OPERATIONS RESUMED AT THE ARCHBALD COLLIERY.

Bix Hundred Men and Boys Will Have Employment for the Winter. Changes That Have Been Made in the Force of Foremen-Surprise Party for Mr. and Mrs. Evan Jenkins, of South Garfield Avenue. Organizing a Party of Male Sing-

As was previously announced, the Archbald colliery, owned and operated by the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Coal company, resumed operations yesterday after having been idle for nearly seven months. Many a home into which little if any earnings have been coming during that period was first made bright by the announcement and now the coming of winter brings with it no grim forebodings of want or privation for those of the household who were wage-earners are once more delving to provide for their

Nearly 600 men and boys went to work yesterday. Many of these have been unable except for an odd day or so to procure work and the little that had been laid by was fast dwindling away. What gives added security to the hope that this work will be regular for some time to come is the fact that those collieries which are working are all making full time and from present indications there will be a good strong demand for anthracite coal for several months to come.

The resumption of the colliery, however, sees some new occupants in the higher official positions. Outside Superintendent John Fern, who for many years has occupied that position, now holds a similar position at the Oxford. That position is almost nominal, there being little to do there since the breaker was destroyed. William B. Thornton, of the Oxford, takes the place of Mr. Fern at the Archbald. Inside Foreman Joseph D. Lloyd, who was transferred from the Oxford shortly after the burning of the breaker, is displaced by Henry Harris, of Taylor, assistant inside foreman at the Holden. Outside Engineer George H. Fellows, of the Archbald, comes to the Oxford, and Engineer Sproats changes places with him. So far there have been no changes in the subordinate po-

The Arlington double quartette held heir first annual entertainment and social in the Odd Fellows' hall last night before a large audience. The committee were disappointed on account of the non-appearance of a good many of those who were expected to participate, but the audience, being in a good humor, did not seem to care and roundly applauded every number whether good, bad or indifferent. Some of the numbers, especially the Lally children, Miss Hughes and Miss Bessie Powell, were very good. The following programme was rendered: Recitation, Miss Mattle Hughes; vocal solo, Miss Martha Matthews; tenor solor, William R. Wilson; musical selection. William Wilson; banjo solo, Miss Katherine Allen: guitar solo. Harvey Zintle: vocal solo, Miss Bessie Powell; banjo solo, John Howley; selection, Arlington quartette.
