THEY SOUGHT GOLD IN VAIN

TWO PARTIES OF KLONDIKERS RETURN TO VANCOUVER.

They Prospected More Than 400 Miles of Territory—Found Traces of Gold, but the Metal Was Nowhere in Sufficient Quantities to Pay for Panning Out—A Journey of 1,300 Miles for Nothing—The Experience of an Explorer.

Vancouver, B. C., Oct. 26.—The party of prospectors headed by Garden of Fresno and the White party of Michigan, comprising fifty persons, has returned here empty handed, over the Edmonton trail from the Peace river country, after having travelled 1,300 miles through rough country and having undergone many hardships.

They prospected twenty-eight creeks and rivers, more than 400 miles of territory. They found evidence of gold everywhere, but not anywhere was the metal in sufficient quantities to pay.

The much-boomed Peace River country was disappointing. Hundreds of Americans are coming back over the trail.

John Mackenzie tells a story of an unknown prospector being killed by a grizzly bear two months ago on the trail. Another of Mackenzie's stories related to the disastrous trip of Major Moody of the northwest mounted police, who was sent out by the Dominion government to discover an all-land route to the Klondike by way of Edmonton.

One of Major Moody's guides was frozen to death. Two others deserted him at difficult points on the trail, his outfit was burned by bush fires and for two days he travelled on short rations. When Mackenzie last heard from him the major was pushing on pluckily north of Fort Graham. It is more than a year since Major Moody started on his journey. He has still several months' more hard work before he reaches the Klondike, if ever he does reach it.

IN THE PLAY HOUSES.

"Alabama" Presented Last Night.

That pretty southern play "Alabama" was presented at the Academy of Music last night before a large audience by the New England Stock Dramatic company.

This afternoon "Jim the Penman" will be repeated and tonight "Trilby" will be the attraction.

"Laughter Cures All Ills."

It is not difficult to analyze the great success achieved by H. A. Du Souchet's comedy "My Friend From India" which has set all the world a talking. Its plot is novel, its theme is new, its dialogue refreshing, and as a whole it is a laughing vehicle that is not easily duplicated; as to its consistency—well, to analyze that would be a task of too great an undertaking. What matters it anyhow? The expectation of the author is fully realized—that of making us laugh, and the most eminent physicians will not deny that laughter is the "cure of all ills." "My Friend from India" will be seen this evening and the patrons of the Lyceum may feel assured of the quality of its merry-making. It will be preserved by a sterling company, organized under the personal supervision of its managers, Smyth & Rice, all of whom are especially fitted for their respective parts.

Morrison In "Faust."

"Pope" very truthfully said: "Truth needs no flowers of speech," and to that end the fact of merely announcing that Lewis Morrison will positively appear in his great creation of "Mephisto" in "Faust," in a more elaborate production of Goethe's romance than has ever been our fortune to witness heretofore, is sufficient to assure the public of a performance worthy of the author and actor, for Mr. Morrison is always thorough in all he does and there is a brilliancy in his work which is distinctly Morrisonian. There is no illusion of mawkish melo-dramatic sentimentally in "Faust," it is an absorbing interest obtained and held by the intellectuality of a master mind and which has been molded and dramatized by one who has that "ear mark of genius"—a creative brain. This great drama will be presented at the Lyceum Friday and Saturday night and Saturday afternoon.

Waite's Stock Company.

To give the ladies of Scranton an opportunity to see the magnificent wardrobe worn by Miss Annie Louise Ames at the theater all next week, Harry Yeager, manager for Miss Ames, has arranged to exhibit them on the stage right after the matinee performance next Tuesday, Nov. 1. Any person wishing to examine this work of fashion and art can feel perfectly free to join the many that will undoubtedly take advantage of this one opportunity. At Binghamton, N. Y., last week so many ladies came that the time was used up before one-half could see them and Mr. Yeager was obliged to put them on exhibition later in the week. They are all hand work and one very pretty pink Velutina thirty-two artists worked on before it was finished. Miss Ames has the distinction of having the finest and most costly wardrobe worn by any actress on the American or foreign stage. They were designed and made by Adolph Kriveruk, the court costumer of Vienna, who has made all the apparel worn by the royalty of Austria for the last eight years. They must be seen and examined closely to appreciate the lavish expenditure of money and time put on them. The Waite Stock company will be at the Academy all next week.

"The Jolly Musketeers."

