HE LOST HIS PARENTS.

The Sad Plight of a Young Slavonian.

It will not be due to any neglect on the part of Station Superintendent White and Special Officer Spellman, of the local station of the Delaware and Hudson railroad, if Joseph Guropek and his aged parents, who became separated at Cincinnati, Ohio, two weeks ago, are not reunited. For several days the young man, who is a Slavonian, has been eagerly awaiting the arrival of trains that connect with trains from the west. Joseph White and Spellman learned from him that on Oct. 6 he and his parents reached Cincinnati from a town in Texas. They were en route for Scranton, and while awaiting an east-bound train the father and mother were separated from their son. Joseph remained at the station awaiting their return. While there, a station policeman approached him, making inquiries as to his destination. He not being able to make himself understood, was bound on a train, and landed in this city. He had his ticket, fortunately, and his parents theirs. Superintendent White notified the police department yesterday and every effort will be made to locate the missing ones. Guropek offered every cent he had, $2.50, to his new friends to assist them in their endeavors.

FUNERAL OF JOHN EDINGER.

Given a Military Burial at Stroudsburg Yesterday Afternoon.

Another member of the Thirtieth regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry, was laid to rest yesterday.

Previous to the hour set for the services the remains were viewed by friends as they lay in state at his home.

The hymn selections were sung by the Zethus quartette. A passage of Scripture was read by Rev. S. D. Apple, pastor of St. John's Lutheran church. Prayer was offered by Rev. E. C. Hilsman, of the Reformed church. R. T. Hutchinson sang a solo "Saved by Grace." The funeral sermon was preached by Rev. S. D. Apple, pastor of the Presbyterian church. It was a masterly effort and paid a tribute of respect and love to the memory of the deceased.

Prayer was offered by Rev. E. C. Hilsman and after another anthem, the benediction was given. The remains were then borne to the Stroudsburg cemetery where the military burial service was conducted.

A firing squad from Company D, Thirtieth regiment, of which deceased was a member, fired the volley of three rounds. Taps were sounded by the Enterprise band.

The pallbearers were members of the same Sabbath school class in Elm Park church of this city, where deceased attended, and were: Frank DeLong, S. McCracken, Silas B. Walters, R. Richards, A. Brown and W. Lewis. The floral offerings were beautiful and numbered over thirty emblematic pieces, exclusive of bouquets, etc.

Many persons from Scranton and Wilkes-Barre attended the funeral. From the Lackawanna laundry where deceased was employed, were: Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Warrman, H. A. Hewitt, E. L. Hughes, C. W. Bertine, Joseph Mulroy, and Mrs. M. E. Purdick. Frank Donnelly, W. Milnes, F. Crump, William Newhart and Charles Sicker. The detail from the Thirtieth regiment comprised: Sergeants Robert Vail and L. Hisebe, Corporal Charles Geary, Privates W. Stupp, Harry Smith, all of Company D, and Private William Marvin, of Company H.

A magnificent floral piece was sent by the employees of the Lackawanna laundry, where Edinger was employed before the regiment left the city.

POLITICAL JOTTINGS.

J. Mahlen Barres, of Philadelphia, the candidate of the Socialist-Labor party for governor, and an object of much interest near the residence of John Barschell on South Main avenue last night.

Barschell is the party's candidate for congress in this district. The Taylor band was present and rendered several selections. H. C. Parker, of Philadelphia, and Mr. K. H. H. Purdick, chairman, also made addresses. A meeting under the auspices of the same party was held in Workmen's hall, South Scranton, last evening. George H. H. Parker, of Philadelphia, spoke.

Commonwealth John H. Walker, of the Fifth ward, was out for re-election. His first term as representative is drawing to a close and his record is thus far an enviable one. Acting in hearty sympathy with the new candidate, Richard H. Williams, of the select branch, he has done much for his constituents.

A large Republican mass meeting was held last night in Edwards' hall, Blakely. Charles W. Williams was chairman and addresses were delivered by Layton M. Schoch and R. Zimmerman, of this city, and L. S. Quick, of Dunmore.

