant daughter of Martin Mervick, of Prospect avenue occurred yesterday afternoon. Interment was made in the Cathedral cemetery. St. Aloysius T. A. B. society at a recent meeting decided to attend the Father Mathew birthday celebration at Wilkes-Barre, October 10, when the Catholic Total Abstinence Union of the audience shirked, and when he came off from his first selection they demanded his reappearance. He obliged them to howls of laughter; again he made his exit, and again was redeemed by the uproarious audience. Believing he had made a hit, he was about to return to the stage when he was caught by the arm by Mrs. Nye, who cried: "William Edgar Nye, what have you got on your face?" "Nothing but its usual expression, my dear." "Expression—fiddlesticks! You're a fright," cried his wife, and leading him to where there was a piece of broken looking-glass showed him how he looked. Nye was mortified, and catching sight of Riley just about going on the stage he would have undoubtedly followed him on and been reeveged but for the intervention of Mrs. Nye. His head was scraped, combed and washed, and his next selection was read without "a hand" from the audience.

DALTON.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Ives spent last Tuesday at Harveys lake. Mrs. Angrave and Miss Bannatyne, of Waterbury, Conn., spent Sunday and Monday at the home of Rev. J. B. Santos. Tuesday evening a very interesting lecture was given by a native Japanese, in the Methodist church. Mr. Sam S. Shoemaker started last Friday for a two weeks trip on his wheel. He will visit New York and other cities. Mrs. Jacobs, of Newton, passed through town Thursday. Miss Helen Santos, who has been spending several weeks with friends and about Wyalusing, returns home today.

OBITUARY.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey R. Long, of 302 Capouse avenue, suffered the loss of their only son, Harry Long, who died yesterday morning, age four months. The boy was taken ill a week ago with a cholera infantum which caused death at 4 o'clock yesterday morning. The funeral will be held this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock and will be private. Interment will be made in Forest Hill cemetery. Mrs. John Evans died at her home, 739 Orchard street, South Scranton, yesterday. She was 35 years of age, and is survived by her husband and two sons. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon with services at the home. Interment will be made in the Washburn street cemetery. Dr. E. P. McLean, a former resident of this city, died Thursday at Stamford, Conn.

WHY NYE MADE A HIT.

Quaint Story Told by His Former Lecturing Partner. From the Detroit Free Press. James Whitcomb Riley tells a quaint story of his former lecturing partner, Bill Nye.

It was the opening of their joint season; they had both been rusticated during the vacation and were brown as berries. Nye looked very much like an Othello in his sun-burnt make-up, and Riley suggested to him the application of some "liquid-white," cosmetic much affected by the gentler sex of the profession.

Nye sent for the preparation, and never having used anything of the kind before he filled the palm of his hand with it and carelessly smeared it over his countenance. There was no mirror in his primitive dressing room, and Riley was beautifying himself on the other side of the stage.

The "liquid-white" dries out somewhat like whitewash, and when Nye appeared before the audience he was a sight to behold. His head looked like a frosted top-piece on a wedding cake; his face, white as the driven snow, was expressionless and blank. The audience shrieked, and when he came off from his first selection they demanded his reappearance. He obliged them to howls of laughter; again he made his exit, and again was redeemed by the uproarious audience.

Now, as Tobias had a stable monopoly, this limited range of preference passed into the adage of "Hobson's choice," and has been doing steady duty in the world of maxims these 250 years. Tobias, rest his bones, died in 1630 at the commendable age of eighty-six, and was honorably buried in the chance of St. Benet church, London.

As to our modern heroic Hobson, let it be hoped his name and fame will have an equal, while the Anglo-Saxon race lives to embalm deeds of conspicuous daring in war. There is no parallel whatever to be drawn between Hobson the First and Hobson the second, because of the elements of bravery and patriotic sacrifice that enter into the lieutenant's record. It was "that or nothing" in his brave judgment, to fix the dons; but the poor, bottled John isn't even the choice granted to the venerable customers of the Tobias.

TWO FAMOUS HOBSONS. The Original of "Hobson's Choice" Was a Noted Character.

New York Mail and Express. All over the country the papers have been ringing the changes on "Hobson's choice," springing, of course, from contention acts to find some jocular connection between that venerable adage and the dashing deed of Lieutenant Richmond Pearson Hobson of Alabama in sinking the Merrimac and bottling Cervera's fleet in Santiago.

Both the Hobsons are immortal now. The first famous Hobson, of blessed adage memory, was a noted character of the university town of Cambridge, England, this antique Tobias Hobson, and flourished in the reign of King James I. He ran a coach line to and from London, and, in addition to this, is said to have been the grandfather of the lively stable business. He kept forty horses for hire, but being gifted with human instincts that would raise him today to the presidency of the S. P. C. A., Uncle Hobson made it a rule that all horses should be let in turn. There was no "playing favorites" in his larn. Each new customer had to take the horse that stood nearest the stable door. "That, or none" was the old man's ultimatum.

Now, as Tobias had a stable monopoly, this limited range of preference passed into the adage of "Hobson's choice," and has been doing steady duty in the world of maxims these 250 years. Tobias, rest his bones, died in 1630 at the commendable age of eighty-six, and was honorably buried in the chance of St. Benet church, London.

As to our modern heroic Hobson, let it be hoped his name and fame will have an equal, while the Anglo-Saxon race lives to embalm deeds of conspicuous daring in war. There is no parallel whatever to be drawn between Hobson the First and Hobson the second, because of the elements of bravery and patriotic sacrifice that enter into the lieutenant's record. It was "that or nothing" in his brave judgment, to fix the dons; but the poor, bottled John isn't even the choice granted to the venerable customers of the Tobias.
