WHITNEY'S WEEKLY BUDGET OF NEWS

ED. GARDNER AND BILL GARLOCK LAND A TURTLE.

Elizabeth Sands Made a Hangman's Rope—Editor More and the Angel of Peace—Race Course for Uniondale—Gibson Will Celebrate a Pole-Raising.

Special to the Scranton Tribune.

Susquehanna, Oct. 4.

The boys are coming home—the Oct. 4. From the bullets of the battlefield—the wrecks that strew the foam: From the ways where men like tigers in the deadly struggle roam—The boys are coming home—coming home!

Ed. Gardner and Bill Garlock were fishing in the Susquehanna river near Red Rock a few days ago, and attending to their night lines, which had been set the night before. Their luck was poor, lines after lines being pined up and found bare of both bait and fish.

Approaching the last line they found in beginning to reel up that they had a monster. The line was out seventy-five feet, and it took some time to reel it in.

Drawing the reel nearer to the boat, they nearly fell overboard in their astonishment at seeing on the end of the reel a turtle weighing thirty-two pounds. A pole with a strong iron hook in the end, made for turtle fishing, was thrust under the monster's shell and he was landed in the boat.

He had swallowed about six inches of the reel, and preferred to be captured rather than give up the prey.

IN OLD SUSQUEHANNA COUNTY. The semi-annual meeting of the Susquehanna County Medical society was held today in New Milford.

Some wretches have stolen potatoes from the cellar of Editor Taylor, of the Montrose Republican, and borrowed his scythe. Whoever stole the potatoes borrowed the scythe to peel them. They never will go where the good old Elijah went.

Near East New Milford a farmer thought he had discovered an oil well, the other day. A farmer boy watering his stock, had dropped his lantern into the spring. Hence—hence these steers.

The Forest City News reports that the Susquehanna board of trade has been dead four months. This will be new news to the board aforesaid.

Hilarious situations will have a half-mile race course. Horse owners thereabouts will be glad to learn that the race is not always to the Swift.

Gibson is a little late, but she will have a pole raising Oct. 8.

Editor More, of the Great Bend Plain-Dealer, alleges that the news paper gang are jealous because he was in a float with the angel of peace in the recent peace day parade in Montrose. The newspaper chaps were not jealous, but they did feel sorry for the angel. So far as she was concerned, it was another case of poor dog Tray.

IN A LINE OR SO. The Erie shops were on Monday pines on eight hours' time, a gain of an hour.

The funeral of William Conway occurred and was very largely attended on Friday morning from St. John's Catholic church where solemn high mass was celebrated. The remains were interred in Laurel Hill cemetery. A. S. Bingham, of Jackson, is one of the innumerable Republican candidates for sheriff.

At the recent county convention of the Women's Christian Temperance union, held in Thomason, Mrs. Lizzie Cook, of Susquehanna, was elected president, and Mrs. Celia Pope, of Susquehanna, was elected recording secretary.

At the Harford fair, Joseph P. McMahon, of Susquehanna, exhibited his matched black horses and took second prize.

FEW WOMEN MADE A HANGMAN'S ROPE. Mrs. Elizabeth Sands died in Jackson in November, 1885, aged 53 years. She was widely known throughout the county, from having made the rope with which the first murderer ever convicted in Susquehanna county was hanged. One night in May, 1884, Jason Treadwell, a member of a leading family of the county, laid in wait between this place and Laneshoro to rob and murder John Comfort, a rich lumberman, whom Treadwell knew that night was to pass the spot where he was hiding, with a large sum of money in his possession. It happened that Oliver Harper, a well known citizen, came along the road, and Treadwell killed him in mistake for Comfort. Harper had but a shilling upon his person. The murderer was arrested and convicted and subsequently confessed his crime. Samuel Gregory was sheriff of the county. Mrs. Sands lived in the family. Treadwell was sentenced in December and was hanged Jan. 13, 1825. Between the date of his sentence and the day of execution, in Montrose, Mrs. Sands spun the flax and made the rope with which he was hanged. The rope is still preserved in the county.

FAR WORSE THAN STORM OR BIZZARD BLENK. Far worse than cyclone dread, Is that most damp, depressing state Of "that here" atmosphere, That's dubbed by the forecast man As "partly cloudy clear."

The intelligence of a beautiful woman is seldom appreciated.—Scranton Tribune. True enough. But a great host of plain women are admired, appreciated and almost worshipped for their intelligence.

