

TO SECOND ARMY CORPS TO GO TO CUBA

MOVEMENT OF TROOPS WILL BEGIN OCT. 15.

General Graham is gratified that he will be able to take his entire command—New York Regiment is to leave for a New Camp in the Coneywago Hills—Are isolated to prevent the spread of typhoid fever in the camp.

By Associated Press. Camp Meade, Middletown, Pa., Sept. 28.—The second army corps is to be sent to Cuba for duty as an army of occupation. General Graham made this announcement today to the members of his staff. The movement from Camp Meade will be begun between October 15 and 20 and the troops will be forwarded without the least possible delay. General Graham is pleased with the plan of the war department to send his command as a unit. General M. C. Butler, of South Carolina, president of the Cuba peace commission, is anxious that the corps be forwarded immediately. He says it is needed in Cuba and the sooner it is sent the better.

It is a source of much pleasure to General Graham to know that he will be permitted to round out his forty odd years in active service in an enemy's country. This was the sixty-fourth anniversary of his birth and in commemoration of the event and the fact that it marked his retirement as a brigadier general of the regular army, his staff presented him with a handsome silver loving cup. The presentation speech was made by Colonel Guy Howard, chief quartermaster. The old soldier made a short speech accepting the gift and expressing his appreciation of the confidence and respect which his staff officers have shown toward him.

WILL REMAIN IN SERVICE. General Graham will remain in the volunteer service as a major general until it is disbanded. The cup is handsomely engraved and bears the inscription: "To Major General William Montrose Graham, commanding Second Army Corps, U. S. A., from the members of his staff as a token of respect and regard." The names of the staff officers, that of Chief Surgeon Girard, as the ranking officer, being first, are engraved on the cup. Two absent members of his staff sent their congratulations.

The 26th New York will leave tomorrow for its new camp in the Coneywago hills. The regiment will travel by rail and will be isolated from the other troops until all danger of infecting them with typhoid has disappeared. The New Yorkers' camp has been installed, new tents being issued to them and floors laid in the quarters of officers and men. Unless the fever abates in the fifteenth Minnesota it will also be isolated. There is comparatively little sickness in any of the other regiments.

Ex-Governor Watson, of Delaware, visited camp today and was much pleased with its location and the condition of the men, especially the First Delaware. Governor Lowndes, Adjutant General Wilmer and Inspector General Mumford were also visitors to the camp. Their visit is in relation to the muster out of the First Maryland. Many of the men want to leave the service, but the probabilities are that the regiment will be retained. Indeed, it is doubtful if any of the regiments in the corps will be mustered out before congress convenes.

MISSOURI MAN DIED. Private Stanton Williams, Company D, Fourth Missouri, died today at the Second division hospital of peritonitis, and his remains will be shipped to St. Joseph, Mo. Major Jackson, of Kansas City, returned today from a sick leave and assumed command of this hospital. He relieves Major Weaver, of Norristown, who has been appointed chief surgeon of the division. The hospital was placed in splendid condition under the management of Major Weaver.

Musical services were held today in the Middletown Methodist church over the remains of Private Benjamin D. Laurier, Company M, Tenth Ohio, who was struck by lightning and killed Monday evening while guarding the tent of a military train storm. His body was shipped to Cleveland this morning under an escort of a detail from the regiment.

When the Sixth Pennsylvania regiment was encamped here there were almost daily exhibitions of the friendship that exists between the regiment and the Second Tennessee. Before the Sixth went home to be mustered out they presented their southern brothers-in-arms with handsome little medals in the shape of an eagle with outstretched wings suspended from a ribbon with a suitable inscription. Since then the Second Tennessee has been discussing ways and means of returning the compliment and have finally decided upon a keystone badge with the words "Friends Forever."

The two regiments were encamped close together at Camp Alger, and when the commissary department failed to make suitable provision for the Tennessee boys the members of the Sixth regiment came to the rescue with rations saved from their own supplies. The two regiments lay near each other at Camp Meade and on Pennsylvania soil their friendship was renewed and strengthened.

