"Mgr. Martinelli has received official confirmation of the appointment of Archbishop Chappelle as apostolic delegate to Cuba," says a Washington special, "It was stated at the apostolic delegation that the mission will be a brief one and that it would not b necessary to re-nominate a coadjutor to assist Mgr. Chappelle in the see of New Orleans. It was also learned that the pope in selecting Mgr. Chappelle not only wished to confer a favor of the American hierarchy, but he intended the appointment as an act of courtesy to the government of the United States. Archbishop Chappelle will return at once to this country and enter on his new duties in Cuba. It is believed that in about two months he will have affairs sufficiently adjusted to turn over the entire ecclesiantical authority to the recognized head of the Cuban hierarchy. While the ap-pointment of Mgr. Chappelle is peronally agreeable to his colleagues among whom he is a great favorite, the archbishops do not hesitate to say that they would have been better pleased had Mgr. Keane been seleted. Archbishop Kane, the former rector of the Catholic university, is the American representative of the Catholic hierarchy at Rome and is in close touch with the policies and aspirations of the American church." Henry 2. Fleming, secretary of the anthracity Coal Operators' association. fore he sailed for Europe explained e object of his journey. He is to go a the interests of the association with ne object in view of developing the market for anthracite coal abroad. The anthracits operators have had helr eyes on the European market or a number of years," said Mr. Flemag, "and our organization has had an use amount of correspondence with European dealers. In October, 1896, I made a report, which was printed in the Evening Post, showing that passenger steamships often burn from 2,500 to 3,000 tons during a passage lasting six to seven days."

The anthracite coal trade is in a stagnant condition, and while the op-rafors are of the opinion that the future vill be brighter the dealers are not s auguine and they do not look forward o any great change during the reof the year. The warm weather has acted as a drawback on the anthracite coal trade and many of the people who generally lay in their supply of winter coal early in the year have not yet done so. Wholesale prices are below the circular and it is stated that some operators are selling their coal for whatever they can get. The large. coal companies, especially at tide-water points, are maintaining prices

Once a newspaper man told me-and newspaper men know everything, you know-that the wickedest woman he ever met with in his experience was a little blondo with a baby face and the babiest of blue eyes. No one would invite the adrenturess we put on the stage into a brawing room. She couldn't deceive a evelopment of a market abroad. Since then I have been perfecting plans for personal inspection of the markets in all the large trade centres of Euope. I have orders to take as much time as necessary to get at the conditions which govern the trade. I shall to through England, France, Germany, weden, Norway, Russia, Italy and such other countries as look promising from a trading standpoint. The Authracite Coal Operators' association is backed by other great interests in the present effort at expansion. What these interests are I do not care to The Philadelphia and Reading callroad sold some anthracite coal abroad a number of years ago. Within the past seven or eight years the operations abroad have been confined to small lots, sold independently. This has not been profitable, owing to the freight rates, which are quite heavy. The chief competition comes from the Welsh collieries. But with a heavy trade under way, we in America would be able to compete with the Welsh coal miners in the countries which are far enough away from Wales to make the freight charges heavy. In Germany, for instance, we could sell steam sizes of anthracite coal at a figure which would be within range of the clees for the Welsh fuel. In that way t might be possible to compete for the steamship trade, which at present is a losed door to us, owing to the fact that the trans-atlantic liners cannot secure anthracite coal on the other side to use on their westward trip at a reasonable cost. In the general market, too, anthracite will always be at a disadvantage. As a luxury among people of the wealthier class, we think it probable that some exploitation of the commodity would result in a general increase in the demand. At all events, I shall take pains to find out why a foreign market is not possible, if it is not, and American interests cannot fail to be gainers to the extent of valuable information if in nothing Concerning the use of soft coal in Now York city, President Murphy, of the hoard of health, said the other day: "The use of soft coal in the metropolitan district will soon be a matter of history. We wish it understood that a violation of this ordinance against the use of soft coal calls for just as summary measures as the violation of any other ordinance, and we propos to use summary measures if necessary We will close a factory if necessary

Consul Jackson at La Rochelle Prance, informs the state department at Washington that, owing to the labor troubles in England, coal has gone up to $9.68 and $9.65 per ton and the supply is short. He thinks La Rochelle would be a good market for American coal.

The New York Commercial Advertiser says: "The amount of coal consumed by a vessel during a voyage depends very largely upon the speed, for the consumption of coal increases almost in geometrical ratio to the speed. There are many ships which burn from 100 to 300 tons of coal a day the lowest consumption being when the vessel is going at a moderate rate.