A man with a new idea cannot be too careful with it. It may get away from him and become original with some one else.

The coal is now put in the bin, and the coal men rake the shovels in; but the wind blows plenty over the world, and the world is cold—the world is cold!

There are enough "dark horses" in this country to make politics a continual circus. A desecrated union will soon clap its innocence over the blatant mouth of the campaign bar.

To cure a woman of stammering, ask her what she thinks of the girl her husband came near getting engaged to a couple of years before she married him.

Adam had one thing in his favor. Eve couldn't ask him whether he had loved any other woman before he met her.

SOME NEWS MATTERS. There was a record-breaking attendance this year at the Harford fair. The funeral of Mrs. Julia Fitzgerald, an aged resident, occurred on Saturday morning from St. John's Catholic church.

The People's party of Susquehanna county has made the following nominations: Congress, Willis B. Weeks, Sayre, Bradford county; senator, E. L. Weston, Brooklyn; representatives, F. H. Bunnell, Dinwiddie; A. E. Stockholm, Liberty; district attorney, S. F. Lane, etc. Montrose; surveyor, D. D. Lathrop, Montrose. It has this unique platform: 1. The rich to help the poor. 2. The wise to instruct the ignorant. 3. The strong to help the weak.

RELATIVES OF JUDAS. The man who will go into a convention of his party, participate in and acquire in its deliberations, lend his voice to the ratification of its nomination, and who knifes his candidate on the day of election, is a mean and despicable traitor in whom the seed of Judas survives.

A NARROW ESCAPE. We are pleased to learn that the pharisaical scribes of Susquehanna have some knowledge of the good book. But surely they haven't read of the fate of Ananias and Sapphira.

Forest City News. Ananias and Sapphira. The names sound familiar. Ah, yes! They murdered and robbed somebody up in Forest City county, but he was acquitted in the county courts. But it was a close call for them. Please ask the advanced class in theology and Bible history something hard.

SORE SIDE ISMS. Mary had a little lamb, Its wool was white as snow, And everywhere that Mary went The lamb was sure to go. Its fleece is still white as snow. But Mary's lamb has grown; And now she'd rather walk three miles Than face that lamb alone. —Longfellow.

Some men are always in bad company, even when they are alone. The human race is divided into two classes—those who go ahead and do something, and those who sit still and inquire: "Why was it done the other way?"

Think over the list of your female acquaintances. How many of them are stammer? The undertaker bends over the bier. The toper bends over the beer. The one ends rich—the other ragged.

As a rule, those who "vote for principle" don't help elect anybody. They are useful only to make up the tail-end of the procession.

"Let us strip for the fight," said a woman orator in a speech in Binghamton the other night. It is said there was a wild stampede, and the only one left in the hall were those who had been trapped under foot and rendered unconscious.

HOGS FOR SPEED. Farmer James Brown two years ago removed from Ohio to Susquehanna county. He brought with him some very fine stock, among it some splendid pigs that he took much pride in. He seemed down to astonish the natives. Among these hills his hogs threw far beyond his expectations. They were big hogs—bigger'n the fellows who occupy a whole seat in a crowded railroad coach. This season, finding that he had the finest pair of fat hogs that he had ever owned he decided to enter them at one of our county fairs. The old man received kind words from many a visitor. It was a foregone conclusion that Farmer James Brown would win the prize. The Judge came around and made their awards. Great was the surprise when it was found that the honors had gone to the owner of one of the native hogs of the thin breed known as the "razor-backs." Thinking there was some mistake, Farmer Brown accused one of the judges and asked him on what points the judges made the award. The answer was: "Speed sir, by George, speed sir!" Farmer James Brown went sadly home to his cove. He says there is little money and no glory in raising fine hogs in Susquehanna county. Whitney.

IN THE PLAY HOUSES. "A Cheerful Idiot." The Academy of Music will present for its attraction, commencing Thursday, for three nights Blondell & Fennessy's latest New York success entitled "A Cheerful Idiot." East and furious is the fun and music of "A Cheerful Idiot." It is on the order of entertainments the public demands, when legitimate comedy finds unappreciative audiences and empty seats. "A Cheerful Idiot," with a host of pretty girls, novel specialties, exquisite musical numbers and beautiful wardrobe turns people away from the box office.