GOSSIP OF THE CAMP. Special to the Scranton Tribune. Camp Meade, Middletown, Pa., Sept. 28.—The storm which broke so suddenly over camp late Monday afternoon, and with a force which was as terrific as it was unprecedented for this time of year, has worked almost a complete change in the appearance of camp. Without any apparent cause or high temperature the sky began to darken by degrees, and at 4 o'clock it was black as night. An ordinary rain storm was expected, and the men sought their tents. Quick flashes of lightning would cleave the heavens; the artillery of the Almighty thundered and crashed with a deafening sound, and then the rain began to come down with terrific force.

speculated as to how near such and such bolt of lightning struck, and they were not mistaken in one case—that of Private De Laurier, of Company M, of the Tenth Ohio, who was struck squarely by a flash. The clothes were torn off his body, which turned black in an instant, and several men who were in the tent nearby were shocked, and in some instances rendered senseless for a time. This point is not farther than the length of an ordinary block from the lines of the Thirteenth.

It was well that the brigade commissary was moved some time ago, or else the boys would be cut short in their rations for a few days. Where the roads cross in front of the former site of the commissary the water was two feet and, in some places, three feet deep after the storm had ceased. The heavy sandy roads rendered travel almost impossible and prevented the entry of the mail wagons to camp till after 8 o'clock yesterday morning.

The complaints against hospitals in general are becoming more bitter and more frequent here among the boys. Several cases of bad management are becoming potent and the men are little inclined to have patience with such things. Instances of this nature are not, by any means, rare, and have been multiplying to an extent which is criticized severely by officers and enlisted men. Sergeant William Roach, of Company G, died in the Lancaster hospital Saturday afternoon, and yet the commanding officer of the regiment, Lieutenant Colonel Mattes, was not notified of that fact till Monday morning by The Tribune correspondent. In the same way private Henry Roth, of Company G, died at 1 o'clock on the morning of the 28th and still thirty-four hours had elapsed before anybody here was made aware of the death.

Another member of Company C, Private Rozelle, is now in a New York hospital, because some incompetent in the hospitals made a mistake, mixed matters up and as a result made him out a New York soldier. As a result, Private Rozelle was removed to a New York hospital.

There was a general good time given to the members of the Second Battalion Sunday evening. Captain Robert J. McCausland, of Company G, arrived in camp in company with his wife on their wedding trip. The company streets were illuminated and all were given an opportunity to appreciate and enjoy Captain McCausland's generosity and liberality. Later in the evening the bridal party left for New York city. The boys of the Second Battalion gave them a royal welcome and wished them every happiness.

Lieutenants Murphy, of C, and Foote, of D, are now alternating as officers of the guard every day.

Captains Robling, of C, and Gillman, of D, and Lieutenant Burkhouse, of C, are having a monopoly of the duties of officer of the day.

Private William Beckman, of C, has been returned to his company, and Private James Griner, of D, has been detailed to take his place at the brigade commissary.

Corporal Fred Belersheim and Privates William Franz, Jr., and John Evert, of B, returned from a 7-day furlough last night.

Corporal John M. Thro, of Company E, is acting hospital steward for the Second Battalion in place of Sergeant Kissler, who is home on furlough.

Mrs. William Freeman, and Mrs. Blair, wife of Captain Blair, of Scranton, have been spending a few days in camp visiting their sons, Sergeant Freeman and Private Blair, of F company.

Private Frank William, of C, who is seriously sick in the city of Birmingham, is unable to return to camp, has received a 30-day extension of his furlough.

Corporal Joseph Cleary, who is acting company clerk of D, while corporal Jennings is at brigade headquarters, is suffering a sore finger. He was shaving himself Sunday and one of the boys accidentally ran against him. Luckily the razor inflicted no more serious damage than a deep gash on the index finger of the left hand.

Attorney J. Elliot Ross arrived in camp last night, and slept under canvas. He will try to bring home his son, Corporal Charles Ross, of D, who is now suffering from fever in the division hospital.

