PHILIP J. MORGAN KILLED IN KLONDIKE REGION.

While Climbing Over a Log He Fell and a Revolver He Had in His Belt Was Discharged with Fatal Effect—St. Paul's Pioneer Corps Will Have Its Annual Banquet Tonight—Minor News Notes and Jottings of a Personal Character.

Mr. and Mrs. John P. Morgan, of 217 North Elmwood avenue, received a brief communication Saturday morning announcing the death of their son, Philip J. Morgan. The sad news came from a little town in the far-famed Klondike region and was written by their daughter, Mrs. Seth Jenkins. The address of this missive's intelligence is increased in manifold by its lack of descriptive information.

The reason for this is stated that a mail courier was just leaving for Dawson city and they barely had time to write a few lines. Further information will be forwarded by another mail. The letter is not even dated, save simply September, Tuesday, the sender having lost track of dates. It further states that young Morgan was out hunting with some friends and fell in climbing over a log. A heavy army revolver, which he carried suspended in a belt in front of him, was discharged. The bullet entered the groin.

He was carried back to the little town and such medical attention as could be obtained was called in. He lived ten days.

The young man would have been 22 years old in March next. He came to West Scranton from Wales with his parents, when but a lad. He was progressive, able and favorably known here. Shortly after his twenty-first birthday he left here with his brother-in-law, Seth Jenkins, and his sister, Mrs. Jenkins's wife. They first went to Seattle, where both men were ill for a month. Early in May all departed for Klondike. Since arriving they have staked out several valuable claims and very also running a dining hall. Mr. and Mrs. Morgan will endeavor to have the remains brought home for interment.

ST. PAUL'S BANQUET TONIGHT.

Twelve years ago the first annual banquet of St. Paul's Pioneer corps was held on this side on the evening of October 17. Active preparations have been made for the event by a committee comprising P. F. McCoy, chairman, W. T. Sullivan, secretary, and Walter McNicholas, P. J. Laferty and William Haskins.

The toasts which will follow and those to whom they are assigned are: "Young Men," Frank McLain; "Our Trip to Boston," T. A. McCoy; "St. Paul's of the Past," T. A. McCoy; "St. Paul's of the Future," J. J. Mahon.

Fashion's Ideas Have Matured.

There's no longer any doubt as to what is the correct thing to wear. Weaves, fabrics and shades have now been definitely passed on by a critical public, and their verdict is final, for, no matter what the designer, weaver or modiste may plan or scheme for women's delight, if their ideas fail to meet with popular approval, they have surely labored in vain.

For This and Other Reasons

For this and other reasons we would remark that further delays in the purchase of Fancy Dress Goods, Black Dress Goods and Seasonable Silks

Are useless. All the late deliveries have come to hand, and stocks are now

At Their Best.

In moderate priced materials all the other stocks in town combined will not compare with the line to be seen here, while in the finer fabrics and exclusive novelties, the cream of the world's best productions are to be found right in our fixtures, or exposed for the convenience of lookers, on our many show tables.

As to Prices?

Well, values were never better.

Interpersed throughout the programme will be solo and instrumental selections and a few impromptu addresses. This part of the exercises being at the option of the toastmaster. At the conclusion of the post-prandial exercises the banquet tables will be removed and dancing enjoyed. Joseph McDermott will act as pianist. The reception committee comprises M. J. Calkin, M. Coleman, T. J. McNamara, John Larkin and William Sullivan.

OLD SCHEDULE RESUMED.

During the past week it was found to be impossible to maintain a thirty-minute service on the North Main avenue or "Buffalo" line and the street railway officials were compelled to revert to the old forty-minute service schedule. The distance covered with the cars in service was too long for the shorter schedule.

The time of leaving now is 55 minutes after the odd hour and 15 and 35 minutes after the even hour, from the corner of Washington avenue and Spruce street. From Tripp's culvert, North Main avenue, the leaving time is 15 and 55 minutes after the even hour and 35 minutes after the odd hour. The old schedule was resumed Saturday morning.

