WOULD HAVE SOME BEER.

If Not Produced Miss Fox Would Not Go on With Show,

Absence of beer almost cut the musical comedy "The Little Host" in two at the Lyceum Tuesday night. Della Fox, the star, absolutely refused to go on with the second and last act until she was furnished with a liberal portion of beer.

com at the end of the first act she ordered one of her attendants to bring her some of the favorite beverage of Gambrinus. The imitation booze I threw into during that first act has given me an awful thirst for something that will hit the spot, so make it a high one!" said the fair Della, as she slammed the door of her dressing room and began the task of arranging herself in a golf suit for the second act.

When she had finished her thirst was several degrees stronger and she demanded to know with some warmth why the beer she ordered was not

Her attendant informed her that the ules of the theater were very strict on that point; that no intoxicants of any kind are allowed on the stage.

"Then I can't get any beer" quietly

Well I know that I won't leave here and that I'll have that beer or this show will go no further," and rhe sat down with an air of quiet determina-

Manager Long was sent for and urgd Miss Fox to be rensible and proceed with the show. She maintained that she was entirely ensible, but any person who would deny another a much-needed glass of stimulating beverage could hardly be ermed the most sensible of beings. Nothing could move her from her deermination not to go on with the show and rather than disappoint the audience a sufficient quartity of beer to assuage Miss Fox's plentitude of thirst was obtained and the show went on. This little incident accounts for the eighteen minute wait between acts one and two.

ADDRESS OF COL.

PATTIE LINDSAY

DELIVERED IN GRACE RE-FORMED CHURCH.

She Said That She Felt She Was at When Della retired to her dressing Home in Scranton-Had a Kind Word to Say About Captain Forest Who Is in Charge of the Work of the Volunteers of America in This City-Other Speakers Who Were Heard.

> Grace Reformed Episcopal church was crowded, last evening, to welcom Lieutenant Colonel Patty Watkins-Lindsay, of the American Volunteers The meeting was full of enthusiasm and interest. Captain Forrest, of the local corps, presided. Captain Thompson, of New York, offered prayer, after which Colonel Patty Lindsay was in-

She felt, she said, that she was at home in Scranton. In the other states and over the country, when asked where is her home, she always says Scranton, Pennsylvania," She felt a degree of reluctance in singing in Scranton, where there were so many fine voices, and neither her voice nor er strength are what they once were, but her listeners had no word of criticism for the sweet, rarely modulated notes, nor for the earnest girl with her flashing dark eyes and radiant face as she stood and sang a hymn to the ex-quisite air of "Oh, I Have Sighed to Rest Me." from "Il Trovatore." It is a great treat to hear her sing, and those present last evening fully appreciated the privilege Lieutenant Colonel Lindsay read Scriptural lesson, and then Colonel Lindsay spoke of Scranton and her ever-present feeling that she would like to be back here doing the work she once did.

ABOUT CAPTAIN FORREST. "Captain Forest," she said, "is a man who is thoroughly the Lord's, one who has been spared to Scranton in the hope that he will accomplish a glorious work here. A great many cannot be reached in the congregations in this vay, but the captain knows other ways. He will do good for this church and for all the churches. We want you to stand by us, not your money alone, but your prayers, your influence, your spiritual help. Captain Forrest is a hardworking man and has a wife who can help in the work. I shall look forward to real practical results in Scranton."

Captain Forrest spoke briefly in preciation of the kind words of the colonel. He is a man of fine appearance and of education and intelligence He made a strong plea for an offering for the Volunteers.

Lieutenant Colonel Lindsay played "Men of Harlech" on the cornet, with an organ accompaniment, also by himself-a most remarkable feat. Captain Forrest asked for subscriptions to the 'rent league" to pay the $60 per month for the rent of the new quarters on Spruce street. Colonel Lindsay then told a pathetic when a rumor had gone out that the brought her a basket of provisions. The rumor had been false bu it brought out the tender generosity of he Scranton people, and she believed ally make sacrifices, but the Lord altering blessed sunshine through the

CAPTAIN CHIPWAY SANG. Captain Chipway, of Wilkes-Barre, sang a baritone solo. Colonel Lindsay followed with a solo, "List to the Savier Calling," a song that has been heard all over the country, and as she has sung it, the hearts of her listeners have been moved to a marvelous degree. Colonel Lindsay then made brief temarks on the work. It was annumed that Colonel Lindsay will speak at noon today at the Young Women's rooms.

> they are. The teachers were allowed to debate and vote co-equal with the members of the committee. A motion was made by Prof. Ketrick that one examination in the school building every three months and two at the high school should be all the examinations required. There was a majority against that, The principals as a rule did not think that an examination every month would be too much of a nervous strain and a motion that this number be held was carried. There was a question, too, whether it would be too much to bring the high school for three of the ten examinations. John Gibbons thought it would do them good to see the new high school building and get inspirtion from it. If the objection was raised that it was too much to bring them it be, asked Mr. Gibbons, after they is unsafe and liable to topple at any are admitted to the high school and

So it was decided that there will be taken out and stored somewhere else, ten examinations in the term, seven but it will prevent the company from in the respective buildings and the other three in one class at the high school. The average to be attained lower than which the pupil falls, was fixed at 65 per cent. And there be a uniform credit mark for all the schools. Superintendent Howell will prepare and issue the questions. Prof. Ketrick, Miss Penman and Prof. Hawker were appointed a committee to examine any pupils who through sickness or any other sufficient cause, are unable to attend the regular examinations.

Prof. Stone, Prof. Cruttenden and Prof. Owens were selected to codify the rules and will meet tomorrow evening with the committee and submit them for approval.