Mrs. E. D. Follows is in camp visiting her husband, Captain Follows, of F company. Corporal Richard Kelly and Privates Harry Castner and William Doran, of D, left last night for their homes in Scranton on a 7-day furlough.

George B. Dimmick, of the First National bank, was in camp today. He was on his way to Reading, where his brother, Sergeant H. L. Dimmick, of Company A, is sick with fever.

Privates Wyman, Doehler, Sheridan and Banker, of C, returned from furlough last night. Richard Bourke.

FUNERAL OF HENRY ROTH

It Was a Day of General Mourning In Archbald—Young Soldier Was Laid at Rest With Military Honors.

It was a day of general mourning in Archbald yesterday when the remains of Private Henry Roth, of Company C, who died of typhoid fever in the Pottsville hospital, last Saturday, were laid in their final rest. The whole town, it might be said, turned out to pay tribute to the dead soldier and, as a consequence that followed the remains to the cemetery was one of the largest in the history of Archbald.

Captain Frank Robling, of Company C; Captain W. A. Raub, of the provisional guard, who was formerly first lieutenant of Company C, and a large delegation of volunteers and national guardsmen were present to do military honors to their dead comrade. The Junior Order United American Mechanics, of which the deceased was a member, attended in a body, and there was also present a large delegation of Delaware and Hudson Canal company employes, the deceased having worked for that company before enlisting. The Archbald band headed the funeral procession.

Services were conducted at the Presbyterian church by the pastor, Rev. W. A. Beecher, after which the remains were exposed to view. At the grave further services were held by Rev. Mr. Beecher, assisted by Rev. Mr. Lee and also by the Jr. O. U. A. M. The band then played an appropriate selection, after which a salute of three volleys was fired over the grave and "taps" sounded by Bugler Edward Richards.

The pall-bearers were: Privates Charles J. Sprandle and Fred Luther, Company C, Thirteenth Pennsylvania; John Timlin and Thomas Bonnes, Second South Carolina; James Anderson, Company A, Thirteenth Pennsylvania; Joseph Smith, Company B, Thirteenth Pennsylvania. The flower-bearers were B. Smith, Company F; James Corbett, Company C; M. Philbin, Company F, Thirteenth Pennsylvania. In the firing squad were Sergeant Neuman, Corporal Williams and Private Frank Jones, Company E, Thirteenth Pennsylvania; Schumaker, Will Gibbons, George Walters and Frank Banks, Company C.

Private Roth was the eleventh man in the Thirteenth to be mustered out by death. He was the son of Henry Roth, of Archbald, but lived for the last few years in Carlondale, being employed there by the Delaware and Hudson company. He went to Mount Gretna with the first quota of recruits, and was mustered into the service with the regiment on the morning of May 12. He was twenty-four years of age, was nearly six feet tall, and weighed 190 to 200 pounds. Of a pleasing manner and genial at all times, he was well liked. As a soldier his record was unblemished. Though feeling ill for a time, he did not cease attending to his duties, expecting that he would be all right every day. Finally, on the 12th of the present month he had to ask to be relieved while doing a tour of guard duty, and at once went to the hospital. It was then found that his temperature was over 104 degrees. He was taken to the division hospital and three days later was removed on a hospital train to Pottsville.

This is the third death which has occurred in Company C, the other two being Private Alvin Evans and Musician William Staples, and the second death in the regiment during the past week.

THE PARDON BOARD. Proceedings of the Meeting Yesterday—Rehearings Granted. Harrisburg, Sept. 28.—The board of pardons refused a pardon today to Editor Thomas J. Joyce, of the Morning Globe, on account of his sixteen months in the Eastern penitentiary for perjury. Joyce was convicted a year ago in the Dauphin county court of criminal libel and sentenced to pay a fine of $500. He was subsequently prosecuted for perjury by Senator Coyle, of Schuylkill, on account of certain testimony given in his behalf at the previous trial. Joyce pleaded guilty and was given a light sentence considering his serious offense. His application for a pardon was resisted by Senator J. M. McCaskey, of Harrisburg, counsel for the Schuylkill senator.