Dunmore, Oct. 10, 1898.

Again the people of this town are startled, this time by the woman in black, who inhabits the dark streets and other lonely spots where people have to travel after dark. It is not women and girls alone who are the subjects of this person's assaults, but men are put to flight immediately at the sudden appearance of this ghostly object, dressed in black and with snow white face, which seems to come from nowhere, and as soon as the deed is committed, returns to its abode while the victim stands, terror stricken, unable to cry, or otherwise help himself. It does not confine itself to any particular spot. The early part of last week the vicinity of Apple street was the spot selected for carrying on this game of scare, and many were the subjects. This street, from Drinker, going north, is without a light, and makes an ideal spot for this person to carry on his pranks. The neighbors are afraid to leave their houses after dark for fear of being assaulted. If the person is wise he will stop his actions before it is too late, for sooner or later he is bound to come to grief.

A horse belonging to Mine Foreman James Wilson ran away Saturday afternoon and caused considerable excitement for a time. His son Joseph had gone to No. 3, a mineral spring in Pennsylvania coal company to bring his father home. Just after starting an axle broke, this frightened the horse, which is a frisky animal, and giving a leap he threw the occupants on the ground, and making a great buggy. The horse, without slackening its speed, kept on until it reached the barn. The only damage done was to the carriage, which will need a general overhauling.

The funeral of Miss Jennie M. Kelley, of Grove street, took place from the home of her parents Saturday afternoon and was largely attended. The Rev. A. J. Van Cleft, of the Methodist Episcopal church, preached the funeral sermon, which was a great tribute to the deceased. The remains were taken to the Dunmore cemetery where interment was made. The pallbearers were Garfield Angwin, George E. H. DeLong, J. J. Sweeney, Charles Correll and H. G. DeLong.

Watson Swingle, of Rigg street, who has been spending a few weeks with relatives in Kizertown, has returned home.

Edward Matthews, of Butler street, leaves this morning for New York where he will make his future residence.

James Gallagher was before Alderman Ruddy Saturday night on the charge of larceny by bailie, preferred by Martin Quinn. The defendant is a bartender in a central city saloon. Several weeks ago Quinn was there with a number of friends. He had a large amount of money with him and he gave Gallagher $20 to take care of. Within a few days he says he called on the bartender, asking for his money. He alleged that Gallagher gave him, but he told him that he had been "on a bit of a spree" the night before and used his money. Quinn was disgusted that he did likewise, and was arrested. He was sentenced to 30 days, or thirty days in the county jail. He sent for the bartender to assist him, but he came not. Friday his imprisonment ended, and upon his release he had the warrant issued. Gallagher, at the hearing, stated he refunded all money due the prosecutor. The alderman held him for his appearance at court.

RELIEF FROM PAIN.

Women Everywhere Express their Gratitude to Mrs. Pinkham.

Mrs. T. A. WALDEN, Gibson, Ga., writes: "DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Before taking your medicine, life was a burden to me. I never saw a well day. At my monthly period I suffered untold misery, and a great deal of the time I was troubled with a severe pain in my side. Before finishing the first bottle of your Vegetable Compound I could tell it was doing me good. I continued its use, also used the Liver Pills and Sanative Wash, and have been greatly helped. I would like to have you use my letter for the benefit of others."

Mrs. FLORENCE A. WOLFE, 518 Tullybury St., Lancaster, Ohio, writes: "DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—For two years I was troubled with what the local physicians told me was inflammation of the womb. Every month I suffered terribly. I had taken enough medicine from the doctors to cure anyone, but obtained relief for a short time only. At last I concluded to write to you in regard to my case, and can say that by following your advice I am now perfectly well."

Mrs. W. R. BATES, Hanfield, La., writes: "Before writing to you I suffered dreadfully from painful menstruation, leucorrhoea and sore feeling in the lower part of the bowels. Now my friends want to know what makes me look so well. I do not hesitate one minute in telling them what has brought about this great change. I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound enough. It is the greatest remedy of the age."