The following dispatch was received last night with reference to "The Jolly Musketeer," which will be seen at the Lyceum next Monday night:

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—Jefferson De Angelis, in "The Jolly Musketeer," opened a week's engagement at the Lafayette Square, Washington's swellest theatre, Monday night with a large and very appreciative audience. The sale of seats for the balance of the week promises to be large. The Post's critic has the following to say of the play: "The era of romanticism is evidently on in opera as well as the dramatic stage, and along with the De Bergeracs, the D'Artagnans, and the Rassendylls, who are crowding the contemporary stage, comes that jolly and musical muskateer, Henri Count de Beaupre. He is an acrobatic D'Artagnan, a low comedy Cyrano, a tuneful Tartarin de Tarascon, but altogether a most entertaining fellow. And there is probably no lyric comedian in the country who could get more fun out of the role than Jefferson De Angelis.

"'The Jolly Musketeer' is in reality a romantic opera, with comedy trimmings, set in that picturesque period when Richelieu ruled France, and altogether it is the best work that Stange and Edwards have yet done."

Rush's Company.

Commencing tonight E. F. Rush's European Sensation Burlesque company of thirty people will be the attraction at the Gaiety, giving matinees Friday and Saturday. This company comes direct from New York, fresh in all the latest musical hits and topics of the day. In addition to an exceedingly strong list of vaudeville talent there are two very smart burlesques, which afford an opportunity for magnificent costuming and some bright songs and dances.

FOOTBALL GAME.

Fierce Struggle Between Princeton and State College.

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 26.—Pennsylvania State college had the Princeton Tigers down to five points in a game this afternoon that exceeded in fierceness any struggle the Tigers have been through this season. Princeton scored a touchdown in the first half with very little opposition from the team from the state. After that the boys from Bellefonte not only kept the Tigers away from their goal but most of the playing was in Princeton territory. The State college employed the University of Pennsylvania "guard's back play" almost entirely and gained during the whole game almost 50 yards in all through the Princeton line by this. The reason for the smallness of the score and Princeton's poor showing in the second helf was due largely to the fact that the field was almost as wet as a duck pond and a strong wind blew directly against Wheeler's punting. Most of the gains on the part of the Tigers were made by end runs by Reiter and Ayres. The latter was credited with the only touchdown.

In the first half Princeton had the ball, after a long run by Ayers, on State's two-yard line but time was called before it could be pushed over.

The game was unusually rough and there were suggestions of slugging on the part of both teams. The line-up was as follows:

Princeton.	Positions.	State College.
Palmer	left end	Ruble
Geer	left tackle	Ross
Booth	center	Murray
Edwards	right guard	Scholl
Hillebrand (Cap).	right tackle	P. Miller
Palmer	right end	Farr
Duncan	quarterback	Heckle
Reiter	left half back	D. Miller
Ayers	right half back	Hewitt
Wheeler	full back	Curo

Umpire—Andrews. Referee—Newton. Timekeeper—Gold. Touchdown—Ayers. Score—Princeton, 5; State College, 0. Attendance—400.

CAUSE OF INDIAN WAR.

Washington, Oct. 26.—Commissioner of Indian Affairs William A. Jones, who has been for a week in Minnesota making negotiations which were successful with the Chippewa Indians, for the resumption of peaceful relations with the government, has returned to Washington and today made a verbal report to Secretary Bliss upon his work. Commissioner Jones says the trouble is attributable to the methods of the whites in the vicinity, who are taking gross advanage of the Indians. In discussing the outbreak he said today:

"The origin of the whole trouble was dissatisfaction with the handling of the Indians' timber, but the immediate cause was irritation at the frequent arrests of Indians for trivial causes, often for no cause at all, taking them down to Duluth and Minneapolis for trial, two hundred miles away from their agency and then turn them adrift without means to return home."

His Dear Wife.

He—I am half dead today.

She—That is just like you. You never do anything thoroughly.—Indianapolis Journal.

THE MARKETS.

Wall Street Review.

New York, Oct. 26.—The stock market showed a tendency to fall into quietude again today, as though in sympathy with the dullness and uncertainty on foreign exchanges. But there was a quiet absorption of standard stocks all through the list and a generally firm tone and marked strength in a few cases, so that the average of prices is quite materially lifted as the result of the day's trading. The exciting cause of the traders activities for the past few days having subsided, the market became comparatively dull today and the traders betook themselves to highly speculative industrials. Tobacco moved feverishly below yesterday's level and sugar above on large transactions, without any definite reason in either case. Total sales were 557,700 shares.