Pardons were also refused Patrick Carr, of Lawrence; David Burns, of Lawrence; Edward Young, Erie; Samuel Yagle, Northumberland; Jacob Miller, Allegheny; Bill Thompson, Mercer; Robert J. Cascardi, Philadelphia; second degree murderer; Thie Murr, Lancaster; and Lillie McCauley, Lancaster.

Pardons were recommended in the cases of John Kline, Philadelphia; S. D. White, Allegheny; John Schmidt, Philadelphia; James Turner, Somerset; John Dornan, Washington; C. Augustus Page, Allegheny; and Henry Brice-land, Washington.

Rehearings were granted in the cases of Mary Kahout, Allegheny; A. L. Spencer and Thomas Aubrey, Luzerne. The applications for a re-hearing in the cases of J. Bert Davidson, of Allegheny and Philip Stark, Allegheny, were continued. The resolutions adopted urged the annexation of Cuba and the Philippines. The place for next year's meeting was left to the selection of the executive committee. This afternoon the millers went on an excursion to State college and the last session was held in the college chapel. Dr. Atherton making the principal address.

ONE OF TORREY'S ROUGH RIDERS

HE WAS FORMERLY A RESIDENT OF NORTH SCRANTON.

In a letter to Thomas G. Evans, of Edna Avenue, He Has Something to Say About the Hard Side of Camp Life at Jacksonville—The Rough Riders Expect Soon to Be Sent to Cuba—Are All Western Men.

A letter was received by Thomas G. Evans, of Edna avenue, yesterday from Milton W. Lewis, a member of Colonel Torrey's Rough Riders, Second United States volunteer cavalry, Troop P, now at Jacksonville, Fla. Mr. Lewis was originally a North Scranton boy and he recites many incidents during his service which will prove interesting reading to his many friends in this city.

He writes from Jacksonville, Fla., where his company is now encamped. Colonel Torrey's cavalry of Rough Riders were mustered into service at Cheyenne, Wyoming, and are all western men.

They put in about a month of hard drilling, from four to six and eight hours a day before leaving Fort D. A. Russell to go to the front. There is not a man among them that has not ridden the western ranges. The letter says:

"The latter part of June we got our orders to prepare to move. The boys showed their approval by giving cheer after cheer, but if they knew at that time that we would have been held in that suffocating hole near Jacksonville, I think a good many of them would have been tempted to desert."

"On our way to the south we met with an accident. Our train completely telescoped another, wounding fifty men and killing eight. Our colonel was among the wounded. That accounts, I think, for our not being where we should have been, (to the front.) Nearly two-thirds of the regiment are disgusted with army life, for what western man who is used to the ranges cares for such strict discipline that is exercised by Uncle Sam? Our grub has been very rocky too. A good many mornings for breakfast we would get black coffee and hard tack or perhaps a biscuit still harder with a small piece of soy belly."

"I remember Troop K one morning lining up for breakfast, every man got his breakfast and then they walked in single file up to the lieutenant colonel's tent. The leader, a brave fellow who has put in the whole of his life on the plains of Kansas, Nebraska, Wyoming and Montana, addressed the colonel as follows: 'Good morning, Colonel (with the customary salute,) what do you think of your breakfast, do you think we can drill on a breakfast like that in this hot country, and keep it up?' The colonel's reply was, 'no, and there will be no drilling this morning. Then for a long time the boys fared well but the officers forgot so easy, and it was not long before it was the same old song, soy belly and hard tack."

"I think we will be transported to Cuba soon and I sincerely hope that Colonel Torrey's regiment of Rough Riders will get a chance to show what they can do."

My letter is getting long and it may be getting tiresome, but I will close hoping that I may be able to give you more news of interest in the near future."

GENERAL GOBINS STAFF.

It Will Contain the Names of Many Notables—Gen. Joe Wheeler Will Have Charge of the Cavalry Division.