The guest of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Jones, of Brook street.

Miss Nellie Van Camp, of Dudley street, is indisposed at her home.

DEATH OF ISAAC FULLER.

For Years He Was One of New York State's Leading Editors.

Isaac Fuller, the veteran editor, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., died Saturday morning at the age of 85 years. He was a brother of Charles and George Fuller, both deceased, who were prominent in the early history of this city; and he was an uncle of E. P. Kingsbury.

Mr. Fuller visited Scranton many times and was well known. His public career covered the interesting period of the history of the United States, running from the days of Andrew Jackson down to the present. He was an intimate friend of William H. Seward, Thurlow Weed, Ed. Morgan, New York's famous war governor, and Reuben E. Fenton, also governor of the Empire state.

Between Mr. Fuller and Mr. Seward there always existed a warm friendship. He considered Mr. Seward the grandest statesman of contemporary history, and when the latter's ambition to become president was proclaimed he had no more enthusiastic supporter than Mr. Fuller, who was one of the leading spirits of the New York delegation that went to Chicago for the purpose of booming that candidacy. Fate decreed that the star of destiny should shine upon Abraham Lincoln.

Mr. Fuller was born February 21, 1812, at Bridgeport, Susquehanna county, where his parents had immigrated a short time before from Connecticut. He early displayed a literary turn of mind, and in 1830, at the age of 18, became the editor of the Independent Volunteer at Bridgeport. In 1832 he published at Montrose a four-cent weekly, which he went to Honesdale, where he became associated with Mr. Kingsbury, father of E. P. and H. A. Kingsbury, of this city, in the publication of the Wayne County Herald.

In the year 1837 he went to Seneca Falls, N. Y., where he became the editor of the Courier, which he conducted with much signal ability until 1865, when he gave up the editorship to accept a position in the government printing office at Washington. He was the grandest statesman of contemporary history, and when the latter's ambition to become president was proclaimed he had no more enthusiastic supporter than Mr. Fuller, who was one of the leading spirits of the New York delegation that went to Chicago for the purpose of booming that candidacy. Fate decreed that the star of destiny should shine upon Abraham Lincoln.

His first presidential vote was cast in 1836 for William Henry Harrison, who was defeated in that election, but became president four years later. In 1841 he was appointed postmaster of Seneca Falls, which he held four years. He was again appointed in 1851 by President Lincoln and was one of his first appointees. He resigned it in 1859 to go to Washington. He attended the first convention of the Republican party in 1856, when John C. Fremont was nominated for the presidency; and he was present at both nominations of Lincoln, and at the nomination of Blaine and Harrison. In 1858 he was elected clerk of Seneca county and was the only Republican ever chosen to that office. In 1863 and '64 Mr. Fuller was secretary of New York state Republican committee, and he called to order the convention that nominated Governor Fenton in 1865. Roseco Conkling was chairman of that convention.

Mr. Fuller watched the growth of modern journalism with much satisfaction and expressed himself a few years ago while on a visit to his nephew, E. P. Kingsbury, that the progress seems almost beyond human belief.

TECHNICAL ERRORS ALLEGED.

Demurrer to Impeachment Petition Was Filed.

The validity of the petition filed by C. M. DeLong in the impeachment proceedings against Alderman Kelly, of the Eighteenth ward, was attacked in a demurrer presented to court Saturday by Attorneys W. W. Baylor and O'Brien & Kelly, counsel for the accused.

It is claimed that the petition is defective inasmuch as it was addressed to the court generally, and not to a particular judge, as the law requires; that it was not signed by twenty "inhabitants" of the ward of the accused; that none of the signers were residents of the Eighteenth ward; that it was not sworn to before a person authorized to administer an oath, and, lastly, that the allegations were too vague to warrant judicial notice.
