A WORDY "SCRAP."

On Thursday night, when Comedian Kennedy came before the curtain at the Grand opera house to make his nocturnal announcement, he made reference to a traveling man who occupied a seat in the theatre and read a paper during the performance. Mr. Kennedy berated him for so doing, telling him that he did not possess any brains. The drummer made a poignant retort, saying: "Come down off the stage and apologize to the people for being The two indulged in a colloquy which, it must be said, was decidedly undignified for the actor to indulge in. The salesman left the theatre in disgust and waited until Kennedy came out to Hotel American, where he is stopping. Here a wordy scrap ensued, but the participants did not come to blows. Friends interceded and the drummer, who felt piqued, swears he will yet get even with the comedian.

NOT WORKING YESTERDAY.

TAYLOR NEWS.

Message from Porto Rico-Services at the Different Churches Tomorrow-Personal News.

Mr. Thomas Edmonds, a member of Company K, First regiment United States volunteers, stationed at Porto Rico, writes to his brother, William Edmonds, a popular young man of this place. The missive is dated September 20, and tells of life on the island and in graphic terms. Among other things he says: "I am getting along very nicely and receive plenty of food, though often times I go hungry. We are doing nothing here at present writing but laying around. We started from Guanics on August 7 at 9.50 a. m., and continued the march, which was very fatiguing, for it was our first attempt and as the country is very nountainous and the weather very warm, we were rather tired when we reached Youca the same day, where we camped for two days. When we broke camp and marched a distance of twenty miles to a town called Lan German, we expected to fall in with a band of Spaniards, but they thought it prudent to leave, for when we reached the place it was deserted and the natives were in a high state of excitement, for they expected same treatment off us as they did from those Spaniards. This is a very nice country, but what seems very strange is that we have two hours rain nearly every day. All of the Scranton boys are well."
