

THIRTEENTH IS IN PHILADELPHIA

LEFT CAMP MEADE IN A DRENCHING RAIN STORM.

Cars in Which the Boys Journeyed to Philadelphia Were Unprovided with Either Heat or Light. Thirteenth Is Quarters in a Sugar Refinery on South Street—They Are Far Removed from the Center of the City—Well Received by Philadelphians.

Special to the Scranton Tribune. Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 26.—Philadelphians are jubilee-mad and soldier-mad. The Third brigade arrived here in three sections at 8 o'clock this evening after having reached the city limits soon after 5 p. m. Delays were interminable and annoying.

The first section consisted of the brigade commander, staff and orderlies and six companies of the Eighth and staff; the Second of the remaining four companies of the Eighth, the Thirteenth's staff and the First battalion under Major Wood, and the third section of the Second battalion of the Thirteenth under Major Fellows and a battalion of the Fifteenth Minnesota. It rained heavily this morning when the troops were leaving camp and the men had a hard time in making the march to the depot.

The transportation facilities afforded by the Pennsylvania railroad were little less than execrable, on arriving at the sidings in the morning and after having waded already three miles through heavy, muddy roads, and under a drenching rain, the men had to stand the test for over an hour more, waiting for a train. The cars were without heat and in many cases without light, though it was dark at five o'clock and the trip was not completed till a quarter after eight.

The boys were disgusted and to add to this feeling they are quartered in a sugar refinery on South street, next to Gloucester ferry. The whole brigade is there and the men do not like their surroundings. They are right on the Delaware river, too far removed from the central city and in a poor location.

They were well received on reaching their destination. The people generously provided coffee and some bread, which were acceptable, as the boys were cold and had not eaten anything since morning. By some mistake the Second battalion arrived before the First, and Major Fellows thoughtfully allowed the boys to go out and get a warm meal, to report for roll call at twelve o'clock tonight. The trip was uneventful, but was made in safety, and all the members of the Thirteenth are well.

Autumn Waists

Paris, London and New York tributes to beauty's service, gets first mention this week. A cosmopolitan exhibit shown together and each content in the association of the others for none but the best of each are here.

That "Paris sets the styles" is mostly theory, partly truth; but the time is past when she alone carries them into effect. Evidence here that New York copies her to an extent but rivals her even more.

A hundred silk waists here; some of our own importing, some from New York, and among these latter some with touches of our own originality in their ensemble's sweetness.

A decidedly "chic" waist for $4.98; the other extreme is $10.00, with plenty of medium beauty prices between these limits.

Are you interested? Learn here how much beauty trained taste and adroit hands can produce for how little.

Boas and Short Furs

The season of evening parties and decollete gowns is at hand. A boa or short cape of fur for one's neck is a protection against October coolness and colder conditions to come. Beside they loan a charm to one's attire not produced by any other sort of garment, not even the much vaunted opera cloak. Boas of ostrich feathers in various colors, and a display of short furs from American and foreign designers. Just as attractive, too, in price as in beauty.

ROYAL Baking Powder

Made from pure cream of tartar. Safeguards the food against alum.

Alum baking powders are the greatest menaces to health of the present day.

and uneventful day in camp, which condition was due to the fact that the boys are hard at work in their tents polishing up leather and brass, cleaning their guns and best clothes, and anxiously discussing what kind of a time they are likely to have while in Philadelphia. This morning short drills were held, and practices had in marching. The chief stress next to keeping straight lines, was laid on the idea of sustaining a fast, regular step. D company, in command of Captain Gillman, took a trip to the celebrated "Giant's Cave," and was accompanied part of the way by the band, which marched to Hummelstown.

Yesterday Major Stillwell for the First, and Major Wood for the Second battalion made a tour of the company streets, and were well satisfied with the general appearance and cleanliness of the men's quarters. The kitchens also were satisfactory. Soon afterwards Major Surgeon Keller made the circuits, and gave orders that around every tent a ditch three or four inches deep, should be dug and the loose clay banked up under, and level with the surface of the tent floors.

