The Clavier method develops a bettor and more artistic technic in six months' time than is attained (if attained at all), by plano pupils in from three to five years.

The Clavier student is taught one scinciple at a time; that principle is accurately defined and intelligently to, how to do it, and then does it. With piano pupils from lesson to les- prize? son nearly everything is guesswork very honest plano teacher will tell you that three-fourths of every lesson our is consumed in correcting mistakes that would not have been made or breaking up bad habits that would not have been formed, had the pupil ossessed an intelligent and accurate idea of what to do, and an infallible monitor like the Clavier to make her do It. When the pupil is in the possession f an accurate and reliable technic, he is given a plece which is memorized, practiced and worked up to the proper tempo entirely at the Clavier. This study induces a power of mental oncontration and an ability to think rusic, that never comes at the plane, where the ear is relied upon to correct the mistakes of the fingers, mistakes that would never have been made had the pupil been forced to reply upon the brain and not the ear. When the riece in hand has been thoroughly carned at the Ciavier it is taken to the plano for the first time, give a brief summary of the advantages gained by the use of the Clavier save time; for more can be accom plished in one year by the use of the Clavier and the new method, than in three by the piano and the old methods. Then we can gain: A perfect techtic which is the foundation of an artist; a musical touch, great accuracy understood; she knows what she is to and a beautiful repose. Are not these the keynotes to the attainment of the Perlee V. Jervis.
