THOSE BOGUS ORDERS.

Likely That More of Them Will Be Unearthed.

Another hearing in the Lackawanna indebtedness matter will be conducted by the marshal, Hon. John P. Quinnan, at his office in the Mears building, this morning. A search is being made for more of the bogus orders and it is not unlikely that some of them will be shown up at today's hearing. One large batch of orders that are regarded with suspicion are held by a prominent Scranton broker. He re-fuses either to present the orders or the judgments obtained thereon, not because he has any fears on the score of their validity, but because he does not admit that the commissioner can licitor McGinley defended the assessmatter which must be dealt with in common pleas court.

No arrest has yet been made in connection with the forged order disclosed at Thursday's hearing. The warrant, however, is out, according to Supervisor Toole, and will be served upon the return of Gallagher to Minooka.

Steam Road Roller Must Stop Every Time a Horse Vehicle Approaches Within 300 Feet of It-Sisters Dispute Over Providence Property. Tried to Stay a Sale-Value of Expert Testimony Forcibly Illustrated-Appeal from City Assessment

An act passed in 1885 and seldom if ver before invoked in this county was used as the base for an action brought against the city of Scranton yesterday by C. H. Scars, of Green Ridge. This act directs that vehicles pro-pelled by steam on a public highway hall stop and withdraw to one side of the road when a horse vehicle ap-proaches within a distance of 300 feet, and that the person in charge of the steam vehicle shall render assistance in guiding the horse vehicle safely past the steam-propelled machine. The supreme court, in 150 Pa. S. L., decreed that a steam road roller came within the class of vehicles to which the act applies. On June 17, last, Mr. Scars and his young son while driving along West Market street, encountered the city road-roller. It continued in operation all the time they were approach. ing and frightened their horse causing him to run away. A heap of stones that the city is alleged to have negligently left in the road caused the carriage to overturn, throwing the occu-

EQUITY SUIT. Mrs. Margaret Warrell and Anna McKay instituted equity proceedings against their sister, Mrs. Jennie C. Blackledge to secure a partition of a Providence property, of which the plaintiffs own a quarter interest each. and, the defendant, a half. The property consists of an improved 50x150 lot on Thompson street and another, unimproved 100x150 feet in dimensions. R. A. Zimmerman represents the plain

The declaration in the trespass case of Louis Freedman against Max Rosenbluth, of Old Forge, was filed by Attorneys Martin & Vidaver. Daniages in the sum of $5,000 are asked for injuries sustained through a beating which Freedman received at the defendant's bands, June 10, last, An effort was made yesterday morn ing, by M. O. Webster, through Jessup & Jessup, to stay a sale of La Plume land advertised to be disposed by the sheriff yesterday. The application was for a writ of audita quernta, a proceeding occasionally appealed to as a final result and one which is based on allegations that something new has entered into the case since the previous adjudication. Judge Archbald refused to grant the writ but allowed an exception to his ruling. The property was sold later by the sheriff for $3,600.

Mr. Webster purchased the land in question for $9,000, paying $5,000 down and giving judgment notes for the balance. When the notes became due he sought to stay their execution on the ground that the holders, the heirs of Nathan K. Chase, had failed in an agreement to furnish him with a clear title of the property.

ALLEGED FLAW IN TITLE.

Tae flaw in the title was that Georg Clymer had at one time, many years ago, held a half interest in the property and that while he had relinquished possession of it he had never made a formal transfer of his interest. Court in passing upon this, decided that Mr. Webster could not hold the land and have payment delayed on the notes at the same time and dismissed his petition.

The value of expert testimony is being forcibly illustrated in the West Ridge coal case now on before Judge Archbald. For three days and a half expert miners, engineers, operators and the like gave testimony for the plaintiff to show that the company had worked the mine in a proper, diligent and energetic manner. Thursday afternoon and all of yesterday other and equally reliable experts gave it as their positive opinion that the mine was not worked properly, diligently and energetically. Mine Inspector Henry O. Prytherch, Mine Foreman Finley Ross Mine Foreman Alexander Aikeran, William Richmond, James H. Hughes and C. C. Rose were yesterday's witnesses for the defense.

The case will probably be ready for argument at noon today. Judge Gunster heard the appeal from the city tax assessment taken by the Fairview Land company. Mr. Burns argued for the plaintiff and City So-

Last year the Land company's tract in the Fifteenth ward was assessed for $18,000. This year with twelve lots cut out of it and no improvements added. it is assessed for $52,000. This alleged anwarranted increase in the assessment and the fact that the city valuation had only been increased from $20,000,000 to $22,000,000, or ten per cent., was sufficient, Mr. Burns would have the court belief, to warrant a decrease in the assessment. TOOK COMPANY'S FIGURES. City Solicitor McGinley said that the assessor had taken the company's own figures on the value of the land. He waited on one of its members and without disclosing that he was an assessor inquired the price of lots on the tract. From the figures given in response to these queries he made up his ssessment. Mr. Burns said that the assessor had inquired only about a few of the desirable lots fronting on Main street and the prices given on those would not be fair basis on which to compute the general or average value of the Longcore made an address on behalf of No. 218, and was answered by P. F. Holton for No. 118, who presided. The great usefulness of these jolly smokers was pointed out. They created a close personal acquaintance and friendship among the members. Refreshments were plentiful and well served.