MUSTER DAY. The last of the month is muster day, and the pay rolls of all the companies are made out and signed. There is one thing about the coming pay day which makes that usually happy occasion doubly desirable. Some time ago a general order from the office of the adjutant general was issued by virtue of which all enlisted men are to be paid for the time which intervened between the date of their being called out and that of their being sworn into the service of the United States. In the case of the Pennsylvania troops now here this would mean a payment for fourteen days, or the time which elapsed between April 27th and May 12th, both days inclusive.

It is true that the men were paid by the state of Pennsylvania for that time, but it is the general understanding of the order that the United States will, nevertheless, pay the men as they were, at least constructively, in the service of the Federal Government from the moment they were called out as a National Guard—that is, those of them who volunteered and successfully passed the physical examination. This would mean $2.25 extra for privates, $3.40 for corporals, and $10.65 for sergeants. The pay rolls have been made out in view of this extra payment, and the boys are delighted at the prospect of getting it.

Lieutenant John W. Benjamin, of H, has once more been detailed as acting commander of G company, relieving Lieutenant Roberts of B. Private Elmer Freeman, of A, who had served his twenty days at Division Hospital, to which he was detailed as an assistant nurse, has been detailed again for ten days to serve in the same capacity.

Privates Egelson and Kimble, of E, returned to camp yesterday after having spent a few days on furlough visiting friends in Duquesne. Chief Musician Sergeant T. H. Miles, has had a very artistic band suit just made for himself by Private Gawlus of C. All that is missing is the harp on the front of the cap.

Private George Davis, of A, has been again removed for treatment to the Hospital. He is suffering from a rather persistent attack of acute rheumatism. Corporals August Moore and Austin Hartman, of A, yesterday entertained Miss Graham and Miss Kaunkel, of Harrisburg.

Private Jacob Sohn, of B, who at one time was reported as dead, was welcomed back to camp by the boys of his company last night. After he had recovered from the fever, he was granted a thirty-day furlough, and now looks quite well.

Private Thomas Casey, of D, who was taken sick at Dunn Loring and placed in the Division Hospital there over two months ago, returned to his company last night, and is now in good health.

Private Charles Krom, of C, was in camp last night on his way home from the Fort Myer Hospital where he was confined as a typhoid patient for two months. He has been given a thirty-day furlough.

GETTING AWAY FROM CAMP. Troops Had All Started for Philadelphia Before 3 p. m.

By Associated Press. Camp Meade, Middletown, Pa., Oct. 26.—It required sixteen trains with twelve cars to the train to take the troops from Camp Meade to Philadelphia and the movement commenced this morning early. General Graham, with Generals Young and Davis and their staffs, were in the first train with detachments of the engineer and signal corps. The men marched from their various camps in heavy marching order with blanket, poncho, haversack and canteen, and in the rain they did not seem to be very happy over the prospect. Surgeon General Gilman has assurances that the boys will be cared for in the Quaker City. Thirty-six men suffering from fevers were removed from the Red Cross and divisional hospitals to Lancaster and Reading today, where they will be cared for in city hospitals.

Up to the present there have been no orders received to muster out the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Pennsylvania regiments, and there is doubt at headquarters whether such orders will be received very soon. While at camp yesterday Governor Bushnell hinted that efforts will be made to have the Tenth Ohio mustered out as about half of the men want to go home.

The four Pennsylvania regiments and the battalions from remnants from other states at Camp Meade were all safely on their way to the Philadelphia peace jubilee by three o'clock this afternoon. They were in the cars shortly after noon and stood for some time. Assistant Superintendent Abercrombie said that the delay along the line would be trifling and he expected that all of the trains would be in Philadelphia by eleven o'clock tonight.

MR. CONNELL MAKES A REFUTATION

I do not think we contemplate doing any such thing."