The West Side Republican league and West Side Central Republican club are taking an active interest in the campaign. Both have appointed campaign committees, the members of which are hard at work.

DEMOCRATIC STATE CANDIDATES HERE

DELIVERED ADDRESSES AT THE ARMORY LAST NIGHT.

There Was an Audience of About Twelve Hundred Persons Present to Hear the Issues of the Campaign Discussed by George Jenks and William Sowden, Candidates for Governor and Lieutenant Governor Respectively—Short Address by Captain P. DeLacy and Hon. P. J. Hughes.

George Jenks, Democratic candidate for governor, and William Sowden, candidate for lieutenant governor, were in the city last night and addressed a mass meeting at the armory. There were about 1,200 persons present. Addresses were also delivered by Captain P. DeLacy, of this city, Democratic candidate for internal affairs, and Hon. P. J. Hughes, of Philadelphia.

Hughes is not with the candidates on their junketing tour. He was at Wilkes-Barre attending the convention of Democratic clubs and came here by invitation of County Chairman Fitzsimmons. Last night's was the first speech delivered by him during the present campaign.

It was 8:10 o'clock when the Jenks party arrived at the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western station. They had spent the day in Susquehanna county, conducting two meetings, one at Montrose and the other at Friendsville. Captain DeLacy and Richard J. Beamish being among the speakers at the latter place. In the party were Candidates Jenks, Sowden and DeLacy, Dr. C. Van Arsdale, of Ashbourne, and James Israel, of the Pittsburgh Dispatch. H. P. Wilson, of the Philadelphia Record; R. G. Goshorn, of the Pittsburgh Post, and H. S. Fogel, of the Philadelphia Ledger.

They were met at Alford junction by a reception committee of local Democrats who went up on the 5:50 train. On this committee were Cornelius Comey, A. B. Dunning, E. J. Lynett, City Solicitor M. A. McKinley, P. J. Neale, J. M. Corbett, Hon. M. P. Sande, E. J. Robinson, William Ehrhardt, City Treasurer C. G. Boland, M. W. Cummings, D. B. Replogle, J. J. Kelly and School Controller Dennis Roche.

Hughes' bow of an arrow of about two hundred persons were at the station and quietly looked on while the candidates, speakers and committee members were being loaded into carriages. Boys stationed at intervals along the streets set off roman candles and red fire, and at the business places red fire was burned.

Inside the armory there was a good sized gathering, possible 1,200, and when the candidates appeared on the platform there was a brief round of applause. Mayor Bailey, Edward McFerrill, Messrs. Lynett, Cummings, Comey, Fitzsimmons and Sande sat with the candidates on the platform.

Mr. Sande, when introduced by Colonel Fitzsimmons "as the chairman of the meeting and the only Democrat here," was given a hearty cheer. He contended himself with an acknowledgment of the committee's favor in naming him as chairman, and introduced Captain DeLacy as the first speaker.

The captain was given a rousing ovation by his fellow townsmen. It was the first display of real enthusiasm so far in the evening's proceedings. He confined himself to thanking his neighbors for their reception and retired after saying he wanted, like them, to hear his colleagues.

MR. JENKS INTRODUCED. Mr. Jenks was then introduced and was received with loud and hand-clapping. He spoke for about three quarters of an hour. His delivery is quick and continued. He speaks in a low, soft voice and argues rather than orates.

He began by asserting that the sovereignty of this state had been transferred from the people to a few men, and that an opportunity was now at hand for them to re-assess their sovereignty. The action of the Quakers, Mr. Jenks went on to say, in attempting to foist the war, the tariff and the money question upon the people as state issues, was simply for the purpose of diverting attention from the real issues, the mismanagement of the affairs of this state by the Republican or Quay administration.

The three questions mentioned are in no way relevant to the present controversy. To have an issue there must be a dispute. There is no dispute about the war and therefore it is not an issue. The tariff cannot be an issue while there is a Republican in power. The money question, unless there should be a Democratic two-thirds majority in the senate, and in the light of present circumstances it is vain to discuss the tariff as an issue. The money question, controlled as it is, solely by Federal enactment, can not be a state issue.