"The Fisherman's Child" was sung by Ed. Burcher, of No. 218. It was given with much feeling and received hearty applause. "Why Don't They Do It Now?" was sung by George Smallridge, of 118, and provoked great mirth, "Kneel Down Besides Your Mother's Grave and Pray," was rendered with true pathos by A. Longcore, who received well earned applause.

An imitation of a steam calliope by William Keifer, was short but good. It was followed by an imitation of a crying baby: All hands then joined in singing "The Star Spangled Benner" and "America." Richard Farrell gave a speech by O'Connell, predicting the freedom of Ireland. It was well rendered and received.

The high regard for the press of this ity by these unions was shown when A. Langerfeld called as a visitor. He hauled up to the chairman and "press-

The public is beginning to learn that the unions are the only guarantee for future steadiness in business, because with nothing to stop the lowering of wages the great mass of wage workers would become poorer and poorer and, of course, buy less and less in proportion. Hence the business men benefit or lose as the unions win or lose in their struggle for bettering the condition of the workers and through them the general welfare.

WANAMAKER PASSED THROUGH THIS CITY

EN ROUTE TO HONESDALE, WHERE HE MADE A SPEECH.

Says He Is Not a Candidate and the Only Interest He Has in This Campaign Is as a Citizen Who Has Something to Say to His Neighbors About a Matter of Interest. Expects to Smash the Quay Machine Beyond Repair.

Hon. John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, passed through the city late yesterday afternoon. Lie was en route to Honesdale, where he addressed a politcal gathering last night. Accompanying him were Senator C. C. Kauffman, of Lancaster, and Rudolph Blankenburg and F. A. Van Valkenburg, who have been Mr. Wanamaker's princi-pal political lieutenants for several Van Valkenburg is the man who came here two years ago with a view to influencing legislators to vote for Mr. Wanamaker for United States senator.

Mr. Wanamaker's coming was unheralded, and none of the local Wanamaker men were at the Delaware and Hudson station to give their chief a reception. He did not leave the car during the five minutes it was at the station. Some of the passengers who boarded the train recognized him and stopped to shake hands with the ex-postmaster general as they passed through the train. Among those who introduced themselves was William H. Dimmick, of Honesdale. He is related by marriage to ex-President Harrison, in whose cabinet Mr. Wanamaker served.

Mr. Wanamaker said he was going to Honesdale because he had been asked many times to speak there, but had heretofore not been able to reach that place. He does not intend to make a tour of the entire state because the time at his disposal will not permit him to do so,

NOT A CANDIDATE. "I am not in this campaign in any sense as a candidate," Mr. Wanamaker said. "It is not my campaign. I am simply enlisted in it because I have some thing to say to the voters just as any man has the privilege of going to the town meeting and discussing such matters as are of interest to the community. It is my purpose to tell the people of the evil practices that have grown into our legislature and the manner in which public business is transacted at Harrisburg. I tell the people something about the efforts that Mr. Elkins, chairman of the Republican state committee says he is making to bring about harmony in the party in Pennsylvania. The only political harmony he wants is a harmony that will enable him to politically en-slave the people. "My expectation is that we will smash the Quay machine in Pennsylvania and reduce it to a condition beyond repair. I am engaged in a campaign to drive the Blancos and Weylers out of the Republican party in Pennsylvania. I want the people to know that they are being deceived when they are told that McKinley is the prime consideration in this campaign, and that it is the duty of loyal Republicans to give an endorsement of his war policy by electing whoever they may find on the Republican

"That's not true. McKinley has nothing to do with this campaign. He does not enter into it at all; neither does the question of sound money. This is a campaign that the voters of Penntried to keep in the rear, but was sylvania are waging for privilege of governing themselves. That is the supreme issue. Nothing takes precedence over it.

HIS CHOICE FOR GOVERNOR. "Which of the candidates is your hoice for governor?" Mr. Wanamaker was asked. Before answering he hesitated for a moment, then hedged as "You can say in every column of your paper, if you wish, that I am opposed to any candidate owned or fa-vored by Senator Quay." More than that Mr. Wanamaker would not say as o his choice.

When reminded that Dr. Swallow said in this city Wednesday that Mr. Wanamaker's friends were his friends the Philadelphia merchant prince said "I do not know anything about that, I did not hear him say it." Then with a smile, "You know I am not respon sible for what people may say about

D. & H. ANNUAL REPORT.

For the Year Ending June 30th Shows Prosperous Conditions.

The reports of the Delaware and Hudson Canal company's railroads for the year ended June 30 last, as filed with the New York state railroad com mission, made a better showing than did the reports for the previous year. The roads generally considered Delaware and Hudson property are the Albany and Susquehanna, the Renselaer and Saratoga, New York and Canada, Adirondack, and the Chateaugay. The report shows a surplus for the year earned by the Albany and Susquehanna of $709,245, as compared with $548,516 the year previous; a loss of $299,312 for the Rensselaer and Saratoga against a loss of $343.039 for the New York and Canada against 29,039 for the previous year; a surplus of $26,894 for the Adirondack against $22,-784 the previous year, and a loss of $24. 950 for the Chateaugay against $24,75 the year previous. The total surplus earned last year was $738,139, and the losses $353,301, making a net gain for the company or the year on the five roads of $384,-$38, as against a net gain of $221,399 the previous year.
