Frohman's New Company.

The comedy company that Charles Frohman has organized for permanent residence in the Madison Square theater, New York, presented "On and Off," a farce by Alexander Bisson, at the Ly ceum last night. To say that the rather small audience that saw last night's pro-duction was pleased is to state a fact very mildly.

The company contains a number of Charles Frohman's best comedy artists, many of whom have heretofore been seen in this city. E. M. Holland, Samuel Reed and Maggie Holloway Fisher, three of the leading members of the company were seen here last season in "Never Again," and Fritz Williams, another member, had the leading role in "O Sus-

It has been the ambition of Charles Frohman for several years to form a com-pany on somewhat similar lines to his Empire Theater company for the production of light comedies. This season he became the lersee of Hoyt's theater and at the Lyceum, will introduce an entirely new and efficient company and the same decided to return to the former name of the theater, the Madison Square. In this house on next Monday the company that wealth of scenic display and picturesque appeared at the Laceum last night will make its first appearance in New York and the critical theater-goers of that city of previous engagements. There will be a matinee Saturday. will have an opportunity of passing judg ment on the company and Bisson's latest farce. "On and Off." New Orange, N. J.

New Orange Industrial Association, 308 and 309 Mears

Gentlemen :- For months past I have heard and read a great deal about New Orange, so the other day, while in New York, I thought I would go out and see the property. I was very much pleased with the location and the plan set forth to improve the property. I can readily see that in the near future it will be a large and prosperous city. The plan of the company for improving and developing the property, all at their own expense, shows great wisdom and forethought and meets with my approval, and I have decided to invest in the