Then proceeding to deal with what he claimed were the real issues, Mr. Jenks presented an analysis of the Republican's "boasted" system of taxation by which, he said, they would have the people believe they took the taxes off the land and saddled it on the corporations, but which in fact is not at all what it appears to be on the surface, for when examined it is shown that it limits the tax on corporations to five mills on the dollar, while the individual property-holder pays on the average fifteen mills, and in large cities as high as twenty. Under the better Democratic regime which Pennsylvania enjoyed all property was taxed alike.

UNUSUALLY SERIOUS. The coming election he characterized as an unusually serious affair and admonished every man to do his full duty, as a member of this great partnership.

Republicanism, he said, had some principles tending to the good of the common people, but Quyanism, which now embraces the Republican party of Pennsylvania, is solely self-seeking. He would not charge Quay with any dishonesty, he said, because he had no evidence against him. He would say, however, that in the last legislature laws were "held up" until it was seen "what the old man thought of them."

How it was possible for Quay to have been elected from this assembly of legislation was then explained at length by the speaker. The right of suffrage is sheer nonsense while this kind of thing is going on, he declared.

His only direct reference to the bolting Republicans was a remark that a third of the party was in revolt and while they may be selfish, they are very much in earnest.

After telling his hearers that it was their duty to vote for him, he concluded by saying: "Do your duty, and you will be free men within a year; fall and you will continue slaves of a machine, conscienceless as Satan is."

SOWDEN'S REMARKS. Mr. Sowden, after removing his collar and tie and loosening up his shirt-front, all of which provoked a cheer, proceeded to show how the Democrats win in this state every eight years and that their last victory being in 1890, they were due to win this year. He made comparisons of Pattison's administration, regarding the expenses of government, and then dealt out a lot of Swallow thunder in quite as forcible a manner as does the doctor himself.

"Colonel Stone, at Williams Grove, said the Republican party should not be held responsible for all laws that were introduced at the last session, it is the duty of the people to hold such laws as were passed," said Mr. Sowden. "Governor Hastings, in Philadelphia, said that the recent legislature passed the most obnoxious and oppressive laws and he, the governor, introduced a veto in one hundred and ninety-three of them."

In concluding, he paid a fitting tribute to Captain DeLacy and his record as a soldier and citizen, which met with hearty applause.

The last speaker of the evening was Hon. Peter J. Hughes, of Philadelphia, the man who headed the nomination of Captain DeLacy at Altoona. Owing to the lateness of the hour he spoke for less than ten minutes. He maintained that if the Democrats set out their course in Pennsylvania this year they will win.

WANAMAKER'S AMBITION.

Would Overthrow Quay That He May Advance to Position and Power—The Secret of His Reform Movement.

Hon. Peter J. Hughes, of Philadelphia, who is in the city for the first time since he became a magistrate of the city of Philadelphia, he was known to the city as a political writer of the state, his long experience as a newspaper man in Philadelphia and as the Harrisburg correspondent of papers of that city giving him unusual advantages for obtaining inside information about politics and the men who direct them. He was asked for his opinion about the strength of the Swallow movement by a Tribune reporter yesterday, he said:

"The Swallow movement is peculiar in one respect. The doctor appears to be effecting it in spots. He is stronger in a community or a very insignificant factor. In this part of the state I perceive that he has a good sized following and I would not be surprised if the northeastern part of Pennsylvania would give him more votes this year than last. In other portions of the state his vote will be much smaller.

"It is a matter of some surprise to me that the people of Pennsylvania are not more in favor of a Republican reformer. As a reformer he is not honest, neither is John Wanamaker. This will be demonstrated if they ever reach positions of power. I don't think they will, however.

"Mr. Wanamaker is posing as a reformer now because he thinks that's a good way to dethrone Quay and make his way to a seat in the United States senate. No man in Pennsylvania has done more than Mr. Wanamaker to debauch politics and those who have been in close touch with politics of this state for ten years know that this is true.

