THIS AND THAT.

Acts of heroism are occasionally witnessed in everyday life. A portion of the Traction company's trolley feed wire had just fallen to the ground at the corner of Washington avenue and Spruce street yesterday morning, and car runners were guarding it to keep curious bystanders away, when a runaway horse was discovered coming across the court house lawn. wagon tore up the turf right and left and as the animal headed straight for the corner where the wire touched the ground, it increased its speed. Many of the curious people fled for safety and others seemed paralyzed at the thought buggy become entangled in the live wire, and pull it down on their heads. As the horse neared the Columbus market in various parts of Europe and statue, however, with the remnants of the buggy dangling at its heels, a man sprang forward from the crowd and grasping the animal by the bits pulled its head around to one side. frightened steed plunged and reared and the man was lifted from his feet but he clung to the bridle desperately and in the struggle man and horse went down at the curbstone. Scores of will-ing hands assisted in keeping the horse on the pavement until it had been subdued, and what might have been a catastrophe was averted.

The modern "Jackie" of the United States navy does not seem to be a bit behind the sailor of other days in spinning yarns for the edification of the land lubber. A young man who recently returned from southern waters has found many listeners to his tales of the sea about Scranton, and has not hesitated to give the audience their money's worth. Here is a specimen of the entertainment provided for the boys by this truthful young sailor: tell you boys, its a hard matter to face big guns in a naval engagement. When the shells began to whistle over our heads at Matanzas, I could not help dodging. Admiral Sampson was standing near and said: 'Ah! me boy, I've done that many a time myself when I was younger.' I tell you the admiral is a great warrior and enjoys battle as well as you would enjoy a ball game. I was standing on the bridge of the New York with the admiral as the Spanish thips came out of the harbor of Santiago and when our of our shots struck the Viscaya the admiral threw up his hat and yell-'D- it, that was a peach!'

ANNOYANCE DUE TO SOFT COAL SMOKE

MR. ROCHE SUGGESTS THAT A REMEDY BE FOUND.

Difference of Opinion with Reference to the Paving of Quincy Avenue. Ordinance Providing for Asphalt Paves in Breck and Forest Courts Reported Favorable-Some of the New Resolutions That Were Introduced at Last Night's Meeting of Select Council.

The dust from use of soft coal in Scranton, an anthracite center, is causing discomfort to residents of the Seventh ward, according to the statement of Mr. Roche at last night's meeting of

That the city engineer, building inspec tor and plumbing inspector are directed to acquire a knowledge of methods and devices now in use for the puroose of reducing to a mimimum the smoke and dust annoyances resulting from the use of bituminous coal and re-port to councils at the carliest date pos-

From Mr. Roche's remarks it was sus pected that he would introduce a measure providing for a remedy if such was to be found.

Mr. O'Boyle, of the pavements com mittee, presented the committee's recommendation that the proposal of the Barber Asphalt company to pave Quincy avenue with asphalt between Pine and Gibson streets be rejected because its total was higher than the city engineer's estimate. Before adopting the report Mr. Coype asked for the reading of a petition, which he presented, from all but one property owner on the block, asking that the proposal of the company to do the work for $2.27 per square yard be accepted.

Mr. O'Boyle said the original petition for the pavement stipulated the cost should not exceed $2.10 per square yard and that the city would be responsible for the extra 20 cents per yard.

MR. COYNE'S THEORY.

Mr. Coyne disagreed with the committee's chairman, contending that the atter petition released the city from responsibility in the matter. His motion that the proposal and petitions be referred to the committee, in conjunction with the city solicitor, for a report at the next meeting was adopted.

DAMAGES FOR JACKSON. The judiciary committee reported favorably on the ordinance awarding damages to Common Councilman T. B. Jackson for damages sustained by his property in the grading of New York street and Monsey avenue; also the ordinance supplementary to the plumb-ing inspector ordinance but with amendments to the latter. The Jackson ordinance passed two readings. Mr. Roche thought the measure should receive the approval of the city solicitor before the second reading. His motion to have it so referred was adopted. The plumbing ordinance passed two readings with amendments offered by Mr. Sanderson, one of which adds the building inspector and one member of the board of health to the examin-

IN PAVING CASE

ANSWER WILL BE FILED IN COURT THIS MORNING.

It Denies in General Terms the Allegations of the Plaintiff, Which It Is Proposed to Disprove and Exhibits Papers Showing That the Vote on the Kind of Pave to Be Used Was Not Irregular-Hope to Be Able to Eliminate Part of the Ordinances.

In the equity case between Charles Lowrey, plaintiff, and the City of Scranton and George McDonald defendants, familiarly known as the Providence paving case, the answer of the defendants will be filed this morning by their attorneys, City Solicitor M. McGinley, A. A. Vosburg and Major Everett Warren.

The answer will not go into particular contentions. It will simply deny in a general way the allegations of the plaintiff, which it is proposed to disprove, and exhibit various affidavits and other papers which will be used in the arguments to back up their averments. In answer to the allegation that the vote on the kind of pave to be laid was fraudulent, the defendants present at "Exhibit B" the following petition: The undersigned for themselves and other property holders along the line, re spectfully represent that they have long realized the urgent need of paving the highway known as Providence road and or his father, under date of Sept. 12, of that portion of North Main avenue bepr. Should this attempt at circumventing the wishes of the property holders be laid before you we hope it will meet with the fate it deserves. A typed copy of the original paper aforesaid will for convenience of reference accompany it.

The plaintiff's charge is that a paper was circulated among the property holders to get them to sign for the laying of a pave. Instead of circulating another petition when the councils directed the work to be done over the property holders head, this old petition, in which a majority of the property holders had voted for brick, was hunted up and re-circulated for further signatures. Thus, it is claimed, only a part of the signers had a privilege of voting on what kind of a pave was to be laid, under the ordinance now in question. The signatures accompanying the petition show a majority of the frontage" voting for brick.

WHAT THEY RELY ON. the defendants will rely for victory upon their ability to show that the law of 1895 is only an extension and not a supplement of the Act of 1889 and that a city of the third class can choose which of the laws it will operate under when making an improvement such as paving a street. If this is proven it makes a three-fourths vote unecessary, the Act of 1889 requiring only a two-thirds vote. The ordinance is drawn under the Act of 1889. It will also be shown that all of the ordinance, excepting "Section 13." a clause relating as to how the street car company shall pave between its tracks. received a three-fourths vote. This clause was tacked on after the ordinance has virtually passed councils, and through an oversight was given only fifteen votes. The defendants hope to he able to have court declare that this clause can be climinated from the ord-