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 28.—That the staff of General J. E. B. Gobin, grand marshal of the big parade of the Knights Templars, will be notable and brilliant, is evidenced by a glance at the following list of names of those who will constitute a part of the staff: General Henry C. Corbin, adjutant general of the United States army, of Washington, D. C.; Brigadier General Carl A. Woodruff of the United States Regular army, now stationed at Fort Warren, Boston; Senator George L. Shoup, of Boise, Idaho; Senator J. C. Barrows, of Kalamazoo, Mich.; Hon. H. Clay Evans, United States commissioner of pensions, of Washington, D. C.; Commander Simon P. Gillett, of the United States navy, of Evansville, Ind.; Brigadier General William K. McKee, of the United States army, now stationed at Camp Polk, Knoxville, Tenn.; General Samuel C. Lawrence, of Medford, Mass.; General Robert H. Chamberlin, of Worcester, Mass.; Surgeon General George H. Kenyon, of Boston; Colonel C. H. Kennan, of Norfolk, Va.; Colonel B. D. Spearman, of Camp Polk, Knoxville, Tenn.; General A. E. Booth, of Baltimore, Md.; Colonel Willard Howard, of the Fourth regiment, United States army, of Baltimore, Md.; Colonel Thad M. Chatman, of the United States army, of Morgantown, W. Va.; General George E. Clapp, of Hartford, Conn.; Colonel Charles L. Burdett, of Tampa, Fla.; Hon. John E. Bayard, judge advocate general, of Cheyenne, Wyo.

In giving out this list yesterday Captain William H. T. Burt, chief of the grand marshal's staff, and chairman of the committee on parade and review, said that this was only the nucleus of the staff, which will contain nearly 200 prominent personages. About fifty of them will be men who have distinguished themselves by their services in the defense of their country.

The names of most of these are fresh in the minds of the people, having won fame and distinction in the recent Hispano-American war. Their presence will without doubt create great enthusiasm among the entire route of the parade. General Joseph Wheeler, the famous cavalry leader, will not be a member of the staff, but will be assigned to the command of the cavalry division, which is one of the most important and most conspicuous positions in the line. He will be easy to single out, and will be tendered a fitting ovation.

There will be a good sprinkling of members of his own branches of congress and a number of governors and other distinguished officials. The remainder will be men who have attained high positions in the Knight Templar fraternity.

They are in memory of the Seventh West Virginia, on East Cemetery Hill, Battery C, First artillery, in the National cemetery; First cavalry, in the Taneytown road, and the Second cavalry on Buford avenue.

The weather was fine and a great crowd attended the ceremonies, including a number of civil war veterans and a regiment of volunteers. The Governor Atkinson, of West Virginia, was accompanied by his staff, Generals Davis and Curtin, Colonels Herkheimer, Hewitt and Crook and Lieutenant Colonel Simms.

With Governor Hastings, of Pennsylvania, were Colonel Sweeney and Lieutenant Colonel Troxler and Davis. The governors, with their staffs, and the veterans, were escorted by the Second West Virginia volunteers, under Colonel D. T. E. Gastler, who are camped on Seminary Ridge. In the procession were three battle flags, which were carried by the different West Virginia commands during the war.

The dedicatory exercises were held at the Seventh West Virginia monument, Professor J. C. Miller, of Morgantown, W. Va., was master of ceremonies. Governor Atkinson made a brilliant address in which he spoke in high terms of the valor of the boys of '61 as well as of the patriotism of the present volunteers. Addresses were also made by General J. W. M. Appleton, Major Isaac Brown, Colonel John C. Kelley, of the Seventh West Virginia, and Governor Hastings, who received the monuments in behalf of the battlefield commission. An unusual occurrence was that the governors and members of their staffs marched from their headquarters, at the Eagle hotel, to the place of the exercises, a distance of over half a mile. During the afternoon Governor Atkinson and his staff paid an informal visit to the camp of the Second West Virginia.