"He is trying to carry water on both shoulders in this campaign. In all of his speeches he is very careful to denounce the Republican party and always has been and is merely engaged in the disagreeable task of rooting bad spots out of the party. Why does he talk in that strain? Merely to keep his political record straight. He wants to create a following for himself, but keep inside the party breakers working himself. If he doesn't vote for Colonel Stone for governor I will miss my guess.

"It would be embarrassing for Mr. Wanamaker to go before a Republican legislature and ask to be sent to the United States senate if it should appear that he had voted against the candidates of his party. That accounts for his feverish desire to keep within party lines and by raising the standard of revolt overthrow the man he believes stands between him and position and power.

"Mr. Wanamaker believes that Pennsylvania Republicans ought to have a new leader and he is anxious that John Wanamaker be the man."

ORDINANCE FOR REPAIR OF ASPHALT PAVES PASSED.

It is Now Ready to Receive the Signature of the Mayor—Council Is to do Some More Investigating—Ordinance Was Introduced by Edward James, Jr., Providing for the Annexing of a Portion of Lackawanna Township to the City—Century Building Condemned.

At the meeting of the select council last night the Keller ordinance for repairing the asphalt paved streets of the city was restored to its original shape and passed on third reading. It is ready for the mayor's signature.

At the last meeting of the select council the ordinance came over from the common number of amendments were offered by John E. Roche, which, he said, would tend to make the provisions of the ordinance more clear and render it less likely to have holes punched in it by astute lawyers.

George Sanderson last night moved to reconsider action on the amendments made at the previous meeting by Mr. Roche, and this suggestion was carried out. Mr. Roche said he offered the amendments in good faith because he believed they would improve the ordinance. He believes so yet, but it was suggested to him that his action might cause a delay in making the necessary repairs and he was therefore willing that his amendments should be reconsidered.

NOT ENOUGH MONEY. Building Inspector Nelson reported that $750 is not enough to make the necessary repairs on the Neptune Engine building and that $250 additional be appropriated.

A statement from the city controller showed that the net indebtedness of the city is $416,520.53.

The common council resolution directing that the office of the chief of police be opened on Friday, Oct. 21, until 6 p. m. was killed by a vote of 10 to 11.

Simon Thomas, chairman of the fire department committee, reported favorably on a set of rules for the government of the fire department committee. Consideration of them was deferred until the next meeting.

An ordinance was introduced by Finlay Ross for paving East Market street from the Lackawanna river to the Boulevard, as situated below. Other ordinances introduced were: Regulating excavations in paved streets and avenues; for the construction of a sewer on the northerly side of Oxford street.

A resolution directing the city engineer to run grade lines on Elmore avenue between Washburn and Jackson streets in the Fifth ward.

An ordinance for the paving of Breck court with sheet asphalt passed on third reading.

The Celebration of the Year at Philadelphia, Oct. 25 to 27. All patriotic citizens should attend this mammoth Peace Jubilee.

The Lehigh Valley railroad will make HALF RATES TO PHILADELPHIA for this occasion. Tickets will be sold Oct. 24 to 27; return limit Oct. 31, and will be honored on any of the numerous trains, except the Black Diamond Express.

An Impressive Naval Review, Civil, Industrial and military parade, unveiling of the Grant Equestrian Monument in beautiful Fairmount park. Dedication of the Restored Independence Hall. Grand Juvenile Chorus, will be some of the interesting features of the three days' celebration.

President McKinley and his Cabinet. The Governors of the Original Thirteen States.

Lieutenant Commander Wainwright. The hero, Hobson, and many others of distinction are expected to be in attendance.

Consult Lehigh Valley Ticket Agents for full particulars.

ANNEXATION ORDINANCE.

Edward James, Jr., of the Sixth ward, introduced an ordinance for annexing a part of Lackawanna township to the city of Scranton. The district which it is proposed to take into the city is as follows: The present line between the city and township is to be extended from the corner of South Main road to a corner in the line between Lackawanna and Ransom townships; thence by said township line south, forty-one degrees and fifty minutes west three thousand and seven hundred and twenty feet to a corner