Mr. Connell was frequently interrupted by applause, and as he walked to his seat there was a repetition of the ovation that he followed his introduction by Chairman Charles W. Dawson. Attorney A. A. Voburg was the next speaker. With his pithy arguments and ready wit he kept the audience alternating between applause and laughter from the outset to the end. He made a strong appeal for an old-time Republican majority in the North End for Congressman Connell, who "sat in the congress during our country's recent trying period and was not found wanting in the weighing." He also appealed for united support for the whole ticket, and in reference to Judge Gunster, said, "I was criticized for my advocacy of his nomination. If I had it to do over again I would make my nominating speech more emphatic. Every day my admiration for the man grows. I studied in his office. I have practiced before him for ten years. I know the man thoroughly and I challenge anybody to place his finger on a discredit-able spot in his career."

MR. FARR INTRODUCED. "One of the greatest benefactors of the state of Pennsylvania," was the introduction with which Chairman Dawson presented to the audience the next speaker, Hon. John H. Farr. Mr. Farr argued that it was impossible to separate a great state like Pennsylvania from the nation and asked how this state could wish to separate itself from the party that made it great. He then contrasted the history of the two great parties, and concluded with the remark that "it is no wonder the Democrats want to banish national issues from this campaign."

Dealing with the state issues Mr. Farr reviewed the beneficent results of Republican control of the affairs of this state, the wiping out of the state debt, the removal of state tax from real estate and placing it on the shoulders of the corporations and the like and taking up the charges that the enemies of his party are hurling against its officials, said that the whole affair was a base conspiracy to prevent the re-election of Senator Quay even though it wrecked the party. It began two years ago when a paid committee of the malcontents established itself in Harrisburg "to raise a hue and cry" as one of its members unwittingly said. They seized upon little things, enlarged them and sent them broadcast. Then charges were crystallized by Dr. Swallow and promulgated boldly. He was called upon to prove them but would not. He was arrested for criminal libel and convicted. Despite this vindication of those whom he so recklessly and wantonly maligned he still has the temerity to ask people to believe them.

THE OTHER SPEECHES. Brief speeches were also made by Major Everett Warren and Hon. James M. Evans, of Sharon, Pa.; Major Warren argued against the notion that this is an off year and the cry of the Democrats that there are no national issues at stake in Pennsylvania. In the first regard he said that every year is an "on" year. Right is right by always a small margin that we must be always up and doing. As to the matter of divorcing national issues from the present campaign he made the pointed query: "When did Pennsylvania secede from the union?" The dilatory tactics of the crafty Spaniards of the peace commission are his contrast for, he said, by the assumption that they are waiting to see the result of state elections; to see if Mr. McKinley's policy is meeting with the approval of the people. The election in Pennsylvania, he contended, therefore, embraced not only national, but international issues.

Mr. Evans made a ringing speech on both national and state issues and met with the same hearty reception that marked his former appearances in Hyde Park and Taylor.

FATAL FOOT BALL PRACTICE.

Mathew Anderson, of Wyoming Seminary, Dies of Injuries. Wilkes-Barre, Oct. 26.—Mathew P. Anderson, a student at Wyoming seminary, Kingston, and a member of the seminary foot ball team, died last night from injuries received while playing foot ball. Anderson played with the seminary team against Dickinson at Carlisle last Saturday and was injured. He complained of pains in the head and his mind appeared to be affected. When he returned to the seminary he was much better and yesterday afternoon he went out on the field to practice. While at play he became unconscious and had to be carried to his room. Doctors Rogers and Byron were summoned, but they could afford no relief and the patient slowly sank until death came to his relief. Anderson was 23 years of age and a fine specimen of physical manhood. His home was in Crenshaw, Jefferson county. After viewing the body, Coroner McKee gave a permit for its removal to the home of the deceased.

Miss Allen Married. Lowell, Mass., Oct. 25.—Miss Louise Allen, daughter of Hon. Charles H. Allen, assistant secretary of the navy, was married today to Alexander P. Hobbs. The ceremony took place at the Allen home, and only the relatives and the immediate friends were present.

My baby sister had a rash, causing her intense suffering. We had doctors, but tried everything, without a cure. It would scab over, crack open, a watery matter would ooze out and the scab fall off. We procured a box of CUTICURA (ointment), a cake of CUTICURA SOAP, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, and she was entirely cured without a scar being left.
